MIND WHAT YOU SAY.

It is always well to avoid saying anything that is improper. But it is especially so before children. And here parents, as well as others, are often in fault. Children have as many ears as grown persons, and they are generally more attentive to what is said before them. What they hear they are apt to repeat, and as they have not discretion and knowledge of the world enough to disguise anything, it is generally found that "children and fools speak the truth." See that little boy's eyes glisten while you are speaking of a neighbor, in language that you would not wish to have repeated. He does not fully understand what you mean, but he will remember every word; and it will be strange if he does not cause you to blush by a repetition.

A gentleman was in the habit of calling at a neighbor's house, and the lady had always expressed to him, as was usual, her happiness from his visit. Her little boy entered the room. The gentleman took him on his knee and asked him.

"Are you not glad to see me, George?"
 "No sir," said the boy.
 "Why not, my little man?" he continued.
 "Because mother don't want you to come," said George.

"Indeed! how did you come to know that, George?"
 Here the mother was crimson, and looked daggers at her little son. But he saw nothing, and replied:

"Because she said yesterday that she wished that old bore would not call here again."

That was enough. The gentleman's hat was soon put in requisition, and he left, with the impression that "great is truth, and will prevail."

Another little child, looking sharply in the face of a visitor, and being asked what she meant by it, replied:

"I wanted to see whether you had a drop in your eye; I heard mother say that you had frequently."

A boy once asked one of his father's guests, who lived next door to him; and when he heard his name, he asked if he was not a fool.

"No, my little friend," replied the guest, "he is not a fool, but a very sensible man. But why do you ask that question?"

"Because," replied the boy, "mother said the other day that you were next door to a fool, and I wanted to know who lived next door to you."—Olive Branch.

COMPOUND CHAMOMILE CORDIAL.

THIS Cordial, as its name announces, is prepared exclusively by a Member of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, from the Flowers of Chamomile and other vegetable ingredients, imported expressly from England. Not only as a Tonic does it stand unrivalled, but its peculiar medicinal virtues have acquired a justly celebrated reputation, surpassing the famed SASSAPARILLA, in which, in point of richness of taste and flavor, as well as in practical efficacy, it is incomparably superior.

These inestimable virtues, which daily recur, are more delicately concentrated and developed in the Cordial, which from its transparency and golden colour resembles Wine, and as such may be used with freedom. The flavor is fresh and fragrant, and the taste most grateful and unobtrusive, either to the lady, the Temperance advocate, or Genuine connoisseur.

TESTIMONIALS.

Toronto, June 24th, 1852.

Messrs. REXFORD & Co.

GENTLEMEN.—We have tested the Sample Bottle, with which you favoured us, of your "Compound Chamomile Cordial," and find it a most delicate, fragrant and agreeable in the palate, and consider it an excellent Preparation for the use of the valuable Tonic Properties of the Flowers of Chamomile.

We are, &c.

GENTLEMEN.—I duly received, and have tried the Sample of "Compound Chamomile Cordial," which you sent me. A taste of the manner in which you prepare it, and of the nature and quality of the ingredients which you employ in its manufacture, cannot effect in me to give in writing my opinion of it, which I should not hesitate to do under different circumstances.

I consider it a very elegant Pharmaceutical Preparation, susceptible of being made exceedingly useful in a dietical as well as the therapeutic point of view. It will serve as an excellent substitute for much of the trash which is purchased as Wine for the use of Invalids; and will also prove an excellent medium for the agreeable conveyance of remedies, which, without some such auxiliaries, are often rebelled against and rejected by the stomach.

I am, Gentlemen,

Messrs. REXFORD & Co.

GENTLEMEN.—I duly received, and have tried the Sample of "Compound Chamomile Cordial," which you sent me. I consider it a very elegant Preparation, and useful in all cases where a mild Tonic is required, more especially in cases of Dyspepsia, and weakness of the Stomach; it being very agreeable to taste, can be taken by any one.

Messrs. REXFORD & Co.

GENTLEMEN.—I have received the Sample Bottle of your "Compound Chamomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as highly palatable preparation. The aromatic and peculiar bitter flavor, in which lies the essential medicinal qualities, appears to be largely infused and well preserved; and as this Vegetable Tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia, depending on debility, or want of tone of the digestive organs, (the form most frequently met with on this continent,) your Cordial will, I doubt not, form an inestimable addition to our Pharmacopoeia.

From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Rexford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist, I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending the preparation of this valuable Tonic to my Professional brethren, and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating Cordial.

Messrs. REXFORD & Co., Toronto, C. W.

GENTLEMEN.—I have no hesitation in expressing to you my professional approbation of your "Compound Chamomile Cordial." The Tonic properties of the Flowers of Chamomile, with which it is finely blended, are so universally acknowledged, and the Medicinal qualities of that vegetable ingredient so fully admitted in Dyspepsia complaints, that I consider the idea of administering it in the pleasing form of a Cordial most happy; and in the case of your preparation, so successful, that it cannot fail to be a favorite with the public.
