A Wonderful Experiment.

Kept Vital Organs Alive for Ten Hours After Removal from Body.

New York, Oct. 26.—Another step forward in Dr. Alexis Carrell's experiments looking to the prolongation of life is announced at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Some time ago Dr. Carrell created a sensation in the scientific world by keeping a fragment of tissue from a chicken heart, "alive" for 104 days.

Now he has succeeded in separating from the body of an animal the heart, stomach, liver, ureters, kidney and bladder and in having these organs live and functionate under his eyes for ten hours.

To accomplish this result, the excised organs were placed in a solution, supplied with blood aerated continuously by oxygen pumps and kept at the requisite temperature by an apparatus much like an incubator.

The aim of Dr. Carrell's experiments was thus expounded by him in a recent address: "If it were possible to transplant immediately after death the tissues and organs which compose the body into other identical organisms, no elemental death would occur and all the constituent parts of the body would continue to live."

Dr. Carrell has received the Nobel prize, amounting to $40,000, this year for Medical Research. He is a Frenchman, and before accepting his present position was a Professor in McGill University, Montreal. The doctor is yet under 40 years of age.

60 Women Go to Gaol.

Refuse to Pay the Fines Imposed at Sydney.

Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 30.—For wearing hats that protruded too far, 60 women most of them prominent, were tried, convicted and fined to-day in a Sydney court. They went to jail rather than pay their fines, declaring they would not submit to "iniquitous and unnecessary legislation."

The city authorities face a situation similar to that growing out of the suffrage demonstration in England, as the women assert that if further arrests and imprisonment are ordered because of the hatpin ordinance they will declare a "hunger strike."

Several vacancies were created and were already filled. He anticipated no trouble in filling the balance of the vacancies according to C. P. R. officials only 250 out of 5,000 men, reported to belong to the Railway Employees' Union, went out on strike.

Household Notes.

Soup should always be simmered, not boiled.

Allow nearly three hours for roasting a ten-pound turkey.

To crisp celery, let it lie in ice water two hours before serving.

Olive oil will clean aluminum ware and keep it free from rust.

Sponge black goods thoroughly with alcohol to take away a dusty look.

Keep a calendar with pencil attached in the kitchen for house-keeping accounts.

Never leave canned food in the tin after opening. Remove immediately.

Instead of balls of butter, cubes with fluted edges are a pleasant change.

Don't put simple milk puddings in a very hot oven, or the milk will curdle.

Unless a turkey is very young, it should be steamed for an hour before roasting.

Fat for frying should be boiling before the article to be fried is dropped into it.

When chestnuts are in season, they are a delicious addition (boiled) to a simple salad.

One of the economies of a well-run kitchen is a biscuit and doughnut cutter combined.

Pour olive oil into the bottle if you open a large bottle of oil—it will preserve the flavor.

Never Leave the Furnace Ashes Uncovered After Sifting.

Springle with water and leave tightly covered.

A bit of real Bohemian glassware with its bright coloring makes a charming touch to a home table.

When boiling vegetables, never let them stop boiling until they are done, or they will be soggy and heavy.

Never expose an opal to heat, or it will crack. Clean it with cold water, softened with a tiny pinch of soda.

A fifty-pound lard pail, set on the back of a stove and kept full of water, will make a very handy reservoir.

Put a rose geranium leaf on top of newly made jelly before sealing it. If you would have a delicious flavor.

When a light evening gown is stained with fruit juice, the simplest thing is to send it to a good cleaner.

It saves time an energy to dry dishes in a wire dish drainer set close to the dish pan on the kitchen table.

For peach stains, wet the stain spread it with cream of tartar and place in the sun. Then wash as usual.

In making buttonholes in stuff that reveals easily, mark the buttonhole and stitch round it before cutting.

To remove stains from a vinegar crust, fill with grated raw potato and let stand. Then rinse with clear water.

Don't throw away old stockings—fold them a great many times and use for holders. Or put them in a mop handle for a mop drier.

A good soft icing is made with two cups of granulated sugar and 3-4 cup sweet milk, boiled 9 minutes. Cool, beat and flavor.

For light colored stockings that show "leather stain," put two tablespoonfuls of borax in enough water to wash five pairs of hose.

With the salad serve salted water which have been boiled, sprinkled with paprika and Parmesan cheese, and browned in the oven.

To keep some kind of flowers from making a vase top-heavy, put a quantity of clear white sand in the bottom to serve as weight.

Men Tarred Young Woman

Norwalk, Ohio, Oct. 25.—Six men were arrested yesterday at West Clarkesfield on indictments charging them with riotous conspiracy in connection with the recent tarring or painting of Minnie LaValley, a young woman of that village.

A seventh man was arrested on an indictment charging perjury in connection with his testimony before the occurrence. Reginald Thomas, constable, was among those charged with the attack on the girl.

The seven arrested are to be arraigned here to-day.

Minnie LaValley was seized on the street of the village the night of August 20, divested of her clothing, and smeared with tar or paint. It was alleged that women, dressed as men, had taken part in the attack. This the finding of the grand jury denied.

LONDON, To-day. The prospect that a considerable portion of the defeated Turkish Army will be able to reform behind the lines of Tebratali, the last fortifications before Constantinople, is not altogether excluded, but whether the Turks will be able to maintain a serious resistance to the Bulgarian advance, a question which remains of doubt, in the struggle the Turks have lost more than half of their artillery. The Servians alone claim to have captured at least 300 guns. This will certainly militate against any prolonged stand at Tebratali. In a circular note to Turkish Ambassadors abroad the government maintains although embarrassed the position of affairs is not desperate. It declared when the allies had completed mobilization that they had barely begun hers. The note insists that Turkey is still able to maintain a prolonged warfare. Up to the present there is no sign of any outcome to the Porte's appeal to the Powers for mediation. No replies have been received. They will embody a refusal to consider the idea of proposing an armistice. Apparently Bulgaria is in no mood to negotiate for peace at the present time.

The Tchoist Serbians correspond on the Tchoist line correspondents are sending reports of Bulgarian and Turkish successes in that neighbourhood according to which they draw inspiration from. Official announcements from Constantinople that the Turks are withdrawing to the Tchoist line fortifications are not to be doubted, and it is evident that this fighting is an extensive rear guard action to cover the movement of the Turks toward Constantinople. The fall of Adrianople is expected daily. The occupation of Buk, on the railway between Salonika, Kuleli and Burgas is the last link of a chain wholly cutting off the Turkish armies which have been fighting great battles in the East from scattered forces in the heart of the country and to the West. It is considered not unlikely that fear of serious outbreaks in Constantinople may influence the Powers to use diplomatic pressure to bring about peace at the earliest moment.

NEW YORK, To-day. The most vigorous presidential fight of recent years came to an end to-night with the leading candidates for the nation's chief office continuing their personal appeals to voters almost to the last moment. Almost more than the Presidency is at stake in these elections. The Republican forces have endeavored to prevent the overturn of loyal organizations or the capture of legislatures of states heretofore republican. Democrats have made an organized assault upon a number of states so that a majority of Senators may be swung to their party. The price offered against the republican predictions that the Senate will remain republican. The democratic leaders claim enough of states to give them a Senate and greatly swell the majority in the House of Representatives, which they captured in 1910. The influence of women in the campaign will probably be greater than in any previous election. Each national headquarters has had an organized bureau to appeal to women, well known in public and social life. In six western states where women will vote, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, California, Idaho and Washington their ballots will be an active factor in the result. In five other States, Michigan, Kansas, Oregon, Wisconsin, the right of women to vote will be an issue at the Polls. Uncertainty is caused by the third party ticket. More than ordinary urgent appeals of party managers for all voters to go to the Polls, and the local machinery indicate a record vote in almost all sections of country.

The Phonograph King.

Clever Performer Now Engaged at Nickel Theatre.

When the announcement was made last week that Mr. J. W. Myers had been engaged at the Nickel Theatre there were exclamations of great surprise on every hand. But the announcement is true nevertheless, and can be verified by the fact that Mr. Myers appeared at the Nickel last night to the delight of the large audience present. Mr. Myers is the self-same artist who was identified for many years with the Edison Phonograph, and was principally engaged in making vocal records. He is the possessor of a charming voice, deep, rich and powerful, and will continue to please the musical tastes of Nickel-goers for many weeks to come.
