Men's Fine New Fall Suits.

Many a man is prejudiced against Ready-made Clothing. For years he has cherished the idea that nothing short of made-to-order work will give thorough workmanship, good style or a perfect fit. That's the man we like to get hold of, because we can give him exactly what he wants from our clothing stock, although it is ready-made, but making it ourselves we make it what it ought to be and what a stylish, careful dresser demands. Our Suits and Overcoats are correct in material, up-to-date in style and well tailored throughout. They look neat, dressy and stylish; they fit perfectly. Come and try them. They'll cost you about half what you'd pay your tailor for equal quality, style or work. Try one of these Suits for your Fall wear. Our $10.00 and $12.50 suits are winners:

THE U.S. WANTS MORE OF OUR TRADE

The importance of Canada's trade to the United States is a subject which has been discussed in the past, but it is now being discussed with more interest than ever. The U.S. papers are all discussing this topic and wonder why so little attention has been paid to so important a matter. Our neighbors have suddenly come to realize that Canada's trade is worth more to them than that of all the American republics combined, with China and Japan thrown in. According to The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post the magnitude of the trade between the U.S. and Canada has been estimated at $1,000,000,000. This is a figure which is not far from the truth. The U.S. wants more of our trade.

Our neighbors are so anxious for markets, why not develop this one? At present the Canadian who wants to buy goods in the U.S. has to go to New York or to some other city, and pay for his trip, and then pay for his goods. This is a very expensive way of doing business. The U.S. wants more of our trade.

LEFT IN THE FROZEN NORTH

Dr. Dedrick of the Peary Arctic Expedition Preferred to Remain With the Esquimaux.

Believed to Be Suffering From Mental Aberration—A Distressing Incident.

New York, Sept. 22.—The Peary Arctic expedition, under command of Herbert L. Bridgman of Brooklyn, which connected with Peary in the Arctic region last summer and recently returned here, was affected by a distressing incident, Dr. S. Dedrick, the physician who went North with Peary, was left alone at the Esquimaux settlement of Etah on Smith Sound, where the doctor went ashore when Mr. Bridgman's ship, the Erik, stopped on her homeward way. Dr. Dedrick had resigned from Peary's expedition after various disagreements or differences of opinion, and was not wholly satisfied with the expedition. Dr. Dedrick had been left alone at Etah on Smith Sound, where the doctor went ashore when Mr. Bridgman's ship, the Erik, stopped on her homeward way.
