Big Fire Yesterday Afternoon.

TWO RESIDENCES RAZED AND TWO OTHERS BADLY GUTTED—FIREMEN WORK WELL—PEOPLE SUFFER IRREPARABLE LOSS.

At 4.45 p.m. yesterday an alarm of fire was turned in simultaneously from Box 25 Water Street West and from the private box in the yard of the Horwood Lumber Company. The men of the Western Fire Station, near the company's yard, were on the scene with commendable promptness and were followed quickly by the men of the Central Station. Thousands of citizens also gathered in the neighbourhood of the fire and but for the strong force of policemen present under Supt. Grimes the firemen would have had much difficulty in working. The gentleman who turned in the alarm from the Horwood Works, and who was one of the first to see the fire, assures us that in less than two minutes it had gained such headway that Mr. Thomas J. Alan's house in which it occurred was in a mass of flame which quickly burst through the windows both in the front and rear of the house. A stiff westerly breeze fanned the flame and when the firemen arrived they saw that a hard fight was before them if they were to confine the blaze to the immediate neighbourhood of the place whence it started. Water fortunately, from the street, was plentiful and the firemen, who were also powerful streams playing on the conflagration. These were taken from the plugs at New Gower Street, Water Street and two from Springdale St. but despite the plentiful supply of water it was fully an hour before the fire was quenched and the 'all out' signal sounded.

When the firemen arrived the fire had ate its way into the residence of Mr. John White, blacksmith, west of and adjoining Alan's and also into the big office building of the Horwood Lumber Co. Both houses, Alan's and White's, were enveloped in flames and the firemen who had run up ladders to the windows on which they brought their hose had hard work of it as they gradually advanced on the enemy and poured tons of water into the houses.

Alan's store room east from Bannock Street and in the alley at the rear of the houses of Alan's and White's which front on Water Street, and in this alley resided two families those of John Fitzgerald and John Mirrit, both poor laboring men, the former with 3 and the latter with 7 children. Their humble homes and small structures in less than no time were completely destroyed by the fire which swept upon them from the Alan and White structures. The fireman, who is a watchman, told the Telegram that he was sitting in his kitchen when the fire swept in the house and he with his wife got their children to the street but when they returned to try to save some of their belongings they could not enter the house, and they as well as the Fitzgerald family lost all they possessed. These people are very poor, and held of course no insurance on their humble belongings and as they are homeless and deprived of their bedding, furniture, etc., they require the sympathy of their more fortunate fellow citizens. The fire burned with great ferocity and on two separate occasions the timber sheds of the Horwood Lumber Co., one side of which runs along Walsh's Lane, was on fire, but the firemen with lengths of hose here and there, the great heat made a gallant stand and kept the fire from crossing to the Horwood Lumber Co's buildings and plant, or reaching the row of houses further east in Walsh's Lane. While the conflagration was at its height explosions frequently occurring could be heard. There were several boxes of cartridges stored in the rear of Mr.

Alan's grocery store which occupied the ground floor of his residence. The men working at the rear of the building had to be careful to escape injury as the explosions continued and more than once they were driven from the positions they held but fortunately no one received any injury. Had the fire worked up through the Horwood Co's sheds and buildings where millions of feet of lumber are stored a serious and widespread conflagration must have resulted. Many thought of the match factory standing east of the big lumber mills and reasoned that if this building caught the West End would be seriously threatened. The firemen who quickly and splendidly led by I. G. Sullivan and guarded by his instructions gave particular attention to this danger and the outbuildings of the company and the match factory were kept deluged with water, until all danger of their igniting was at an end. From the start burning embers and 'bunkers' were thrown high in the air and alighting on the Water St. sidewalks blackened them while some falling on the roofs of buildings ignited them. One house opposite, on Water Street, took fire, the roof of Mr. P. Alan's house, also caught, but this was quenched quickly by the firemen. Mr. P. Walsh, his brother-in-law, and the eastward who caught fire quickly quenched. On Franklin & Co's, Silver's and Monroe's premises, where there is a lot of cod liver and other oils, burning embers continued to fall both on the wharves and the sheds and the laborers abandoned their usual vocations and climbed to the tops of the sheds to guard them or quench the burning embers as they fell. When the fire had been properly quenched the firemen effected of his onslaught could be realized. Mr. Alan's residence which was also occupied by the family of his son-in-law, Mr. White, who is gutted from attic to basement. Mr. Alan is badly hit as a result of this fire. The stock in his store is completely spoiled with water and smoke and fire. His residence and that of Mr. Knight which were excellently furnished, completely destroyed and very little of the furniture was saved. The insurance company with the loss sustained is a mere bagatelle, and Mr. Alan has the sympathy of his many friends. Mrs. White, whose husband John, is at Campbellton with the Horwood Lumber Co. lost all her furniture and effects including new clothing bought for her children during the afternoon, and $50 cash which she had in a purse on her dressing case. Mrs. Alan, widow of Mr. T. J. Alan, is dangerously ill in the country and Mrs. Knight, Mr. Alan's daughter, when the fire occurred yesterday, had to be assisted to bed. Ennis' across the street as she too is very ill. Firemen and citizens worked well and the efforts of all were ably assisted by the Southside Reserve firemen who were quickly present and who deserve credit for their work. Had this outbreak occurred at night a big conflagration must have resulted as with such a congested condition of the buildings in Walsh's Lane, about the Horwood Works, there would be much difficulty in the men doing effective work. How the fire originated is not known, but it is believed to have occurred as the result of a live wire though whether this is so or not cannot be determined. The White, Fitzgerald and Minnet tenements are owned by Mr. Thos. Grant, and were insured but not covered.
