HENRY BLAIR

Wise Men Say—

That the excuses are the patches with which we seek to repair the garment of failure.

That little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortune, but great minds rise above it.

That a cynic is a man who has eaten a bad dinner and loved the wrong woman.

That a woman's idea of equal rights is to get the man to do as she wants.

That any fool can catch a woman—but it takes a wise man to escape her.

That you can always tell by a man's woe-begone expression whether he has loved and lost or loved and won.

That it takes twenty years for a mother to make a man of her son, and twenty minutes for another woman to make a fool of him.

That when a man works fifteen hours a day trying to earn money enough to buy his wife all the useless things she wants, that is love.

That nothing of worth or weight can be achieved with half a mind, with a faint heart, or with a lame endeavor.

That true courage is cool and calm. The bravest of men have the least of a brutal, bullying insolence, and in the very time of danger are the most serene.

That words are little things, but they strike hard. We utter them so easily that we are apt to forget their hidden power. Fittly spoken, they act like sunshine.

That every opportunity needs to be looked at through the glass of principle. It may mean, apart from conscience, a chance of making money, or gaining social position, or grasping power; but if it does not pass muster morally it also means loss.

That there is no surer mark of a half-educated mind than the incapacity of admiring various forms of excellence. Enlarge your tastes that you may enlarge your heart as well as your pleasures; feel all that is beautiful; love all that is good.

Both of the Same Mind.

After a couple of esteemed citizens, who are close neighbours, had arranged to pass a few days with their families in the country, one of them offered to wager a box of cigars that he would catch the largest fish. The wager was promptly taken, and next day one of the gentlemen put in an appearance at a fish-dealer's in the town and said:

"Have you got a fresh salmon weighing about fifteen pounds?"

"I have, sir."

"Well, I want you to put him on ice, and send him to me at once. I propose to catch him on a hook out there."

"Very well, sir. I think I'll send the two together."

"The two?"

"Yes, sir. Mr. — (mentioning the other esteemed citizen) was here an hour ago, and bought one weighing twenty pounds! It will take less ice to pack the two in the same box."

A woman's brain declines in weight after the age of thirty.

Frog-skin makes the toughest leather known in proportion to its thickness.

St. Paul's Cathedral is insured in ten different offices. The amount is about $5,000 pounds.

In setting and distributing type, a compositor's hand travels on an average 11 miles a day.

Oxford is the greatest University in the world. It has twenty-one colleges and five halls.

The average age of bachelors who marry spinsters is twenty-six; of widowers who marry widows just under fifty.

Of the ten open-air pulpits in England, the most famous is that of Magdalen College, Oxford. It was built in 1480.

The feathers of the mirasol, an Argentine bird, are worth £220 per pound—five times the price of the most perfect ostrich plumes.

Japan has 255 people to the square mile; China—usually considered the most densely populated country in the East—has only 236.

So accurate a science is triangulation that the length of Salisbury Plain was ascertained with a result that differed 5 in only from its measured value.

Forests cover 36 per cent. of Russia's total area, or, in all, 464½ million acres. In other words, there are four acres of forest to every inhabitant of Russia.

No Cause for Alarm.

(From the Wall Street Journal.)

The partners of a well-known stock exchange house were having a dinner conference at an up town hotel. One of them appeared worried during the progress of the meal, and finally he was queried as to the cause of his fit of abstraction.

"I just happened to remember that I neglected to lock the safe before I left the office," he replied.

"Why, worry?" said another member of the firm. "We are all here."

She was not very young, but she had money.

"Dearest," he began, but she stopped him.

"I anticipate what you are about to say, Mr. Sampson," she said, "and I would spare your feelings, for it can never be. I esteem you highly, and will be a sister to—"

"I have four sisters already," he replied bitterly. "Four grown sisters and life is a hideous burden. But oh, Clare," he went on, passionately, "you cannot be my wife, will you not give me a home and a mother's protective love? I am an orphan."
