N. A. Knapp, of Winchester (Mass.), who is one of the best judges of poultry in the New England states, has judged the poultry exhibits at St. John for three years and to'd The Telegraph yesterday that the poultry exhibits had improved with each year. "In the cooping and in the quality of the birds I notice a great improvement from two years ago," said Mr. Knapp. "They have a fine display of white Wyandottes and some very handsome Partridge Cochins and a large display of Minercas and game fowl. It is certainly one of the great attractions of
