Altho they entered the game favoritas, Vics were plainly outplayed by the Junior School men. The science students had a much better back field than Vic did, and this to a large extent was the cause of the S.P.S. win. For the first two quarters the play wast very even and the count at the half-lime interval was 2 to 2. School lasted better in the latter part of the game. Their backs played a steady game all the way thru, while Vics' fell down badly.

The absence of Wilf. Bowles, who sustained a broken rib in the game against Senior Meds, was largely responsible for Victoria's defeat. The place of the clever quartarback could not be filled. Beasley was not able to make Vics' machine work as smoothly as Bowles has been able to do, and Parney, who filled Beasley's place on the rear guard, fell down wofully at 'critical moments and allowed' School to score the points that put them in the lead. On the line School had a hard task to hold their own. Crane and Birdsall hit the line hard and their persistent pounding af, last brought results. They stood head and shoulders above the rest of their team and were largely responsible for pulling the game thru to a successful issue.

Birdsall was well supported on the half line by Mix and Scott, who got in effective work and helped to outclass the crippled Victoria rear guard. Sweatman and Knox were the good men on the Viciline until the latter had to retire with a broken collarbone. Adams and Griffith were good on the defensive work. No offside interference was tolerated by Referee Warren Coryell, who called everything that came under his notice, showing a distinct change of mind from the other games which he has handled. Vics claimed that they had interference ca

Victoria's back field, but his work was not as effective as against Meds.

It was an ideal game from a players' standpoint, altho there was a chilly breeze that blew across the field and tried desperately to dampen the spirits of the rooters of the rival factions. Both teams received lots of encouragement and yells were continually splitting the air. Over 1000 people turned out to witness the struggle, and the rooters frequently tried to drown each other out.

The Play in Detail.

The Methodists kicked off to the northern end of the field. After the kick-off Vics gained possession on interference; and Sweatman was downed for a loss on the first down. Knox went thru for five yards on the next and Birdsall ran Pearson's boot out on the last down. School was not able to make headway on two downs so Birdsall hoisted to Parney, who

It was most discouraging for a Hamiltonian to sit idly by and witness the slaughter. The Argo backs outbooted, outran and in every way outplayed the Tiger trio; the outside wings pounced down the field as regularly as clockwork, and refused to allow the Bengal rearguard the slightest chance of getting away, and the huskler wing line pounded its way thru for big gains so often as to make one dizzy. Manson clearly earned the distinction of being the greatest half-back of the day. He was in reality the whole back division in the last three or four games. Realizing that he was the most dangerous man to contend with, the other clubs kept a watchful eye on him, and the result was that in the last two games played before Toronto crowds, he did not show anything like the form that stamped him as Canada's best. Eastern Clubs to Form Strong Banner Year for the O. H. A Group—Signing Up the Pro Players.

A Brockville despatch says: The executive of the Brockville Hockey Club is still undecided as to whether it will lend its aid to the organization of an independent eastern league or go in with a rrovement to form another group of the O.H.A. The latter move is meeting with more popular favor, but definite decision has been reserved for another deliberation of the executive. Jim Sutherland of Kingston wants Brockville, Cornwall, St. Patricks (Otiawa), and Kingston Frontenacs grouped for the O.H.A., with a likelihood of Smith's Falls being included. Queen's College has also been negotiating with Brockville to catch a place in some league with the Island City.

Montreal sends the following:

The hold-outs on his team are not causing President Lichtenbein any worry. "If these players do not sign up and turn out to practice when they are notified, they will later have to accept lower salaries than those we originally offered them. We will pay each player according to the condition he is in when he turns out, and none of them will get themselves into condition at our expense," said the Wanderer executive clief.

The players signed up to date by the two local N.H.A. clubs are as follows:

Wanderers — Hesson, Boyes, Sprague

Hamilton Herald: If Toronto Argonauts had played the same brand of Rugby all during the season that they displayed against the champion Tigers in the benefit game, they would have occupted the top of the lauder without a single defeat. Tigers would have gone under just the same as Ottawa and Montreal. Certainly the double-blue warriors were a great machine on Saturday, and much better than Tigers were at any tame during the campaign. The rejuvenated Argos were complete masters. As they say of a baseball pitcher, they had everything.

Tigers captured the Big Four and Dominion honors, but they were not a great team, by any means. They couldn't compare for a minute with the aggregation of 1913, that swept all before it, from Montreal to Calgary. Their success was due more to the weakness of the other clubs than to their own prowess, and they didn't show any improvement, for the simple reason that they didn't think it necessary to show any earnestness in their work. Frank Shaughnessy brought a team out of the capital that the 1913 team would have smothered. What did they do? They held this year's team to a 7-to-2 score at the H.A.A.A field, and were always close enough to reverse the tables at any time. They were beaten, but not outclassed. They had five candidates for positions behind the line, but the bulk of the work fell on Sammy Manson, and, regardless of how effective a back may be, he can't accomplish much if watched as carefully as he was. Chicken McKelvey was not himself after the battle in Ottawa, when he was subjected to a grueling; Jack Erskine was not at home on the back division, and Jack McKelvey's work was also a big disappointment. He was also injured and his speed, that was expected to help win any game he started in, was lacking as a result. Preston wires: The local hockey teams are going to have considerable difficulty to arrange their dates at the Arena.

The rink management are in the same boat, for they have at present five teams that have applied for dates to practice, as well as dates on which they can play their games.

In addition to the O. H. A. teams and two teams in the Northern League the Manufacturers' League wants to play their games this year at the Arena.

If the rink management complete arrargements with all the hockey teams that want to play at the rink this winter there will not be many nights left open for the skaters.

There is a rumor that the Car and Coach Senior Northern team will play their games at the old rink, if arrangements can be made with the curlers, who have the rink leased.

I am confident that when the proper time comes, we will find both leagues anxious to participate in Stanley Cup matches and quite willing to agree to any reasonable conditions which may be imposed by the trustees for these competitions. "I am sorry that there has been any split between the leagues as I felt that conditions in the game were much improved within the past few years, a result which, no doubt, was due to the excellent arrangements entered into since the coast league was organized."
