Redner's Hall Crowded to Hear Farmers Tell Their Side of Politics

ment of the Conservative and Liberal parties, both striving for power. He defied anyone to point to a single piece of legislation of the Drury administration, that savored of class legislation.

He claimed that Premier Meighen was trying to stampede the country with the fear of free trade. "All we ask is tariff for revenue, not tariff to make millionaires," said Mr. Malory. "There is not a single plank in the platform of the Progressive Party in favor of absolute free trade."

He turned to the control of the business of the country and asked why a farmer received only one dollar and a half for a hide and when he wanted a pair of boots had to pay an exorbitant price. "The manufacturer is not willing to take the loss the farmer is. In the past year there has been a drop of fifty per cent in the prices of farm produce."

There are ten or twelve here from Bloomfield tonight, irrespective of party affiliations. We are up against the big fight and we believe there is an opportunity to elect Mr. Anderson."

The work of Hon. Nelson Parliament for the riding and for Ameliasburgh in particular was praised by Mr. Walter Clarke. He spoke of the achievement of the free bay bridge which would save thousands of dollars to the people of Prince Edward.

Farmers no Longer Slaves.

"I always voted against high protection, and I believe the U.F.O. Government is working honestly for the masses of the people."

"Some think the farmers should be only serfs and slaves. I think differently."

He likened the United Farmers to the pioneers, who cleared the forests and reared their families under great handicaps and thought that future generations would praise the men who stepped out of their party for the good of the country. "All we want as farmers is fair representation. Who thinks we want all lawyers and doctors at Ottawa?" was his parting question.

The candidate made a typical speech in advocacy of the agrarian proposals. "The parties think we are fit only to run a farm," said Mr. Anderson. "But we find that ninety per cent of the men who succeed in business, were reared on the farm. There are, it is claimed, few families that exist in the big cities for three generations without the importation of the fresh blood from the farm. There is something about the rural life that makes for virility."

"I stand four square for the principle of temperance in the farmers' platform. We could not have succeeded in the movement if it had not been for the vote of the country districts."

Referring to the recall principle he asked how many men would stay year after year at Ottawa if the recall was adopted.

"The prime minister is the only one talking free trade. If he had a sound platform he would not spend his time attacking us. We believe in tariff for revenue only."

"The farmers are carrying a heavy burden. The rural population has decreased over fifty per cent in the past 28 years. Today over half of the men on the farms without help are over fifty years of age. Where will this lead in time? It does not make so much difference to the farmer but it will to the country at large and to the residents of the cities."

Burden on the Farmer.

"Mr. Meighen demanded free implements in 1910. That's where we stand today. The tariff allows the collection of $750,000,000 annually of which only about $35,000,000 goes into the government treasury. The rest, $665,000,000 goes to make millionaires. This puts a burden of three hundred dollars on the farmer annually and one hundred on the workingman."

Mr. Anderson said that at the next meeting he would tell why he left the old party and relate the story of the party campaign funds.

Mrs. Yarwood told of the growth of interest in politics in her case and referred to the load which the farmer is carrying. "We farmers are a proud people and so proud that we would not let one another know how poor we are."

Deeper Than Party.

There was something deeper than party that the country was up against and that was human greed. She contended that politicians cared little about rural depopulation. "Indeed they would be satisfied to see foreigners take our places for they would be more easy to manage than we are or are going to be."

Mr. Clayton Burr pleaded for farmer representation in parliament. A farmer can represent the farmers best. The tariff is not the only issue. "There is the moral issue of prohibition and social reform."

"Newspapers always mention a man's politics and his religion in obituaries," said Mr. Halford, wondering why the same information was not engraved on the monuments in the cemeteries. "You cannot keep thought in one channel. When injustice enters, men of strong minds break away. Sinister influences are engineering the parties and the farmers' movement is the result of the desire to get away from them."

He predicted that the great cry against the farmers would be the loyalty cry but that should not count.

Among the other speakers were Mr. Gough, Mr. Hyatt and Mrs. Spencer.

"We are not fighting for our own rights alone," advised Mr. Hyatt. "What about the laboring man in the cities? He's getting soaked like the rest of us. The fight was one for right. What matter if the farmer lost any particular election, as long as he stood for principle?"

Alleged Cannerns Combine.

Mr. Hyatt exposed the cannerns' combine, telling how he was an independent cannern for over ten years and how for two years he was in the combine, and then got out. In one of these two years the profits were over one hundred per cent, and the pack was reduced on understanding to keep up the prices.

"How can we correct this condition?" he asked. "We can beat them to it by lowering the tariff and making competition."

He urged the taking of criminal proceedings in Ontario against men who could be shown to have stolen public resources. "We are out preaching the square deal."

There was a good turnout of women electors.

Messrs. E. Russell and Clayton Burr added to the entertainment of the evening by instrumental and vocal numbers. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl, of this city, motored to Kingston and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fair.

Mr. H. G. Bleeker was taken ill while down town yesterday and was removed to his home. He is some better today.

Mr. C. U. Wilson, east of Trenton, has sold his forty-acre farm for $5,500 and is moving to his ten-acre lot at Bayside.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Allen, Lakefield, Ont., announce the engagement of their second daughter, Marjorie Lillian, to Mr. Steve Martin, Kingston, the marriage to take place October 31st.

At a wedding in a London parish church recently the bridegroom, Captain J. S. Munro, carried a horseshoe of heather, while his bride, Miss Page had an armful of lilies. If bouquets for bridegrooms become a custom, it would at least solve for the bashful man the problem of what to do with his hands.

Mr. John Elliott was in Toronto on Monday presiding at a special meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, when final arrangements were made for the Annual Meeting, to be held in Brantford on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 17th and 18th, at which a large attendance is expected.

Princess Victoria, the King's unmarried sister, has not the affection for a holiday in the Highlands that other members of the Royal Family have, and it is said she rarely travels north and then only for a few days. Her Royal Highness, after making a short stay with her uncle, the Duke of Connaught, at Bagshot Park, has been the guest of Sir Harold and Lady Nutting at Brocksford Hall.

Lady Diana Duff-Cooper has set a new fashion in hair-dressing, at least she is one of its leading exponents. The hair is cut short at the side, and the rest is rolled into a knot at the back, a sort of compromise with "bobbing." Lady Diana further ties the thickest part back with a little girl bow of inch-wide gold-edged ribbon over one ear.

Jan. Campbell, of Essex, was killed at Sandwich when a motor car crashed into another parked at the curb.

Gas Up 2 Cents as Season is Ending

Now that the general motor season is drawing to a close, the motorist will not likely grumble much at the advance in the price of gasoline. It is now selling in Belleville at thirty-seven cents, which is an increase of two cents. This price is still as reasonable as that charged in almost any city in the country. "Gas" had been declining in price for the past few months until thirty-five cents was reached. Oil has not been affected.

This drive upwards is the usual occurrence at this time of the year. Around some of the "gas" stations further advances are predicted, some men hinting at forty-five cents.
