TAFT IS NAMED FOR PRESIDENT

you can win by being a distinguished failure, but in the newspaper business you have to do a little better than that to hold your job. The best stories of the convention were told by Finley Peter Dunn, who stayed away from the sessions so he could write them.

DELEGATES BEHAVED.

As passengers or victims of the steam-roller the delegates behaved well. They had heads—most of them have been prematurely unthatched by early riots—glistened in the sun. They bobbed up and down like a thermometer as they sank in despair or were lifted off their feet by the cheers of the populace. They showed themselves as better than voting machines. They became strenuous at times, particularly the Roosevelt bunch, and put Chairman Root's serenity to the test. Once a gentleman from Idaho walloped a gentleman from Florida in the eye. Both were removed by the police, but came back when their time on the bench was up. Another time the mass delegation walked out in a body. This was when the balloting for President was on. Their absence might have meant a clear gain of eighteen for Taft, for they were all Roosevelt men. But Chairman Root called on their alternates, and put the score back where it was.

ONLY ONE SWITCH.

This was the only switch Chairman Root made. Of course, the eighteen alternates did what the other fellows would have done. They were "present but not voting." This is playing the game according to Hoyle. It would have been against all precedent for the Massachusetts alternates to do anything else. I think more of the delegates now they are men with opinions. If you prick them they will bleed. All the same, they were pretty well steam-rollered. They delivered the goods.

THE GALLERY FOR TEDDY.

On the whole it was a Roosevelt crowd that packed the galleries. The colonel is weak with the machine but strong with the people. Several times they said, "We want Teddy." said it long and said it what's the use? What they want is one thing and what they get is another. If the Democrats nominate somebody like Taft there will probably be a new alignment in the United States politics—Liberals and Conservatives—and the Liberals drifted from the progressives in both the old parties, may give the people their Teddy again. But that is another story. The big mouse party as it is jeeringly called, will have to grow a lot in three months to defeat the two regular candidates. All told the Coliseum crowd did not go crazy longer than an hour by the clock. This takes in the whole day's demonstrations including twenty minutes for Teddy and a final noise of the same length for Taft.

MENTIONED LINCOLN.

In the course of the proceedings Abraham Lincoln's name was mentioned. The founder of the Republican party was good for two minutes' cheering. George Washington was brought up. The father of his country got his, about a minute, quite enough for a hero so far out of touch with the times. A demonstration is a queer thing. The thing is almost Latin in its intensity. A strange new habit, this of Anglo-Saxons, working themselves into a lather to give a decision which should be the outcome of cool judgment and deliberate control. Our ancestors, the savage Teutons, did no worse (see Tacitus).

ALLEN GETS THE FLOOR.

After the credentials committee had put the rest of the Taft delegates in on the installment plan, Allen, of Kansas, asked and obtained leave to occupy ten minutes in reading and commenting on a statement which he held in his hand. The statement was from the Hon. Theodore. Here twenty minutes' cheering intervened, during which the police pinched a man for undignified Teddy banner. Mr. Allen proceeded to read the typewritten document which was the nearest the colonel got to attending the convention in person. But it was enough. It was a dog in the manger statement. The gist of it was that the colonel considered the convention irregular, because it has stolen that he did not release delegates from their pledges, and that he hoped they wouldn't vote in the nomination for President. This did the bull mouse run the china shop. This explains the tally "34 present, but not voting." As a dead game sport, the colonel might well have done something different.

THE PLATFORM.

After the statement came the platform, a solid, substantial, stand-pat article, not a progressive plank in it and over long. Introduced by Hon. Charles Fairbanks, ex-vice-president of the United States, Ex-vice-president. Can you beat that for remoteness from the real cheese? No child is ever asked to name the vice-presidents of the United States. The question would be considered unfair. To be vice-president, is to be forgotten.

SHERMAN IS RUNNING MATE.

To be ex-vice-president, to be remembered only when a platform full of stuff and guff has to be sprung. This year the nomination for vice-president goes to Sherman. Taft's old running mate. Nobody wants the office, because all it demands is silence and self-restraint. Still the great Theodore himself began that way, and who knows, who knows?

The Hon. Charles Fairbanks is as long as a glass of buttermilk. In his black frock coat, he looks even longer. He used words of four syllables and over. This so inflamed the convention that the progressives brought in a minority report, and there was a roll call of the states which showed a gain of over a hundred for Taft. Missouri swung to Taft on the platform vote just to prove that it was regular. The wisecracker guessed that Governor Hadley was being groomed for vice-president. But this turned out to be wrong. It was only Hadley's way of indicating that his precious future was within the Republican party. When it came to nominating, Missouri swung back to Teddy. That is to say, Missouri said hating to the extent of thirty votes.

HARDING NOMINATES.

Governor Warren G. Harding began to nominate President Taft at eight o'clock. In the speech he stretched the thing to practice is the gentle art of suspense. You plaster an unknown person with hearsay, piling Pelton on Ossa of metaphor and hyperbole. When you have endowed your hero with the composite virtues of all the worthies, ancient and modern, and bumping his head against the stars, you spit out his name. With all the cross-cross clues it is better than a detective story. In this way did the Hon. Chas. Fairbanks hold the name of William Howard Taft for thirty minutes. Of course it was a terrible surprise, almost a bolt out from the blue, as one might say, when he let it go.

John Wanamaker seconded. It was a dear speech for John Wanamaker. Being a great honor he came back from Europe to make it. The campaign fund looks to him for a half million dollars, and nobody listened to the speech at that.

FORTY-ONE FOR LAFOLLETTE.

Robert Marion LaFollette was also put in nomination. When it came to a show-down, the great autobiographer had forty-one votes. Five outside his own state. The senator is said not to be a good mixer. Of course there was a demonstration for President Taft when the result was announced. A red banner with his picture was unfurled, carried round the hall and worshipped with tumult and shouting. Coming out of the convention hall the crowd found the Taft smile, in plaster of Paris, in high relief, selling at a quarter a smile, but Teddy hats were a drug on the market, who said: "We took a lot of trouble to pick a loser."

PASTOR DECLARES HE WILL SUPPORT ROWELL.

Banish the Bar Policy Is a Move in the Right Direction.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Alvinston, June 24.—The Rev. C. T. U. held its 10th annual meeting, gathering, at the home of Mrs. G. H. C. N. Worthy. About 25 were present, and a very fine address was given by Rev. C. F. Logan, M. GOD'S KINGDOM IS NOT FAR OFF

Rev. Joseph Elliott of Goderich Preached in Knox Church on Sunday.

A MEMORIAL SERVICE

Late Fred Rutherford Was Remembered in Wellington Street Church Sunday Morning.

Rev. J. G. Stuart, of Knox Church, who is at camp with the First Hussars at Goderich, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Joseph Elliott, of Goderich on Sunday. At the morning service Rev. Mr. Elliott chose for his text Rev. xxii, 5. "And there shall be no night there."

He said that the two closing chapters of Revelations presented a scene of great beauty and glory that should be a comfort and encouragement to all Christian people. The life of the Christian on earth is as bright as day when compared to the life of the unbelievers, but is as dark as night when compared with the future life. The life of the Christian today is full of uncertainties and causes the questions "Who am I? What am I becoming?" "What shall I ultimately become?"

The wheels of God's providence go around and none of those on earth understand them, but in the future world all will be explained. The night is a season of crime and lawlessness, the darkest things morally are done, thieves and robbers are abroad, and the haunts of vice are open. In day time the evil principle is at work, but the sins of the night are of the darkest hue, and more against the will of God. When we quote the text we look forward to a world free of the influences of the devil, and shall be very grateful for the salvation that brought us to the kingdom of God.

God's Kingdom.

"The kingdom of God is not far off, and this fact should have an influencing bearing upon our conduct on earth. Do not let us ungratefully hope for the prolonging of our lives, and the lives of those we love, because here we are fighting against sin and in the life to come there is no combat, nothing but rest and peaceableness. It is strange to find that while people die at all times the majority of deaths are in the dark hours of the night. But this should not frighten Christians, as God is filling the realm with those who have been taken by death. In His kingdom new and lasting friendships will be formed that will make us forget all our troubles on the earth. But let us bear in mind that 'the time is short,' and let all that we do be done to the best of our ability while we remain on this earth."

Southern Congregational Church.

Rev. W. H. A. Harris, of Southern Congregational Church, spoke last night on the subject, "The Windows of Heaven," taking for his text Malachi iii, 10. "And prove me now herewith, if I will open unto you the windows of heaven and pour out blessing upon you." The text also showed that God was displeased with the actions of the people who were withholding the service and obedience that was due Him, and intended to punish them and also to reward those that were His faithful servants.

Christ Church.

Rev. H. A. R. Harrison, of Memorial Church, preached the sermon at the morning service at Christ Church yesterday from the text Deuteronomy xi, 11, and in the evening Rev. Professor Wright, of Huron College, preached. The pastor, Rev. C. R. Gunne, conducted the services both morning and evening.

A Memorial Service.

A memorial service for Mr. Fred Rutherford was held at Wellington Street Methodist Church yesterday morning. Mr. Rutherford, who will be remembered as a missionary in Africa and was given sick-leave to return home, but after an illness of some time died about two weeks ago. Rev. H. A. R. Harrison, who presided at the service yesterday, and addresses were given by Mr. H. E. Wilson, of the city mission, who was a great friend of Mr. Rutherford in their boyhood days; Mr. T. J. B. Brown, who is a member of the council of the African missions under whom Mr. Rutherford labored, and Mr. Wm. Jeff. rey, the superintendent of the Wellington Street Sunday school. In his address spoke in the most glowing terms of Mr. Rutherford's work in the mission field and of his personal character. A letter was read by Rev. H. A. R. Harrison from Rev. George A. MacKenzie, the pastor of the Christian Workers' Church, who was to have been one of the speakers, but was unable to attend. In it Rev.

Had Boils On Neck and Arms.

Had Them Lanced But Got No Relief Until He Used Burdock Blood Bitters.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still, at the same time are very painful. They are caused entirely by bad blood, and for you to get rid of them it is absolutely necessary to put the blood into good condition. For this purpose there is no remedy so certain as Burdock Blood Bitters. This preparation has been on the market for about 35 years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other for the making of pure, rich, red blood. Mr. H. J. Batten, Stratford, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled for several weeks with boils on my neck and arms. I was treated by a doctor, but he said I was not being lanced by the doctor, but as soon as one went away came. I tried all kinds of so called remedies, but could get no relief till I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I am pleased to say I am now quite free from those most painful things, and feel much better in every respect."

"My boy, of nine years, had a rash come over his back and legs, so we gave him a few doses and now he is all right again."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Mr. MacKenzie expressed his appreciation of Mr. Rutherford. During the service several very suitable choruses were given by the young men of the church.

Definition of Religion.

St. James' definition of religion was the theme chosen by Rev. Dr. Sage in St. George's Church on Sunday evening. Dr. Sage pointed out that true religion called for benevolence to one's fellowmen in the community, "to visit the widows and the fatherless." The Christian should endeavor to share the joys and sorrows of people outside his immediate circle of friends. Personal purity and holiness of life are a vital part of religion.

Soul Drifting.

Rev. Richard Whiting, of the First Methodist Church, spoke last night on the subject, "Soul Drifting." He said that when men are not compelled to move forward they require an anchor to hold them from drifting backward. When men commence drifting away from any faith they lose their belief in the teachings of their parents and are hard to rescue and bring back. "It is very unsafe to give up a belief in one thing before finding another that is better. For example, it is extreme foolishness when repairing the support of a grapevine to take down all the posts at once, only one post should be removed and replaced before another is removed. If the vine is left without support, it is much better for a man to have a poor faith than none at all."

"Nowadays there are lots of people whose parents were members of one denomination but the children did not like the services in connection with that church and drifted away from all churches. In this age of materialism men drift away from the higher and unseen things for gold, and become coarsened and vulgarized. Men whose sole object was to make money, were unworthy. In this age of pleasure seeking many people have drifted away and it behooves those who remained true to assist in their rescue."

REV. DR. TUCKER ON THE SABBATH

Corporations Violate the Day For the Purpose of Gain, He Says.

HOLIDAYS AND WORSHIP

Some People Get Away From God, as Well as From the City, Said the Rector of St. Paul's.

Rev. Dr. Tucker preached on Sunday morning in St. Paul's Cathedral from Exodus xx, 8, "Remember the Sabbath Day to Keep it Holy."

"The Sabbath or Lord's Day," he said, "is the oldest institution in the world, carrying us back to the origin of the human race, even to the Garden of Eden. From the foundation of Quebec by the French in 1608 till its capture by the British in 1759 the Sunday was observed as a national institution, as it has been from the foundation of Halifax in 1749 to the present day. In the Motherland the Sunday has been observed from the introduction of Christianity to the present time, some time more or less rigidly as in the seventeenth century, and again with more or less laxity as in the eighteenth century. At the advent of Christianity 2,000 years ago the Sabbath was an ancient Jewish institution. Its violation 500 years before that was one of the most heinous sins which brought punishment on the Jewish people. One thousand years before that it was an ancient Egyptian institution as it emerged from the bondage of Egypt and began its career of freedom in the wilderness. And in their Sacred Books the Jews found the Sabbath connected with the work of creation as though it had been designed by God for the whole human race. Such an ancient and venerable institution it behooves us to treat with the respect and reverence which it deserves."

A Beneficent Institution.

"The most ancient, it has also been a

Time for a Spring Tonic

In the spring we suffer from the bad effects of winter living. During the winter the clear, cold weather is a powerful germicide, and keeps us up, but when the spring breeze comes myriads of disease germs are let loose and the run-down system falls to fight them off. The enormous high death rate in spring proves this.

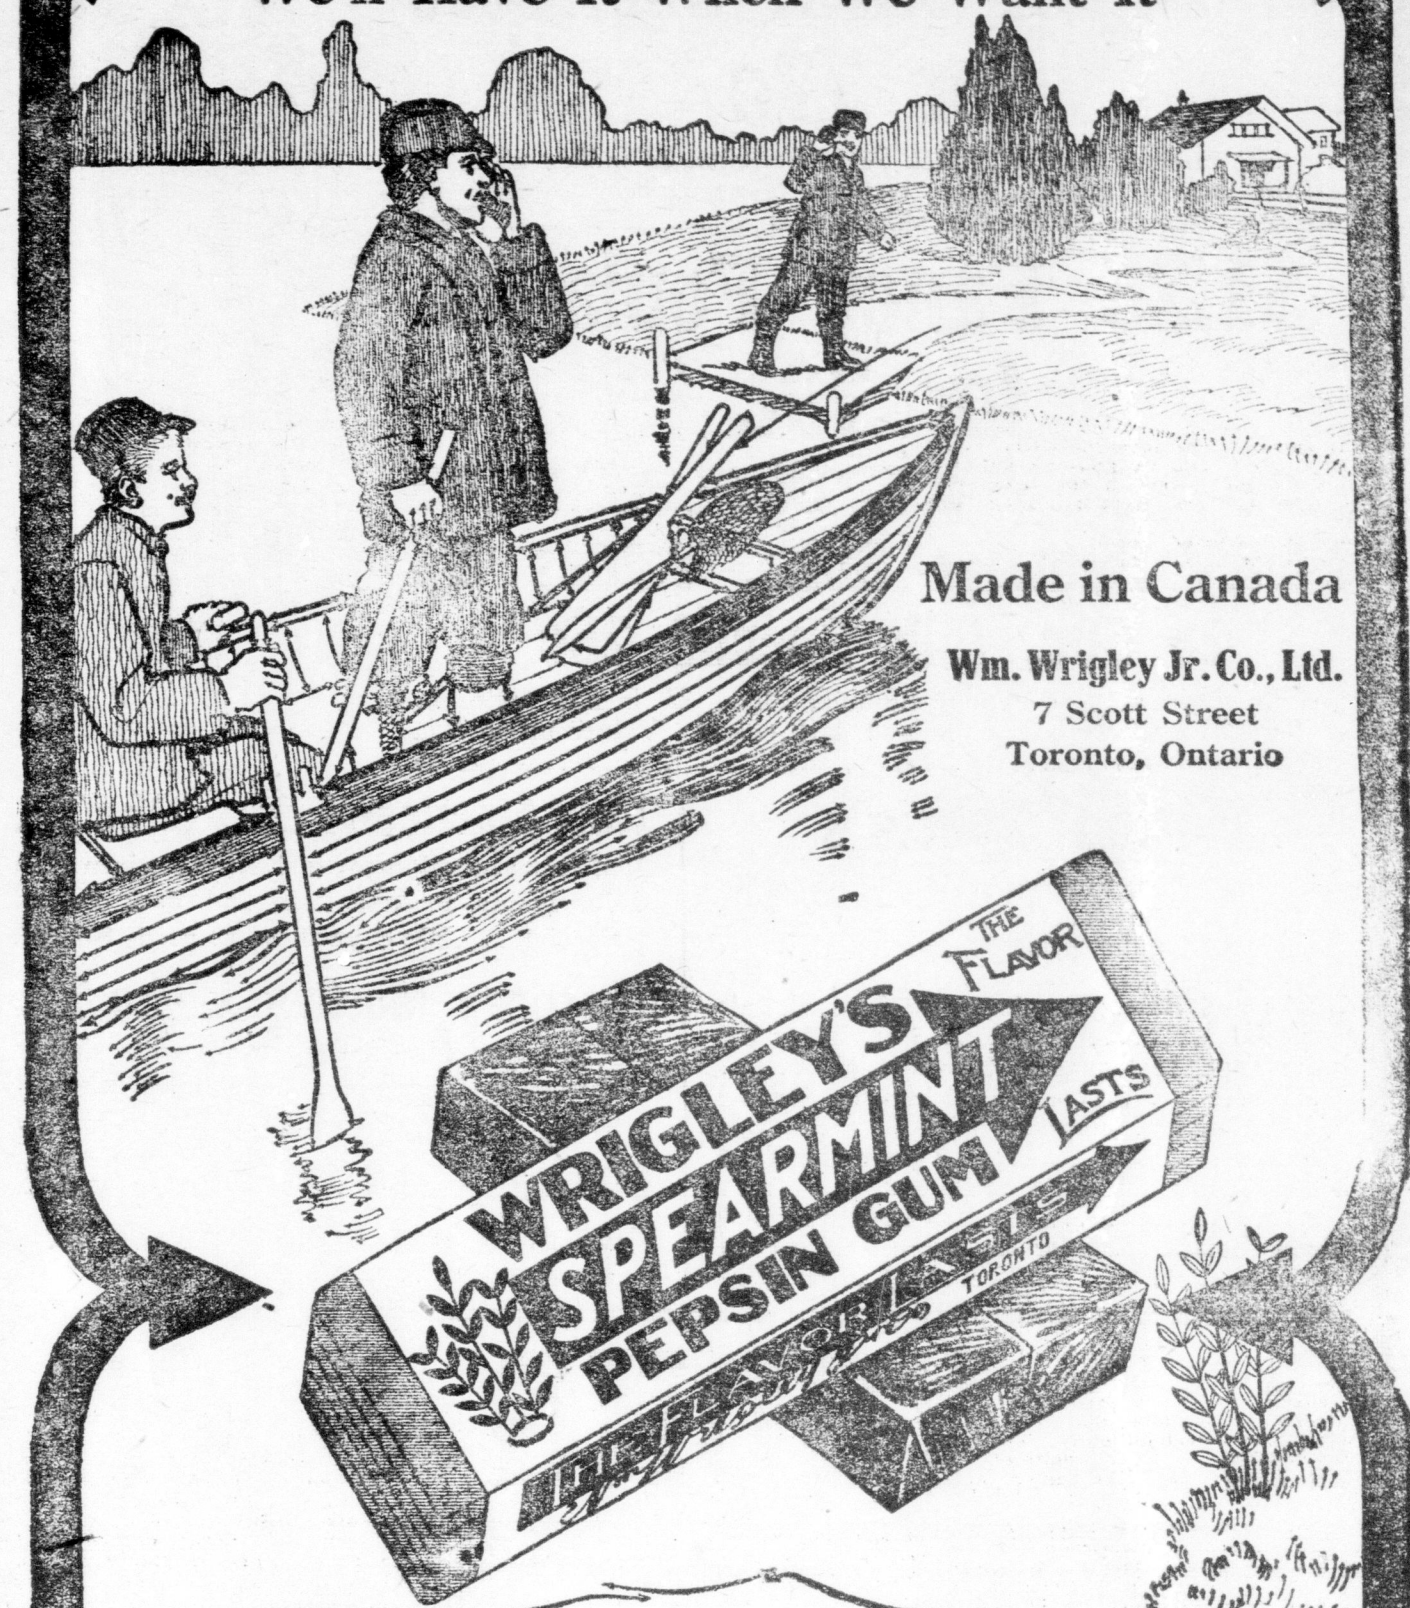

Almost everybody needs a spring tonic to help over this trying time. Otherwise he loses much valuable time in fighting off "spring fever," or contracts a serious disease. Nothing will so certainly help you as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure is a true tonic. It actually forms new, puts new energy and vigor into mind and body.

It is not a stimulant to whip up tired nerves, but by its upbuilding effects affords lasting benefit. Keep well this spring by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

ARMY AVIATOR KILLED.

Doeberitz, Germany, June 22.—Another army navigator was killed here yesterday evening. Lieutenant Von Falkenhayn, of the German army, after making a flight on the military aerodrome, attempted to land but made a false movement with one of the levers, which caused him to dash to the ground with great force. His machine was totally wrecked and the body of the aviator was found among the debris.
