The Beaver's Tail is a Trowel. The Beaver's Tail is a Trowel.

Then there is the beaver, whose tail, I am convinced, is a trowel. I know of no naturalist who has mentioned this, but such negative evidence is of little weight. The beaver, as everybody knows, is a builder, who cuts down trees and piles log upon log until he has raised a solid, domed cabin from seven to twenty feet in diameter, which he then plasters over with clay and straw. If he does not turn round and beat the work smooth with his tail, then I require to know for what purpose he carries that broad, heavy, and hard tool behind him.—From "Tails," in the June Strand.

PLAYGROUNDS.

The Boys' friend Tells What Should be Done For Them.

"It is safe to predict that in the next few years thousands of acres of valuable city land will be returned to the children Gardeners have commenced cultivating their onions. Some, however, have mly recently sown, owing to the wet and cold weather.

Mr. Jacob Potts, of Brantford, has bought a lot in this village and intends o erect a residence in the near future. Quite a number from this village and cipility attended the garden party at for health and recreation," writes J. J. Kelso, of Toronto. "In the rapid development of cities and eagerness for wealth and commercial success, no wealth and commercial success, no thought was given to the city beautiful, nor did anyone realize that the vacant lots on which their boyish pastimes were heid would disappear so rapidly. Now thoughtful men see the mistake that has been made and are earnesstly striving to restore the children's heritage, Much remains to be done, but public sentiment is sound on this question and will lendorse the necessary expenditure.

"Four or five district playgrounds will not by any means meet the need. Betvicinity attended the garden party at Dakland on Monday evening, the 24th. Farmers are preparing their ground for planting Indiar corn and for sowing corn for ensilage.

Several from here spent Victoria Ley in Simcoe.

in Simcoe.

Mr. T. B. Wheeler, of this place, unlertook on a wager to walk from Sociand to Port Dover, a distance of wenty-two miles in five hours on Saturday. He accomplished the feat in four and one half hours, and won the wager dorse the necessary expenditure.

"Four or five district playgrounds will not by any means meet the need. Better three small playgrounds than one large one. The tendency is to establish playgrounds in the suburbs where land is cheap, but they should be just as numerous in the heart of the city where congestion of population breeds moral and physical degeneracy. A playground should be within five minutes' walk of every child, and if we allow a playground for every twenty thousand of a city's population we can see how far behind this standard most of our cities are at the present time.

"Equipment is essential, but far more important even than that is the supervision given to the children in their play. If enthusiastic directors with the proper moral viewpoint are given charge of these playgrounds they can do a truly national work in the development of a sound physique and high character. As much, if not more, can be learned from play than from books, though there need be no rivalry; and it is undoubtedly true that play diverts from crime and low pursuits; creating contentment and cheerfulness and inspiring youth with noble ideals.

"If here and there a few old rookeries were torn down and the land devoted to play space, more than one useful purpose would be served. Two hundred feet frontage with the ordinary depth of one hundred and fifty feet would make a good neighborhood playground. Too many children need outdoor amusements in winter as well as in summer and it in winter as well as in summer and it in winter as well as in summer and it in winter as well as in summer and in more and and in the summer and in winter as well as in summer and in winter as well as in summer and in more and and and in the summer and in the proper and in the summer and in the proper and in the summer and in the proper and the summer and in the proper and in the proper and in the proper and in the proper and the prop The following are a few who spent the holiday visiting friends here: Mr. and Mrs. McDowell, of Toronto, with his sister, Mrs. A. in winter as well as in summer, and if there is the willingness to provide for their needs it can be done without great. expense. Free skating rinks should be numerous. Thousands of children have been denied the pleasure and benefit of skating because they could not pay for admission to rinks. The civic government as the guardian of children should be interested in the welfare and happiness of future citizens, and should make recreation and simple sport as free as the air. Healthy enjoyment should never depend on the possession of wealth. The fact of being a child is the all-sufficient reason why play should be encouraged, and every facility provided.

"To secure the proper number of playgrounds, rinks, toboggan sildes, gymnasiums, bath houses, etc., will require constant agitation for years to come. If the enthissam lags they will not be provided, for large expenditure will be necessary. Therefore may we not appeal confidently on behalf of the children to men in authority, aldermen, school trustees, editors, business men, educators—to keep the playground movement constantly in view, giving it their endorsement and advocacy wherever possible, remembering that the best type of citizen can be evolved only from the healthy, robust child, who has had a free and well-rounded youth spent in cheerful and clean moral environment." cracker.
