reverses on an appeal before Judge McDougall yesterday afternoon. The testimony of the complaining witness Greenwood before the latter judiciary did not appear in itself to show any particular failure on the part of Mr. McArthur to live up to the agreement entered into between Greenwood and the International Emigration Association, limited, of London, Eng., and Toronto, by which concern the young man had been shipped to this country as a farm "cadet."

It appears that instead of Greenwood not having received the stipulated $5 per month and board as a farm student from the two or three farmers to per month and board as a farm student from the two or three farmers to whom he had been assigned by Mr. McArthur, the resident superintendent of the association, he had, unconsciously perhaps, engaged to work for a certain period without any remuneration whatever. So clear did the case appear to the learned judge that the appeal was granted and the former conviction quashed without the necessity on the part of the defendant of introducing any evidence.

Mr. Curry, for the Crown, attempted to introduce testimony tending to show that McArthur had not at all times acted in fairness with the cadets placed in his hands for disposition, but the court refused the testimony on the ground that it was not relevant to

Henry A. King & Co., 12 King-street east, received the following despatch from Chicago to-day:

A customer says: "In your market letter yesterday you say of provisions: 'Prices very low, but the conditions which have made them so are still in existence, is not this the case with wheat?" Not exactly. Provisions have been depressed by unusually large receipts of hogs, which are being marketed more freely than heretofore, and the average weight is increasing. The season is approaching when a slacker demand for meats is expected. In the case of wheat, it is generally agreed that we have seen the maximum of the movement. Receipts have been declining rapidly for a fortnight, and at the same time there has been an increased demand for consumption. Winter wheat reserves are approaching exhaustion, and to a larger exhaut this section will be dependent on the thochwest for supplies from now on. It is possible to get an intelligent idea of the yield and movement of wheat through the records made on the various exchanges, but experience has shown that not even an approximately correct estimate of the hog supply can be made. For the first five days this week primary receipts of wheat have been 677,000 bush less than for the same days last week, and about 1,500,000 less than two weeks ago. Exports have not been quite as large as last week, but the outward movement from visible stocks has been considerably heavier. Chicago has sent out a good deal of winter wheat to milers, and the other shipments from Minneapolis and Duluth have been large, To-day Duluth repairs shipments of 727,000, or nearly as much as was received at both Minneapolis and Duluth. The market closes practically unchanged from last night. Think we have had our rally, and while the market will probable be an evening-up one to-morrow, think it will go lower.

McIntyre & Wardweil (John J. Dixon) received the following despatch to-day from Schwartz, Dupee & Co.. Chicago:

After weak opening, wheat closed about at Thursday's figures. The entire range was within ½c. Everybody seemed to feel that there would be at least a pause around 60 cents for May. Receipts everywhere were larger than last year's, but less than last week's, 96s cars in the Northwest, against $22 a year ago; 240 cars here, against 122 in 1894. The early dipwas on lower cables. There was not much pressure to liquidate Dec. Northwestern advices were of a very small increase in stocks next Monday, not over 100,000 bush, at Minneapolis and Duluth. There was a fair cash business, about 130,000 bush winter wheat in scattered lots. The chances are that there will be further pressure on Dec. between now and delivery day, although the important lines possibly have been changed. Seaboard clearances were about 275,000 bush.

Corn—Nearby deliveries of corn were weak. Nov got to 26%c, the lowest on record. Charters were 75,000 bush. There was a poor cash demand. Receivers and shippers were the best sellers of the nearby deliveries. The prospect of very cold weather had a weakening influence.

Provisions opened active and weak, but soon firmed up, and ruled dull and steady up to the closing, which was a shade better than yesterday. The offerings by packers and commission houses were small and pit traders were covering their shorts. On any rally the market will again be a sale.
