LEAFS ARE HITTING IN THE RIGHT SPOTS

Tho Winning, They Are Absolutely Devoid of Pep What About a Bonus?

By Ida L. Webster.

About the only thing which stirred to any extent at the island yesterday was the gentle breezes, and you may take our word for it that they certainly did move; in fact, the few fans who had braved the joy blasts snuggled down closer into their collarless coats and prayed for the good old summer time, or the winter's coal supply.

the icy blasts snuggled down closer little their collarless coats and prayed for the good old summer time, or the winter's coal supply.

Peterson did the pitching and Babe the catching for the somewhat frost-bitten Leafs, and altho there were not any medals on their work, yet it was much too good for the Driscoll cuifft. For the first time in many weeks Babe allowed three bases to be stolen on him; however, one time it was not his fault in any way, because the throw was perfect, but Gonzales either forgot to put the ball on the player or he was too coid to do so. In any case, the man was safe a mile.

As for Pete, it was one of the days when he got away to a good start, and one could easily see from the confident manner in which he worked that he was brimming over with a bunch of new and good lokes. Other ball players have left the ranks and gone in for the theatrical profession, and they were not nearly so witty as the big blonde, nor had they the born gift of telling stories as he has, so that we wonder why Pete does not fall in line. One thing is sure. Any time you are feeling like hitting some one on the head with a hammer go over and get Peterson to tell you a few of his own special jokelets, and if you do not forget your grudge against the other fellow we will buy.

Waldbauer came back and tried to make the home crew eat humble pie, but he failed as miserably as on his last appearance, which was in the first game Thursday. However, as on the other occasion, he pitched fairly good ball, but his support was wretched, and then he has the most unhappy faculty of allowing a bunch of hits all in one blace, which, as you know, always proves fatal, and particularly when the Howley mob have their batting clothes on.

Previous to the invasion by Jersey City Mr. Driscoll called up and assured us that his club was in great form and that they were all set to give Dan and his men a tough battle for the three games. We are now wondering what would have happened to his bunch Lad they not been in such wonderfully good for Bisons Next. The next on the program will be a three-game series with Buffals, and from former experiences with them you know that they will be duck soup for the boys right now. However, it might be boys right now. However, it might be a little more life. Secause tussle for our money before they blow the town for the season.

In the meantime the Bingos will be stacked up against Jack Dunn, the original baseball battler of the world, and if he does not live up to his reputation and make those kids from the shoe town hustle it will be the greatest wonder of the age. Dunn has a gang of youths with him, and he has them trained to a nicety. Not one of them would think of lying down on the job for a second, so that there is every reason to believe that they will put up a most desperate the men who have made it possible for them to get that coin.

We have been given to understand that the president of the club is going to allow the players to divide the money which will be gathered in on the barnstorming trip. Should this be true we must say that the gentleman is a philanthropist of no mean calibre. Can you imagine a gang of fellows playing ball after the official season is over and then after the official season is over and then naving to divide the spoils with the club? Any money which may be made on that trip will be donated by the fans thruout the country for the pleasure of watching Toronto players play ball, and not would up their at home seas.) yesterfor the honor of having a look at any president.

So far as the club is concerned the players do not need the assistance of the staff on their trip, because, as we said before, the fans want the players only, and during the time of war, and the scarcity of food, other travelers are neither asked for nor desired, so that if the players have any sense at all they will not take along excess baggage, and particularly when that same baggage would not be a drawing card at the gate. Money is all that they need to think about, and let the prestige part of the staff of the Herd were kept scattered. The scores:

Still we ask did Pake Fisher.

Still we ask, did Babe Fisher get his cheque for the home run which put the Toronto club in the lead? Also, do not forget that if the club had not gotten to top that day they would now be much fartbur behind in the percentage. a good idea for a little more life, because a good idea for a little more life, because after times those ham clubs cause all sorts of trouble and there is a possible chance that the Bisons might give us a tussle for our money before they blow the town for the season.

In the meantime the Bingos will be of lying down on the job for a second, so that there is every reason to believe that they will put up a most desperate fight for at least one of the three games, and if they are in their old-time form they will struggle desperately for all three.

So far as the contending clubs are concerned, after seeing the performance of the Binghamton club a few lays ago, they look much the better outfit. Every man in the crowd is on his toes all the way, and they are all fighting mad to win that old pennant, probably this demonstration being due to the $200 bonus, but in any case it is right there and most apparent. Not that we do not think that the men on the Toronto line-tup are doing their best, because we do, and we appreciate only too well just how hard they are trying, but they certainly are lacking in pep.

Yesterday, for instance, they walked in and out from the bench with about as much ambition as a flock of snow lord as much ambition as a flock of snow lord as much ambition as a flock of snow lord after a hard season. In fact, they looked to be bored to death, but at the loads after a hard season. In fact, they looked to be bored to death, but at the loads after a hard season. In fact, they looked to be bored to death, birds after a hard season. In fact, they looked to be bored to death, but at the same time they should try to remember that the fans are paying their good money not to watch them in their weary, dragged-out style, but in all the dash which the end of the year, and expecially when the championship is so close, should call for.

But thea we do not blame the flayers in any way, but the executive of the club. They cannot expect men to work their heads off for love, and particularly when they know that another crowd of players are being offered an indusement for the display of speed. Right is right, and when any club has made the money which the Toronto one has, than it is up to them to scatter a little of it among the men who have made it possible for them to get that coin.

We have been given to understand that the president of the club is going to allow the players to died.

In the fifth netted five runs and put the died. The fifth netted five runs and put the died. The fifth netted five runs and put the died. The fifth netted five runs and put the double fifth in the fifth netted five runs and put the double fifth in the fer opened the dolings with a hit to left, and Peterson, laid down a bunt. The bases were filled when Gonzales hit safely. Callahan's two- of the Hams lost to Baltimore by a score of two fifth in the case of the Cuban and Callahan galloped in on Lear's smash. Breen lost the third strike on Bader, who took first. Mokan's hit let the day for Toronto.

The Pests got their other two counters in the ninth, Barbare beat out one to short, and then Anderson threw badly on Whitehouse, Bluhm flied to centre, and Barbare moved up to third on the Barbare scored on Felz's infield out.

Breen bounced a hit to third and Whiteholds and Walteholds and Callahan's the players to die the money which the president of the club is going to allow the players to divide the money was over.

Both teams held their final workouts last night and should be in the best of condition, as all the boys have been practising faithfully all week. The rivalry between the two teams is so keen that most of the players would rather win this game than have a winter's supply of coal given to them.

It is likely that two of three new faces will be seen in the line-up of both clubs, as both have signed up several new players since the last game. Riverdales have been successful in securing the signatures of "Gene" Dopp and Powers, which should greatly strengthen them on the attack, while Beaches have landed Parkinson and Harcourt of last year's champlonship Young Toronto team, so feel confident of their ability to down all comers.

was on the field at the time of the tragic accident.

He was instructor of aerial acrobatics at Call Field, and was at a height of 2000 feet, executing a loop, when the machine crashed to earth. Cadet Ellis P. Babcock, son of Brig.-General Babcock, U.S.A. who was with him, was also killed.

Flight-Lieut. McGlffin played junior for the Simcoes of Toronto, and later turned professional. He was one of the gamest and most aggressive players in the N.H.A., and was known as "the hornet." He was also a football player of great promise. Some years ago he went to San Francisco to live with an uncle, and returned in the winter to play hockey. His mother lives in Toronto. A cousin, Lieut, Alan McGlffin, is overseas.
