ERRATA.—Mr. Editor.—A few typographical errors appeared in my letter of last week which not only rendered my meaning unintelligible, but in two instances made me say the opposite of what I meant. Allow me to reproduce a sentence or two "I cannot but think that all Official Boards will sustain the Committee if they refuse every Candidate rather than any further diminution of the claims of men of families shall take place." Another sentence greatly marred I pass over. Had your compositor said "Let the comfort in which many of them (the Fathers of our church) passed away bear witness to this wisdom you would have had my meaning." Again in the last paragraph I am made to say, "We will be required to revise all causes of controversy and complaint. It should have been removed.

Your's &c., G. W. TUTTLE.

Dear Sir.—There is a rather awkward misprint in my last letter. Mr. Stephenson is represented "as a somewhat worthy person" it should be somewhat poorly. I can assure your readers that he is also very worthy and much respected.
Your's &c., H. R. S.

The case of the notorious Pomeroy boy is discussed in a recent number of the Medical and Surgical Journal. There are five recognized forms of mental alienation, and Dr. Folsom, an expert in mental diseases, finds that Pomeroy shows no symptoms of being subject to any of them. The doctor thinks that medical science is unable to discover why his mental condition should be urged to save him from the ordinary penalty of his crime.

According to the "Methodist," the circulation of official Methodist papers in the families of that church does not equal one paper in five families. If this is correct it does not show a large circulation of the Methodist papers, in proportion to the membership of the church.

Before the Prince of Wales went to India the princes that court were informed that the only gifts he would receive would be trifling ones, coming under the head of the arts and manufactures of their different districts. But it is the customs of the people of India, when on terms of friendship, to lavish presents, although a sort of exchange is expected. The royal prince took out with him sundry elegant gifts to bestow in exchange for what might be offered him—a wise forethought for he will carry from India valuable treasures. The presents will be personal property of the Prince of Wales.

MR. MOODY has set at rest the question whether his labors and those of his associate are peculiarly profitable to them. At one of his closing meetings in Philadelphia he made this statement: "Last night I heard it said that we received one cent from every photograph of us that is sold in the streets. I would gladly pay one cent for every one rather than have them sold. I have refused to have a photograph taken for eight years, and I do not know whether these pictures look more like you than me. We receive a dollar's worth upon the our hands, but not a dollar's worth comes into our hands. It goes to a committee composed of GEORGE H. STUART, of Philadelphia, WILLIAM E. DODGE, of New York, and others. We intend to give a thousand dollars toward the new building of the Young Men's Christian Association. We don't want your money; we want your souls. We shall not take a farthing from the committee; our services have been gratuitous."

Cardinal ANTONELLI, the Pope's political secretary, has been reported to be ill, but is now recovering. The Pope is in the hands of the Lord.

VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM.

THIS standard remedy for coughs and colds and other pulmonary and bronchial ailments, was first put before the public in 1836 and ever since then, a period of half a century it has maintained and increased its reputation. In the meantime, probably thousands of the so-called cough remedies, under every conceivable name, have been pushed and their day and most of them sank into the oblivion from which they never should have emerged to cheat invalids with false hopes of cure. Though no infallible virtues are claimed for this medicine, it is not just to say that it possesses the following excellencies:—

1. On many cases of cough it exerts an almost specific remedial influence, and the cases are very few which it quite fails to benefit. Long standing cases and those of aged persons are almost always greatly relieved.
2. Its action is speedy and pleasant; its taste is not disagreeable; and its dose is small. The last point is sure to be appreciated by the invalid.
3. It has received medical sanction, and has been frequently prescribed by some of our leading physicians.

ADD to the above that, when the smallness of its dose is considered, it is even cheaper than the common 25 cent Cough Drops and Syrups, of the Dispensaries. This remedy has held its way and attained its present reputation by its own merit, with little aid from advertisement, and has an established sale, and those who know it will always use it when they need such aid. But while our climate remains what it is, the army of sufferers from throat and lung complaints will always be a large one, and continually reinforced by new recruits. That all such may be acquainted with this reliable medicine is the aim of this advertisement.
