STRATHCONA'S

GREAT CAREER

Something About The Man

Who is to Retire as Canada's

High Commissioner in Lon-

Canada is never likely again to have such a high commissioner as Lord Strathcona, whose early retirement is announced. The conditions of life in this country today are not calculated to produce such men. Strathcona has seen this country develop from a wilderness to a great nation, and he has witnessed the transformation, while those who follow him will see only the growth. Chances there will still be for penniless youth to attain almost fabulous wealth, but the working on the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific may rise to be the financial adviser of kings and one of the great industrialists of the Empire. But the days of the wilderness have passed away forever, and hardly a handful remains of the pioneers who like Strathcona, laid the foundations of this nation. Of those who survive, the retiring high commissioner and his predecessor, Sir Charles Tupper, are the most distinguished. Both have passed their 60th birthday.

In his "Remarkable History of the Hudson's Bay Company," Professor George Bryce writes as follows of Lord Strathcona: "Most notable among the officers of the first rank who have conducted the fur trade in Labrador is Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the present governor of the company. Coming out at eighteen, Donald Alexander Smith, a well educated Scottish lad, related to Peter and Cuthbert Grant and to the brothers John and James Stuart, prominent officers whose deeds in the North-West Company are still remembered, the future governor began his career in the region of Hudson's Bay and Labrador. Rising to the rank of chief trader after fourteen years in the service, he reached in ten years more the apex of his career, every aspirant in the company, the rank of chief factor. His years on the coast of Labrador, at Rigoletto, and its subordinate stations were most laborious."

"The writer has had the privilege from time to time of hearing his tales of the long journeys along the frozen coast; of camping on frozen islands without shelter; of storm-stayed journeys rivaling the recitals of Balzac and Dumas; of cold receptions by the Moravians and of the doubtful hospitalities of both Indians and Eskimos. Every stage of his career is recounted with a graphic and colorful style. He has lived for thirty years leaving no stone unturned in his high place in the affairs of the Hudson's Bay Company."

If he would, Strathcona could tell such a moving tale as Odysseus poured into the ear of Desdemona and some of his of comrades in the service of the company say that there is nothing he likes better than to recall the hard days of his life when they lived like Robinson Crusoe in the northern wilderness. It was those lonely, strenuous years that developed the character that was to fit Strathcona for the duties of a maker of Canada in the days soon to come.

When Rupert's Land was transferred by the Hudson's Bay Company to Canada, Donald Smith's political career began. For the trifling sum of £300,000 the company surrendered all claim on a territory of 2,300,000 square miles; but its goodwill was not thrown in. The Metis strongly objected to the change of ownership, and the company did not use its influence to secure the title of the new landowners. Under Rell, the Indians and halfbreeds broke out in rebellion. They seized Fort Gary, near Winnipeg, and endeavored to organize the government appointed Donald Smith as a commissioner to investigate the trouble. The negotiations have been an extremely delicate character, for the lives of 50 white prisoners were at stake. The commissioner was well qualified to deal with the Indians, however, and eventually peace was restored. Several years in parliament followed, and those were the years in which the foundations of the west, and indeed, of all Canada, were laid by the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Smith was recognized as the great authority on Western conditions and his political reputation grew. His fortune also mounted rapidly, and as the Hudson's Bay Company had made him a rich man, the Canadian Pacific Railway made him a rich man. He became Sir Donald Smith, and later on was raised to the peerage as Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal. Under that title he has become recognized as one of the greatest philanthropists in the British Empire, one of his most signal services being the raising and equipping of the Strathcona Horse that did so much honor to his name and to Canada in the South African War. His great work for Canada as High Commissioner in the past twelve years can hardly be overestimated, and all Canadians must profoundly regret that he is obliged to relinquish his post.

For Petawawa, a detachment of 120 men and 15 officers of the 3rd N. B. Regiment Artillery will leave tomorrow via the I. C. R. for Petawawa, Ont., for their long range.

St. Paul's Episcopal church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening the marriage taking place of Miss Viola Clarke, daughter of Mrs. William Clarke and John Lea, of Moncton, manager of the Sackville Woodworkers Ltd. for the past year. THE SACKVILLE LETTER

AGRICULTURAL PICNIC HELD ON

Grounds of B. M. Fawcett;

Upper Sackville—Interesting

Program at School Closing

Sackville, July 5.—The town was quieter than usual on Dominion Day. The excursion to the Sackville Corral Band attracted large numbers to this popular summer resort. It was the first excursion of the season and was taxed to its utmost to supply the demand. Many P. E. Islanders visited the cape during the day, adding to the beauty of the scene. The band's treasury has been increased by a considerable sum as a result of the successful picnic. The boy scouts spent the day at the Sackville where they report a most enjoyable visit to the patrol of that town.

Several private picnics were held to favorite resorts near town.

Members of the golf club spent the day on the links where interesting matches were played and medals and prizes received by fortunate players. Tea was served at the clubhouse. Several of our citizens visited the scene of the horse races, Moncton, and the rifle association held their monthly shoot on the range.

Miss Julia Colpitts, M. A., assistant professor of mathematics at Iowa university is at her home in Point de Bute.

Rev. Dr. Rogers who goes to Gower street church, St. John's, Nfld., fared well to his congregation in the Methodist church, St. John's, Nfld., on Tuesday. Mrs. Rogers was presented with a dozen sterling silver teaspoons and a $15 dollar gold piece as a small remembrance of her year spent in energetic church work in Sackville.

A successful farmers picnic was held on Thursday afternoon on the grounds of B. M. Fawcett, Upper Sackville. Those present numbered over 500, all the adjoining villages being represented. A special train ran from Sackville and many were conveyed to a genuine luncheon on Morris' Pond. The Sackville and Westmorland Agricultural Society were in charge of the undertaking.

P. W. George, president of the society, called the gathering to order, extended a hearty welcome to all and introduced the speakers, who were called to the rostrum in the following order: Mr. W. H. Humphrey, Mr. H. Barnes, Mr. F. J. Giggie, Mr. R. A. March, Mr. J. M. Wilson, Mr. Dr. Stephen G. Ritchie, wife and two children, arrived from Halifax on Saturday. The family will remain with Mrs. Ritchie's parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Evans, for the summer months. Dr. Ritchie returned to Halifax on Monday.

Dr. E. N. Wilson, drove through from St. George to Hampton in his new automobile, a fine interstate machine, on Monday and expects to return on Friday or Saturday. While here the machine has been thoroughly overhauled by experienced machinists who speak highly of construction and excellence.

Miss Hazel Flewelling, Douglas Avenue, Master Dudley B. March, Coburg street, and Master Gordon Scott, all of St. John, are spending a part of their holidays with relatives here.

Mrs. J. M. Barnes, Mrs. Goddard, and Miss Helen Goddard, of the Wayside Inn, as also are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner and their son, W. B. Tennant and family, H. P. Hayward and family, D. Walker and party, John Leonard and friends were among autoists at Hampton last Saturday and Sunday.

Walter Duncan of Sackville and E. Sears of Moncton. The groom presented to the bride was a sunburst of pearls, to the flower girls pearl tiaras, to the organist a brooch and to the ushers pearl stick pins. The honeymoon is being spent in Upper Canada cities.
