At a few minutes there, and long to hear all the little details she would have once have delighted to tell him. But no nonsense was vouchsafed, and he was too proud to ask. He never talked to her of his business, and they drifted farther and farth er apart as the weeks passed on. Both were to blame for this estrangement. They both realized it in a measure; but each was too proud to make overtures to the other. After a time, God gave them a child, and, for a time, they seemed nearer an understanding than they had been for onths. But the golden hours passed and the hearts, which seemed drawing nearer each other, were farther apar than ever. Their mutual love for their hild was the one tie that kept them in nominal wedlock. Neither could endur separation. So the time passed on until their boy was two years old. To the he acted as her devoted cavalier, and in united family; but at heart the husband

On the 21st January, the Sabbath School Convention for the Goderich District was held in Clinton, and was very nteresting and highly successful. There were but four circuits on the district unrepresented, viz.: Kincardine, Bervie, Frowbridge and Howick. These absent brethren lost an opportunity of great interest and profit to themselves, and

The Chairman, Rev. C. Layell, M. A. with his characteristic punctuality, was at his post at the appointed hour, ten s. m. After devotional exercises and the appointment of a Committee en nominations and another on resolutions, the Convention proceeded to the discussion of the various topics prepared for consideration. All the speakers apprinted to lead were off present, except Mr.George Leversage, of Fullarton, who but the prospect of a long drive on a rainy day, and in poor health, led him to conclude that, under the circumstances, the best part of valor was retreat There were three services of the Con vention, morning, afternoon and even-ing. The time was too short for the amount of work proposed to be done; and consequently several of the topics were disposed of too hurriedly. A free and open conversation on the state of the Sabbath School work in the district which delegates from all the circuits represented engaged, which showed that the Sabbath-school work on the district was marked by a good degree of progress.

The following were the topics, with the names of the leading speakers:

coarse selfishness that prempts many persons to appropriate the whele of the track for their sole 'me. I have in my mind one man in particular, assuming to be the leading spirit of the settlement where he resides, who piggishly clings to the middle of the track, forcing the passing party into the ditch. His wife, who sometimes accompanies him, looks troubled as we pass, and, I imagins, feels annoyed at the meaness of her coarser half. Fortunately there are not many bipeds of this class, else endurance of such intervillities would cease, and the other plan of jogging their attention of such incivilities would cease, and the other plan of jogging their attention with the wheel-hub be adopted.

People of decent breeding need no law to suggest their duty as users in common of the public road; and any man possessing the attributes of a gentleman, instinctively observes the etiquette of travel by offering the whole of the track to all lady drivers and to heavily leaded teams, and cheefully shares the track with all others. Only the low-bred, coarse-grained passon appropriates the best part of the read to appropriates the best part of the read to himself, impertmently and booishly star-ing at the party forced to one side by
