Letters to NewsRecord

ANOTHER OPINION ON DEMOCRACY
Editor, News Record:

Your readers have waited in vain for Mr. John F. MacKay's letter on democracy as it pertains to booze. It is not unlikely that this wait will continue indefinitely for the specific reason that democracy and booze are incompatible—they do not mix. In his two efforts on the question Mr. MacKay has exhibited a desultory rambling, a sidestepping of the real issue, an indulgence in a vague sort of personalities, and a few far fetched conclusions without any proof therefore. His finale always promises more light on the subject. Here's hoping.

In contrast to such mundane efforts let us again quote ex-president W. H. Taft of the U.S.A. Mr. Taft is one of this continent's greatest constitutional lawyers and brings to bear upon the subject a trained mind, an extensive and varied experience, and an observation extending over many years of his own life in his own sensitive, progressive native country. He says, "The people have spoken. This is democracy. The amendment has been adopted and with all good citizens, I am strongly in favor of the enactment of the most practical laws to secure the rigid enforcement of the declarations of the amendment. This is the duty of every citizen in a democracy. A citizen who is in favor of the enforcement of only the laws for which he has voted, and in the principle and wisdom of which he agrees, is not a law abiding citizen of a democracy. He is something of an autocrat. He is willing to govern but not to be governed. He is not willing to play the game according to the rules of the game."

As in 1894 and again in 1902 the people of Ontario spoke in no uncertain terms condemning the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. It is quite evident then that the minority ruled in Ontario for these last twenty-five years and it is about time the principles of democracy were asserted. The people of Ontario have but two alternatives—the abject surrender of their inherent right of self government or the national annihilation of the liquor traffic. Between such a choice free men cannot hesitate.

From time immemorial leaders of men have been strong exponents of absolute prohibition of the demoralizing traffic in alcoholic beverages. In Herodotus; Lycurgus, the Spartan law giver; Solon; Confucius; Zoroaster; Pythagoras; Moses and Mahomet were all total abstainers from intoxicating liquors and enjoined this principle upon their followers. From St. Paul, St. Augustine, St. Francis of Assisi, Martin Luther, and John Wesley have come the strongest denunciations against allowing the traffic in any civilized state.

But the democracies of the nineteenth century have greatly extended total abstinence among all classes of people and attacked the trafficking menace by more vital methods. Everywhere now the youth are trained in total abstinence, not anymore by voluntary organizations but by order of and at the expense of the public educational systems. To-day the medical profession as a body are exceedingly active in their propaganda against the use of intoxicants. Science consistently condemns alcohol as its beverage. Labor leaders and the heads of large industrial concerns unite in their endeavor to encourage abstinence in the interest of the individuals concerned and also for the general advancement of industry and national well being. In the scientific, political and religious life of the people it has been repeatedly proven that intoxicants are a hindrance to all advancement, while total abstinence is recognized as a sure sign of progress and stability. To-day national leaders everywhere have adopted total abstinence as a principle of life and have derived enormous advantage therefrom. All these facts are well known. They cannot be refuted, and yet in the face of all this and much more that could be said, Mr. MacKay wants to raise his weak argument backed by his own weak and rambling conjectures against the overwhelming odds. As well try and champion the traffic in human flesh and blood; highway robbery, brigandage, polygamy, absinth, opium et al. Their day is gone; so also is booze.

The question naturally rises—why this intense loyalty and subservience to the liquor interests that conspire against everything good? Let Mr. MacKay tell us without any verbose flow of words on non essential side issues why he camouflages the millstone of booze with the principle of personal liberty.

Mr. MacKay should know if he knows anything about democracy and personal liberty that men and women living in a civilized state of society and enjoying its benefits and advantages must pay for it by a surrender of many of their predilections for the welfare of society.

Gen. Booth put it tersely "Others." Our Motherland in her Bill of Rights declares it thusly "Government is constituted for the protection, safety, prosperity and happiness of the people, and not for the profit of private interests of any one man, family or class of men." All the foremost nations of the world have copied and declared those same terms—Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The personal liberty advocated by Mr. MacKay's type of democracy is pure selfishness and its resultant end is too well known. It has often been exhibited in drunken brawls that immediately end in the police court, and destined a train of crime, pauperism, insanity, suicide, murder, premature death and economic waste. Nobody wants it. It is not democracy or personal liberty. Personal liberty and democracy stand for the duty of good citizens in every country to see that no evil is permitted to continue which undermines the home, makes void the work of educational forces and mitigates against the physical and moral well being and industrial prosperity of the people.

The liquor traffic is the direct antithesis of personal liberty and democracy in that it is widely admitted to produce just such an evil effect. Therefore it most needs be the duty of every patriot to use his influence and citizenship to apply the final and complete remedy, viz., nation-wide and international prohibition of the traffic in intoxicants. All for the good of the nation and home. W. A. Brauer, U.S.A. (1913) puts the whole matter in a nutshell thusly:

"We are living in an age of altruism, the greatest word in our vocabulary is 'Brotherhood' It is reaching out toward the common good of all men. We are learning that every man is his brother's brother. That manhood is worth more than money; that the greatest wealth of a nation consists, not in material things, but in a clean, noble and efficient citizenship, and that Government should give its protection to no traffic that injures or destroys its citizens."

It may interest Mr. MacKay to learn what the leaders of the opposition to prohibition have to say. A careful study of the following, a part of a leading editorial in the National Liquor Dealers' Journal September 10, 1913, should inspire every enemy of the liquor business with a spirit of confidence concerning the wisdom of the strong fight waged by democracy loving people for their rights.

"Ultimately all questions must be settled by moral standards; saved in this way can mankind be saved from self-effacement. The liquor traffic cannot save itself by declaring the government is incapable of coping with the problem it presents; when the people decide that it must go, it will be banished. We are not discussing the benefit of justice of prohibition; but its possibility, and its probability in present circumstances. To us there is 'The handwriting on the wall,' and its interpretation spells doom. For this liquor business is to blame. It seems incapable of learning any lesson of advancement, or any motive but profit. To perpetuate itself, it has formed alliances with the slums that repel all conscientious and patriotic citizens. It deliberately aids the most corrupt political powers, and backs with all its resources the most unworthy men, the most corrupt and recreant officials. It does not aid the purification of municipal, State or national administration. Why? Because it has to ask immunity for its own lawlessness. That this condition is inherently and inevitably necessary we do not believe, but it has come to be a fact, and the public which is to pass on the matter in its final analysis believe anything but that anybody can tell it of the liquor business. Why? Let the leaders of the trade answer. Other lines of business may be as bad, or even worse, but it is not so plainly in evidence. The case of the liquor traffic is called for adjudication by the American people and must be ready for trial. Other cases may be called later, but the one before the court cannot be postponed. But, as in the past, the men most concerned are playing for postponement, not for acquittal. Is it because they fear the weakness of their defense that they fear to go on trial? Looking the facts in the face is best. There are billions of property involved, and an industry of great employing and taxpaying ability; but when the people decide that the truth is being told about the alcoholic liquor trade, the money value will not count, for conscience aroused puts the value of a man above other things."

We will be pleased to have Mr. MacKay criticize these arguments. We are ready to defend them but as far as foolish personalities, we say—taboo.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, for the use of this valuable space, I am Sincerely yours, Edgar D. Heist.
