GULF FLIGHT SAILS

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Sailly, Eng., June 10.—The American tank steamer Gulf Light which was torpedoed by a German submarine off the Scilly Islands, May 1, and for the damage to which the German government has offered to pay an indemnity sailed from St. Marys for Rouen yesterday under her own steam. When hit by the torpedo the Gulf Light was on her way from Port Arthur, Texas, for Rouen with a cargo of oil. The steamer after she was torpedoed anchored in Crow Sound and later was taken to St. Marys Roads. The German government, in reporting on the attack, said it was due to a mistake of the submarine commander.

TRAWLER SUNK

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, June 10.—The Grimsby steam trawler Nottingham, was sunk in the North Sea by the shell fire of a German submarine. The crew was saved.

BERLIN SAYS ONE

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Berlin, June 10.—Only one German submarine in the naval engagement of June 5, in the Baltic Sea off the Gulf of Riga, according to reliable information obtained here. It is stated that a German destroyer, which was sailing by the side of the collier, was slightly damaged by the same torpedo, but was able to port. Details were made of a report published in the Army Messenger at Petrograd that there were explosions on other vessels attacked by the Russian submarines, or that any other damage was done.

HERO'S STORY OF AIR VICTORY

Lieut. Warneford Describes How He Smashed the Zeppelin.

Northern France, June 10.—A conqueror on the staff of the Northern France Journal, Le Telegramme, had the good fortune yesterday to meet Lieut. Warneford after his return safe and sound from his splendid hawking of the giant Zeppelin in the air between Ghent and Brussels. They had a little talk. Warneford was delightfully modest, and didn't want to say much about his exploit, which he declared just happened to come his way in the fortune of war.
"A most charming very young gentleman, this Sous-Lieutenant Warneford," says the Journal, "is the brief pen picture of the hero. He was most prudently reserved and spoke as men of action do speak, with no wealth of words.
"He said that three of them, Lieutenants J. P. Wilson, J. Mills and himself set off the night before upon an air reconnaissance. They started in the dark with only their compasses to guide them. At about half past three in the morning they found themselves in the vicinity of the north of Brussels. Coming down a little lower they were able to distinguish a big Zeppelin hangar at Evere.
"My companions, Wilson and Mills," said Warneford, "then rose a little higher until they were exactly over the hangar. Then one after the other they threw their bombs. Several found their mark, and I saw a long flame shoot out from the hangar, but whether there was a Zeppelin inside or not I couldn't say. Having thrown their bombs, my companions continued their flight, turning high in the air and making for their own camp.
RESERVED AMMUNITION
"I reserved myself and my ammunition for further adventures. I proceeded on my journey at an increased height. It was just on 3 o'clock in the morning, when all of a sudden I perceived on the horizon about midway between Ghent and Brussels a Zeppelin flying fast at a height of about 6,000 feet. I immediately flew towards it, and when I was almost over the monster I descended about 15 metres and flung six bombs. All six struck the engine of the 'ship fair and square in the middle. There was instantly a terrible explosion, and the displacement of air around about me was so great that a tornado seemed to have been produced.
"My machine tossed upward, and then flung absolutely upside down. I was forced to loop the loop in spite of myself. I thought for a moment that the end of everything had come.
"In the whirl I had the pleasure of seeing my victim falling to earth in a cloud of flame and smoke. Then by some miracle my machine righted itself, and I came to earth in the enemy's country. I was not long on the ground, you may be sure. I speedily put myself and my machine into working order once again. Then I set the engine going, but now," continued the young man, with a contented smile, "I can say no more, for here is my lunch, and I am hungry."

Captain of Interned Ship Caught Leaving

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Paris, June 10.—The captain of the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich had been arrested while disguised as a cook aboard an Italian steamer, says an Algerian despatch to the Havas agency.
Commander Thierichens of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich interned his vessel at Newport News on the night of April 7. He and his officers gave their parole to the United States authorities thereby agreeing not to leave American soil, although they had the freedom of the country. There has been no previous intimation that he had left the United States.

VANDERBILT'S BODY.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, June 10.—A report has been received here from Ireland that the body of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who lost his life May 7, when the Lusitania went down, has been found. The body was found by an old woman, who was collecting seaweed on the Clare coast near Doolin, north of the cliffs of Moher. A watch in the clothing is said to bear the initials of Mr. Vanderbilt, and papers in the pockets would appear to identify him.

WIRELESS INTERCEPTED

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Paris, June 10.—A report issued by Admiral Thaon di Revel, chief of the Italian naval staff, shows that Austrian wireless messages are intercepted regularly by the Italians, says a special despatch from Rome. The Italians have been able to obtain this information, which is of immense military value, by the use of a new device invented by Guglielmo Marconi. The device is said to make it impossible for the Austrians to intercept Italian messages.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

London, June 10.—Premier announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the total of British casualties from the beginning of the war, to May 1, was 258,000 men in killed, wounded and missing.
Divided into categories of killed, wounded and missing, officers and men, the list shows the following:
Officers—Killed 3,327; wounded 6,498 and missing 1,130.
Other Ranks—Killed 47,015; wounded 147,482, and missing 52,617.
Totals—Killed, 50,342; wounded, 153,980; missing, 53,747.
The losses in the naval division are not included in this list.
Mr. Asquith's statement of losses was for the continental and Mediterranean forces of the empire. He promised to give the losses in the naval division later. Neither did the list of yesterday include the forces of Great Britain engaged in the various smaller wars in Africa and the Near East.
