International Bible Lesson for To-Morrow—"How Jacob became a Prince with God."—Gen. 32, 1-32.

Golden Text-"Men ought always to pray and not to faint."

Jacob had fled from home to escape Esau's anger; this God overrules for his good. He reaps, through Laban's deceptions, as he had sown, being re-minded from Laban's treatment how he had treated Esau, whom he is now to face on his return. But God delivers him in his extremity and in answer to prayer and faith blesses him. This great schemer becomes a chang-ed man-he met God alone in this blessed trouble and surrendered spirit, soul and body to Him. Mark the results in chapter 33. What a grand econciliation between these two brothers, when self is overcome by the grace of God. Are we reconciled to God and our brethren?

HHHHHHHHHH

Mr. Sheldon was the principal merchant in the important manufacturing town of Tormont. He was proud of his wealth, but he was still more proud of the fact that he had made it all himself, and his pride was greatest because he had made it by never allowing anybody to get ahead of

That's the secret of success in life, Harry, he said one day to his favorite to rise. I don't mean you should cheat. That of course is both wrong and ungentlemanly. Mr. Sheldon prided himself also on being what he clerk. Sharp's the motto if you wish called a gentleman and above all little meannesses. But always be wide awake and never let anybody cheat you. I've noticed, by the bye, that you've seemed rather down-hearted lately. If it's because you've your fortune yet to make, don't despair, but follow my advice. An opening will come at some time for some thing better than a clerkship, and though I shall be sorry to lo yet I'll give you up if it's for your interest. Thank you, said Harry, apparently not a bit cheered up by this cool way of being told he had nothing to expect from Mr. Sheldon, but it's not exactly that. I suppose I shall get along somehow. What is it, my dear boy, then? I really take an interest in you, as you know. And he did so far as words were concerned. Perhaps I can give you some advice. Well, said Harry, with some hesitation, I'm in love, and— In love! exclaimed the rich merchant. In love and with only a clerk's salary to marry on. It will never do

-never do. Marriage for one like you is fastening a millstone round your neck unless indeed—and he stopped, as if a bright thought had struck him-unless indeed the girl is rich. She is rich, or will be, I suppose, answered Harry, for her father is a wealthy man. But that's just the difficulty. Her father would never let her marry a poor man, and she won't marry without his consent. What a miserable tyrant! said Mr. Sheldon. If I was the lover, Harry, I'd run off with her. I'd checkmate the old curmudgeon in that way. And he chuckled at the imaginary triumph he would achieve. 'Pon my soul, I would! I never, as I told you, let anybody take a rise out of me. But would that be honorable? Honorable? Isn't everything fair in love and war? I thought you had some pluck, Harry. How I should like to see the stingy old hulk rave and stump about on his gouty toes-for he must be gouty-when he heard of your elopement!

And he laughed till his portly sides shook at the picture he had conjured up. He'd probably never forgive me, morning at 9.45. He'd probably never forgive me, said Harry, dejectedly. And then Rev. Mr. Drummond, of St. Thomas, what would I do, with a wife brought up to every luxury and only a poor clerk's salary to support her on? Never forgive you? Trash and non sense! They always do forgive. They can't help it. Besides, with a confidental wink, I think I know your It's that skinflint, Meadows. man. I've heard of you being sweet on his daughter. I saw how you hung about her at our party the other night, and when I joked about it with my daughter the next morning she as good as admitted that it was true. saying it would be a very good match for you. Now, I owe old Meadows a grudge. He tried to do me in those railway shares last winter, and mean to pay him for it somehow. I tell you what I'll do. I must not ask, mind you, who the girl is. Mum

Is it agreed? Well, there's my hand on it. Here's the check. Egad! Won't the old man howl when he hears how we've done

Harry seemed to hesitate, however, and it was not until Mr. Sheldon, eager to see his old commercial rival put at a disadvantage, had urged him again and again and promised to stand by him that he finally consented and took the check which his employer persisted in forcing upon him.

The next morning Mr. Sheldon came down to breakfast in high glee, for a note had reached him just was shaving which run as follows: Dear Sir,-I have, with much difficulty, persuaded her to elope. was not, however, till I showed her your check that she would consent o do so. The danger of an attack of dysentery lies in the attending extreme wakness and possible bowel inflammations. You may regard the ailment as trifling; the many fatal cases do not bear you out.

The following statement is one of the many evidences of the healing value of Powley's Liquified Ozone. It is given by John Friers, Postman, residing at 27 Manning Avenue, Toronto: Toronto, July 11th, 1901.

Gentlemen,—A year ago I suffered a great deal from dysentery. I not only found it inconvenient, but it caused me to lose a lot of time. For some days I would be too weak to make my trips. My stomach would go back on me in the hot weather, and I would have terrible headaches. Last spring I started taking Ozone, and I have not been troubled at all in the same manner. I have not lost a day through illness, and have been cured of the dysentery.

I desire to put myself on record as a firm believer in Ozone. It has helped I desire to put mysell on record to the same a very great deal. Yours very truly,
