thin thy sarcred border, said the scounding east, siden, right, and order, securely dwell at ease: d if we lift this beacon bright mong the nations seen to less the Lord who loves the right, and—God preserve the Queen'.

Fair pastures and still waters.
Are outs withal to bless
The thronging sons and daughters
Of exile and dutress.
For who so free, as English hearts
Are, shall be, and have been?
Then, God be thinked on our parts
And—God preserve the Queen!

Though strife, and fear, and madness.
Are raging all around.
There still is peace and gladness.
On British shoty ground:
But not to us the praise—to us.
Ont glory is to learn.
On Ilm who giveth freely thus,
And—God preserve the Queen!

O nation greatly favour doif ever thou shouldst bring
A sacrifice well savour d.
Of prisse to God the King,
Now, now let all thy children raise,
In faith and love serene,
The lovel patriot hymn of praise
Of-God preserve the Queen!
