

Of Interest to Women

Inaugural Ball at Woodstock

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 24.—(Special.)—The inaugural ball given by Lieut. Col. White and the officers of the 2nd Regiment, Oxford Rifles, in the new armories, was a success. Nearly five hundred guests from Woodstock, Hamilton, London, St. Thomas, Stratford, Galt, Ingersoll, Guelph, Brantford, Toronto and other towns and cities of Ontario were gathered at this, Woodstock's first military ball.

Ontario Ladies' College

The annual convocations of the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, will be held on Friday, Feb. 17. For the convenience of visitors a special train (G. V.) will leave the Union Station at 7 p.m., going direct to the college grounds; returning, will leave the grounds at 12 noon, calling at Riverdale (Queen-street) both going and returning. Railway and admission tickets may be procured from Mr. R. J. Rogers, 77 West King-street, or Mr. R. C. Hamilton (Love, Hamilton & Bascombe), 26 East Wellington-street.

Personal

The German Conversation Club will meet this evening at the residence of Louis F. Heyd, 418 Sherbourne-street.

Robert McCartney of Longburn, near the well-known farming centre of Portage la Prairie, Man., is in the city just now visiting his business associates. Mr. McCartney, who is a typical specimen of the successful western farmer, is accompanied by his wife and her aunt, Mrs. D. Sutorland of Nain, one of the oldest settlers in the west. The happy party are guests at the Hotel Daly, and will leave to-day to renew old acquaintances at Van-kleeck Hill.

Hon. R. F. Sutherland, Speaker of the House of Commons, is the guest of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity during his stay in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Stevenson of Dovercourt-road left yesterday to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida.

Ed. Rainey of Uxbridge, vice-president of the Uxbridge Hockey Club, was in the city last night in charge of the team that met the T.R.C. at Mutual-street.

Mrs. F. I. Fox will receive for the first time at her apartment, 2 Bloor-street east, next Monday afternoon and on Mondays during February.

Mrs. Samuel Harris, 115 College-street, is giving an "at home" for Miss Ennals, Foulson, Boston, this afternoon.

Mrs. Mavor has issued invitations for an afternoon tea on Saturday, Feb. 8, after his lecture on "The Esquimaux of the Mackenzie River."

Invitations are out for the fourth annual at home for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society, at the Temple

World Fattern Department

BEAUTY PATTERN CO.

5975—An Attractive Blouse Waist. A charming model is here sketched that is suitable for development in any of the soft, pretty materials now in vogue. As pictured, it is in chiffon broadcloth. Taken at the shoulders give a becoming fullness in front and the front ends lend a pretty touch to the mode. The chemise and standing collar may be of lace, embroidery or tucked materials. The sleeves may be finished long or in the fashionable three-quarter length. The design is suitable to broadcloth, voile, taffeta, feutrel and harricra. For 36 inches bust measure, 2 1/2 yards of 44-inch material will be required.

Pattern Department Toronto World

Send the above pattern to NAME..... ADDRESS..... I want—(Give size of Child or Miss' Pattern)

What the Theatres Offer

"Fascinating Flora"

"Fascinating Flora," which comes to the Princess on Thursday, is the latest success from the New York Grand Theatre. It is a musical comedy, with a score by Gustave Kerker, composer whose tuneful fancies have been responsible for a full dozen of Casino successes in the past quarter of a century. The book is by R. H. Burnside, general stage director for the Shuberts, and Joseph W. Herbert. The scenes are laid in Paris, in Wall-

learned that she was the owner of a stable, he would break off her match, she determined to sell out after "Wildfire" wins one more race. Two men are endeavoring to gain the widow's hand in marriage; one is a westerner who has made his money in mines, and the other is devoted to automobiles. Duffy makes a slighting remark about the widow, and the westerner, who has advanced to get even by breaking Duffy and his stable. He announces the fact to the widow. The widow engages a new jockey for the big race, as not knowing the real owner of the stable, the boy takes his orders from Duffy, who tells him not to let "Wildfire" win unless he can throw the race, and tells the widow. Meeting Duffy in the trainer's quarters, the widow permits him to make love to her during the race, she may have placed her hand on his shoulder as a signal to the jockey to win. Before Duffy gets the kiss for the attempt to throw the race, the widow and the widow boxes his ears for his presumption. Thinking the horseowner was a party to the plot, the crowd accuses the hand of Basophil, who is devoted to automobiles. Then she learns from him that the western admirer had nothing to do with the attempt to throw the race. He freed her from her promise, and the curtain falls with the widow telephoning to his rival to call and accept her answer to his proposal of marriage.

On Monday Miss Ida Conquest and the Royal Alexandra Players will commence their final week in Toronto. The play to be presented is "Her Great Match," adapted by Clyde Fitch for Miss Maxine Elliott. The story tells of a wealthy brewer, who, having accumulated sufficient wealth to retire upon, the desired title, the crown prince of the American social world. With the object in view, he goes to England, where he leases a handsome country place known as Medehelm Manor. His two most prominent guests are the Duchess of Hohenstein and her nephew, the crown prince Adolph of Bosphalia. The latter place, "The Botes," was born. Among the other guests are a Mrs. Sheldon of New York and her step-daughter, Jo. Mrs. Sheldon, the New York under a cloud owing to being mixed up in some shady financial transactions. Her creditors are pressing her closely to make a settlement. Being aware that the crown prince has been in the end love conquers and she flings herself into his arms. Laura Burt and Henry Stanford, principals with the late Sir Henry Irving, have the leading roles.

A new Irish musical drama, "The Singing Girl of Killarney," will be presented for the first time in this city at the Majestic Theatre next week. The drama is from the pen of the noted author Hal Reid, and is in four acts. It is a play of intense heart interest, from the rise to the final curtain and comedy, so deftly blended as to make it a production of intrinsic merit. Aside from its many novel musical features, which will include a number of original numbers, as well as favorite melodies from the "Emerald Isle," one of the most interesting "stage upon a stage" Madam Kallich coming.

For her third season under the direction of Harrison Gray Fiske, the distinguished English-speaking actress, Bertha Kallich, will be seen in "Marta of the Lowlands," the masterpiece of Angel Guimer, the eminent Spanish dramatist.

This play was written for the great-est of contemporary Spanish actresses, Maria Guerrero, and it has been her chief medium in many capitals. It is an exceptional play, true to nature, with a thrilling story and dramatic incidents filled with the dash, dash of motives that mark for in treatment and denouement. The exceptionally well-balanced cast includes Henry Kallich, Hardee Kirtland, Robert McWade, Thomas Pal-

lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Farewell Week at Alexandra

On Monday Miss Ida Conquest and the Royal Alexandra Players will commence their final week in Toronto. The play to be presented is "Her Great Match," adapted by Clyde Fitch for Miss Maxine Elliott. The story tells of a wealthy brewer, who, having accumulated sufficient wealth to retire upon, the desired title, the crown prince of the American social world. With the object in view, he goes to England, where he leases a handsome country place known as Medehelm Manor. His two most prominent guests are the Duchess of Hohenstein and her nephew, the crown prince Adolph of Bosphalia. The latter place, "The Botes," was born. Among the other guests are a Mrs. Sheldon of New York and her step-daughter, Jo. Mrs. Sheldon, the New York under a cloud owing to being mixed up in some shady financial transactions. Her creditors are pressing her closely to make a settlement. Being aware that the crown prince has been in the end love conquers and she flings herself into his arms. Laura Burt and Henry Stanford, principals with the late Sir Henry Irving, have the leading roles.

A new Irish musical drama, "The Singing Girl of Killarney," will be presented for the first time in this city at the Majestic Theatre next week. The drama is from the pen of the noted author Hal Reid, and is in four acts. It is a play of intense heart interest, from the rise to the final curtain and comedy, so deftly blended as to make it a production of intrinsic merit. Aside from its many novel musical features, which will include a number of original numbers, as well as favorite melodies from the "Emerald Isle," one of the most interesting "stage upon a stage" Madam Kallich coming.

For her third season under the direction of Harrison Gray Fiske, the distinguished English-speaking actress, Bertha Kallich, will be seen in "Marta of the Lowlands," the masterpiece of Angel Guimer, the eminent Spanish dramatist.

This play was written for the greatest of contemporary Spanish actresses, Maria Guerrero, and it has been her chief medium in many capitals. It is an exceptional play, true to nature, with a thrilling story and dramatic incidents filled with the dash, dash of motives that mark for in treatment and denouement. The exceptionally well-balanced cast includes Henry Kallich, Hardee Kirtland, Robert McWade, Thomas Pal-

lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.

Her friends think she is well-to-do, when, in reality, the stable is about all she possesses. Only the training shares with her the secret of its ownership, as she races under the name of John Duffy. Her little sister is engaged to marry the son of a reformer, whose object is to abolish racing in New York State. This young man has succumbed to the gambling fever and lost heavily to a John Duffy, a bookmaker. Many believe Duffy owns the stable and he permits the impression to be spread. The widow, knowing that if the reformer ever

street, New York City, and at Manhattan Beach, and give ample opportunity for splendid scenic environment. The story has to do with one Allegretti, the head of a conservatory of music in Paris, and his wife, an American comic opera prima donna. Through the piece the story runs consistently enough to furnish plenty of extremely lively and amusing situations, which are well taken advantage of by the splendid company, which brought almost direct from its production of the metropolitan engagement. Much of the music of this production has already achieved popularity, some half dozen of the numbers being widely directed generally. Mr. Burnside personally directed the staging of the production, and with his well known ingenuity devised extremely novel effects for the song numbers. Introduced features include Miss Jansell's clever imitations of stage celebrities.

The engagement begins Thursday evening and continues Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday. The advance seat sale begins Monday morning.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," by Geo. H. Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, which comes to the Princess the first half of next week. Lillian Russell plays the part of a young widow who has inherited a racing stable.</