

who is Professor of Civil Engineering at the University of Saskatchewan, and Lieut. Colonel T. G. Tyrer, E.D., S.L.S. These articles undoubtedly will prove to be the source of much interest and value to all members of the Force. Corporal Lett's article also will be read with much interest. The article by A/Corporal Thrasher is timely, and is worthy of close study by all interested members.

* * *

The inclusion of three new departments has been authorized by the Commissioner, notifications of which appear on other pages. A Radio Club and Photographic Club are in the early stages of formation, and will be sponsored by the Quarterly. The "Question Box" is a particularly interesting feature, and is dealt with farther on.

* * *

This issue has been brought out by a new editor. It is only appropriate that mention be made on this page of the three years' untiring effort and interest which our predecessor brought to the Quarterly. Any form of "eulogy" would be superfluous—the results speak for themselves. Under such editorship, the Magazine has advanced to the point where it is considered by most competent authorities to be outstanding in its class and field.

It is our desire to maintain this high level. Two factors contribute to the realization of this desire—wholehearted effort on the part of the Editorial Committee, and wholehearted co-operation from all members of the Force. Please be assured of the former. Of the latter, it need only be said that the Quarterly is, after all, the organ of the R.C.M. Police. As our official publication it should present, apart from its instructional content, a graphic, lucid picture of the current activities of the Force. All members of the Force are engaged in these activities—our duties are many and varied. If the Quarterly is to speak for and to the Force, it follows that the bulk of the material should be written or compiled by members who possess the ability to express themselves on paper.

Interesting articles on any phase or aspect of our work will be received with pleasure, and accorded the most sympathetic consideration. The July issue now is being made up. This issue, commemorating as it will the visit of Their Majesties, will be of interest for many years to come. Any material which will tend to enhance the value of this particular edition will be most welcome.

Prize Winning Articles—January Edition

THE EDITORIAL COMMITTEE extend their congratulations to the following members of the Force who have been awarded prizes of $15. and $10. for the two best articles published in the January edition of the Quarterly Magazine:

Constable A. E. Thomas—1st. Prize—The Morbid Obsession.

Constable L. H. Nevin—2nd. Prize—Northern Service.