HUMOROUS.

A beautiful example of the force of habit is to see John fill his glass at the hydrant and dreamily blow the froth off the innocent water before drinking.

"What do you mean by humbugging, madam?" asked an ugly barrister of an old lady he was cross-examining. "I don't know as I can exactly say, sir; but if a lady was to say to you that you're a handsome man, that would be what I'd call humbugging."

"When a stranger treats one with a want of respect," said a poor philosopher, "I comfort myself with reflecting that it is not myself he slights, but my old and shabby coat and shabby hat, which to say the truth, have no particular claim to adoration." tion. So if my hat and coat choose to fret about it, let them: but it is nothing to me."

An impudent plea was that put forward by a tramp for robbing a miser. "Shure, your Worship," said he, "an' we're tould in the Bible that the way for a man to get to heaven is to sell all he has an' give the money to the poor; an' this mean old cratur 'ud never have done that of his own accord. So I just helped him on the good road myself, and sould all I took, an' give the money to the poor accordingly. Anyhow, I gave it to myself, ye see; an', faith, I'm as poor as a starved-out robin."

Light, Not Noise.

One of the members of the bar in Saratoga, who thoroughly enjoys a good joke, relates the following, and applies the moral to himself: He was counsel in a case before Judge Pratt, referee, and dur-ing the progress of the trial became a little ing the progress of the trial became a little bit noisy, as he sometimes does, when the Judge looked up and said to him: "Mr.—, did you ever hear of the man who was lost in the woods during a thunder storm?" On bei g answered in the negative, the Judge continued: "A man, in attempting to pass through a piece of woods, lost his way, and while he was in that predicament a fearful thunder storm. woods, lost his way, and while he was in that predicament a fearful thunder storm came up. The woods grew awfully dark. The roaring of the wind and the crashing of the thunder were terrific. The man was frightened and started to pray, but, not being used to that business, said: 'Oh, Lord, give us a little more light, and a little less noise!' I don't mean you, Mr.—," added the Judge, but the audience supposed all the time that the Judge did mean him, and now that he thinks of it. mean him, and now that he thinks of it himself he inclines to that opinion also.

They Wanted to Live in the Stars.

From the Burlington Hawkeye.

Very near us sat two young people. He wore the face of a man who shaves three times a day, and that white necktie had never seen the starlight before. There was pearl powder on the shoulder of his coat, and a tender, dreamy look in her lovely eyes. They sat and looked up at the stars, and they didn't care for any solitary thing any dearer to this earth. "Mortimer," she murmured softly—"Mortimer, though I couldn't learn whether it was his front name or his after name—"Mortimer, dear," she said, "if we could only live apart from this busy and sordid. From the Burlington Hawkeye. "Mortimer, dear," she said, "if we could only live apart from this busy and sordid, unsympathetic world, in one of yon glittering orbs of golden radiance, living apart from all else, only for each other, forgetting the base things of earthly life, the coarse greed of the world and its animal instinate, that would be our heaven, would it part deer ?" would it not, dear ?"

would it not, dear?"

And Mortimer, he said that it would.
"There, heart of my own," he said, and his voice trembled with earnestness, "my own darling Ethel, through all the softened radiance of the day and all the shimmering tenderness of night, our lives would pass away in an exalted atmosphere above the base-born wants of earthly mortals, and far beyond the chattering crowd that lives but for to-day, our lives, refined beyond the common ken—"

And just then the man with the gong came out. Mortimer, he made a grab at Ethel's hand and a plunge for the cabin door. Ethel just gathered her skirts with her other hand, Jumprd clear over the back of her chair and after him, and away they went chattering down the cabin, upback of her chair and after him, and away they went chattering down the cabin, upset a chair, ran into a good, sweet old Quaker lady, and banged a bad word out of her before she had time to stop it; down the stairs they rushed, collared a couple of chairs at the nearest table, feed a waiter, and opened the action without skirmishing. I am a man of coarse mould and an earth-born appetite myself, and I wouldn't live in a star so long as I could find a good hotel in America; but long, long before I could get seats at the table for my family, Mortimer and Ethel had eaten two bluefish, a little rare beefsteak, some corn bread, a plate of hot cakes, two boiled eggs, and a bunch of onions, and the waiter had gone out to toast them some cheese.
