The Failure of German Diplomacy.

The outstanding failure of German diplomacy is that of their diplomacy. It transcends even the failure of the strategy which aimed at keeping Britain out of the war until France and Russia were crushed, overwhelming France in a few weeks, occupying France with the Landswehr and the Landsturm and throwing the full weight of the Active Army on Russia before the latter could be mobilized. Great as were the preparations in the way of training soldiers, supplying ammunition and organizing the whole country for war, and potent as are its effects at the present time in the West and the East, there was a serious flaw in the organization for war, which was inherent and which naturally grew on what it happened. It produced a swelling of the head of the German rulers and diplomats. It stupidly assumed a stupidity in others. It found itself temperamental unable to see the standpoint of others. It was blind to all view-points but its own, and callously indifferent to all feelings but its own. Hence it floundered into Belgium and blundered into war with Britain, ignored Italy and too late found itself at war with its Mediterranean ally. Impervious to common-sense, it has incensed the United States by fomenting a political campaign there, under a special Director General, the Ex-Colonial Secretary Dernburg, and has outraged American honour and flouted American interest by destroying American lives and property in its inhuman and illegal submarine attacks on merchantmen. It has acted as though the German born American were in control of the American gov-

BRITISH THEATRE.

For a good all-round entertainment one could not do better than spend the above hour and spend both a profitable and pleasant evening. The entire "show" is one of excellence throughout. The two real photo-play entitled "The Quicksand" is a particularly engrossing piece of work and the audience are kept on the qui vive from its inception. "The Unwritten Play" is a strong social drama with a beautiful love story there to and it is splendidly acted by the various performers connected with the famous Vitagraph Co. of America. The Western play "Broncho Billy's Duty" conveys a great moral lesson which is taught in a most convincing manner. The comedies were also much appreciated and caused a congenial roar of laughter from beginning to end. The musical end of the programme which was in the capable hands of Miss Keeping and Arthur Priestman Cameron, was much enjoyed. The entire show will be changed to-morrow.

ALLIES TO STICK TOGETHER.
Tokio, June 6.—Foreign Minister Kato, interpellated in the House of Peers yesterday by the Budget committee, made the declaration that Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy and Japan had agreed to take no independent action of any kind in connection with the European war.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by selecting food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

"Not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach trouble," writes a lady from a little Western town.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heart-burn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton and in time was compelled to keep to my bed.

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such a good effect from the very beginning that I kept up its use. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed.

"All my unpleasant symptoms, the heart-burn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain, disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs., my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy it. Grape-Nuts did it.

A few days trial will show anyone some facts about food.

AUSTRALIAN MUNIFICENCE.

Hardly have the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition paid the tribute of the nation to the valor and the generosity of the Dominions and of India, when we learn that the subscriptions of the Commonwealth to the Red Cross Fund have exceeded the great sum of $500,000. That is a wonderful proof of the patriotism and the charity of a people who do not yet number five millions. And this gift, splendid though it is, does not represent all the wealth that the great sister-nation of the Pacific has freely lavished upon the wounded in her cause and in ours.—London Times.

Kitchener.

Springfield Republican.—The Germans would make a mistake in assuming that the phenomenon of a violent press attack on Kitchener meant the collapse of Great Britain in this war. Here in America one interprets the spectacle accurately enough in saying that the British people are becoming warmed up to their real task. If Kitchener were a weaker man, if he were in fact incompetent, if he had much less to his credit than what he has already accomplished in raising, training and equipping within ten months an enormous new army such as Britain never had before in her history, he would go out like a candle flame in this sudden gale of criticism and discontent. But, unless the war takes a turn more disastrous and discouraging than it has up to this hour, he will stand fast at his high and difficult post.

BEYOND THE PALE.

Providence Journal.—There seems to be no German consciousness of guilt. Excesses are "regrettable" but unavoidable. They are mere incidents in the progress of Kultur. It is foolish, say the German apologists, to be disturbed about them. So long as there are obstacles in the Hohenzollern path, they must be combated, and with any means whatsoever that come to hand. If the rest of the world does not understand the necessity, so much the worse for the rest of the world. Germany is absolutely sure of her "new morality" and will not be gainsaid. With such moral delinquency argument is impossible. It brushes humane considerations aside without compunction. It talks in a language that is not ours. We employ terms and ideas which it regards as obsolete. But thank God they are not obsolete. The Ten Commandments still stand, and justice and humanity have not yet lost their meaning for civilized nations and civilized men.

TO PERPETRATE NAMES OF MEN WHO HAVE DIED.

Ottawa, June 4.—Names of Canadian soldiers who have fallen at the front are being perpetuated by the geographic board of Canada. The north fork of the Fraser river in British Columbia has been re-named McGregor river and creeks draining into it J. Creek, Herriek Creek and Captain Creek, in memory of Captain J. Herriek McGregor, 16th Battalion, killed at Ypres April 25.

The late Lieut. D. P. Bell-Irving's names is given to the north fork of the Naas river in British Columbia. He was a Vancouver man who fell early in the Canadian fighting. The name of Pte Philip Norton, a British Columbia man, killed at Ypres on April 24 is bestowed on a tributary of the Nation river in that province. It will be known as Phillips Creek.

Amsterdam, Holland, via London, June 6.—The Telegraf states that, according to German casualty lists, Prussian losses alone have reached a total of 1,385,000.

Recently casualty lists contain the name of fifty-five alimen, of whom eleven were killed and thirty-five wounded, the remaining ten being missing.

WAR FEELING IN THE STATES.

Harry LeDrew, who has returned from a visit to Buffalo and other American cities, states that he found the feeling quite prevalent there that whatever the outcome of the diplomatic exchanges over the Lusitania affair might be, there would be no actual war. In other words, although there might be a severance of diplomatic relations with Germany, the United States would not formally declare war. It may be added that this opinion is not reflected in the editorial pages of leading New York papers to hand.—Exchange.
