WOODEN POLES.

The Application For an Injunction Prevent Their Erection Stands Over Until October Next.

Shortly after 10 yesterday morning the action by the city against the Street Rail-ray Company, which was enlarged from Yednesday, came up before Mr. Justice MacMahon in the Queen's Bench court room at Osgoode Hall. The city was represented by Z. A. Lash, Q.C., and Assistant City Solicitor Caswell, while the company's cause was looked after by Charles Moss, Q.C., and George Kannels.

solicitor Caswell, while the company as looked after by Charles Moss, Q.C., and George Kappele.

On Wednesday when the motion first came up for hearing it had been suggested by the learned judge that the parties should hold a conference and endeavor to arrive at a settlement, but notwithstanding this suggestion and the conference, which was held on Thursday, no-agreement could be come to. Thursday, no-agreement could be come to and such was the statement which Mr. Lash had to present to the learned judge yesterday when he asked as to the result of the suggestion of Wednesday.

His Lordship did not appear to feel anduly flattered by finding that the learned counsel found his aid indispensable, and he again suggested another conference in the hope that an arrangement might be made whereasy the company might go on putting up the wooden poles, but on the understanding that they should be replaced by the kind required by the Engineer should the court at they should be replaced by the kind required by the Engineer should the court at the trial find that he had the power which he claimed to have of approving of or rejecting the material which the company proposed to use in the construction of the railway.

But another conference only resulted in another failure, and when this was announced Justice MacMahon read an order which, in anticipation of another disagreement, he had already prepared, and which was as follows:

It is ordered that this motion do stand over the surface of the surface and the conference and over the surface of the surface of the company proposed to use in the construction of another disagreement, he had already prepared, and which was as follows:

It is ordered that this motion do stand over the surface of the surface

as follows:

s ordered that this motion do stand over till or other disposition of this action and be disposed of, and that the rights of all parties seserved and smforced by the judgment in oction, and that the defendants shall not or acquire any greater or different rights they now have by or with respect to any heretofore or hereafter done by them.
Treserved to be disposed of on disposition of

The trial of the action cannot take place until the fall assizes, which begin on Oct. 18, and in the meantime the company may go a putting up their wooden poles, but at the isk of having to take them down again hould the court on the trial of the action ecide against them.

AROUND THE WAREHOUSES.

Advances Reported in Currants, Almonds despatch received by a Front-street house yesterday quoted granulated sugar loc higher in New York and stated that raw were advancing. There was no change

The World was shown a sample of the finest flowery golden-tip Pekin Ceylon tea yesterday. It is claimed to be the finest sample in Canada to-day. It was this description of tea which it will be remembered sold some time ago in the London market at $125 a pound.

All almonds were quoted at 2c a pound higher yesterday, and Greueble walnuts showed a similar gain.

Currants were advanced %c to %c yesterday, Advices from Greece read: "Owing to heavy rain in July and the ravages of peronasperos it is estimated that the crop will be 40,000 tons short and prices will be higher. Quality of fruit is also likely to be inferior to last year. In addition the Government of Greece has passed a law prohibiting the export of new currants before Aug. 28, therefore there will be no early shipments this year."

Editor World: I would feel obliged if you would kindly inform me what steps are necessary to take to get a permit to carry weapons of defence. I am a quiet and weapons of defence. I am a quiet and peaceable man, as my neighbors can testify, but like other folks have an enemy who does his best to amoy and persecute me; his name is Bill Barkis (he is J. Gould's hired man). While enjoying a smoke and a glass of Spadina ale from one of their dollar and half kegs, he grossly insulted me. My wife Ann being away at the time I was totally unprotected and at the vilain's mercy, which he knew and took advantage of. Kindly answer above and oblige,
