HEARTY WELCOME TO RETURNED VETERANS

Twenty More Invalids Arrived in Toronto Yesterday From the Front.

THRILLING ESCAPES

A. M. S. Langtry Was Buried When His Dug-Out Collapsed.

Twenty more returned soldiers arrived in Toronto yesterday and were accorded a very hearty welcome. The band of the Toronto Light Infantry and an escort of members of the battalion took part in the reception ceremonies.

Included among the citizens gathered to welcome the war heroes were W. D. McPherson, M.L.A., representing the province; Sergt-Major Geo. Crishton and Aid. McGuire representing the city; Geo. Warwick, S. Harris and Albert Brown of the Voluntary Aid Association and 20 police officials with Inspector Verney, who were on hand to welcome Quartermaster-Sgt. L. A. Langtry, formerly a sergeant on the Toronto police force. He went to the front with the 15th Battalion and thru the battles of Ypres, St. Julien, Courcelette and Festubert. He returned yesterday in charge of the party of soldiers.

Had Narrow Escapes. Q.M.S. Langtry had many lucky escapes from being wounded. One time his kit was riddled with bullets and pieces of shrapnel. On another occasion he was buried when a dug-out collapsed. He was invalidated home because of rheumatism. He states that the Ross Rifle, even in the improved state, is not suitable for trench warfare.

Compound Fracture. While blowing up a mine at Givenchy, Sapper S. W. Hurst, 285 King street west, suffered two compound fractures and a wound from shell fragment in his leg. He went overseas with the second company of engineers.

Pte. W. W. Dunn came from Philadelphia, Pa., to enlist. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American War, the Boxer Rebellion, and fought at Vera Cruz. After seven months at the front inspecting artillery and repairing guns, he was invalidated home with heart trouble.

Survivor of Festubert. A survivor of the great fight in the Festubert orchards is Pte. S. Mills, 90 River street, who was in the machine gun section of the 39th Battalion. A piece of shrapnel completely destroyed his knee cap.

Pte. J. H. Bailey, Cobalt, was wounded at Armentieres. While his wound was not serious, he contracted rheumatism, which affected his feet, and made it necessary to be invalidated home.

Following are the names of the men who returned yesterday:

Spr. W. S. Kokom, 749 Richmond street; Pte. Willis, 465 Lansdowne avenue; Pte. J. Watkins, 90 River street; Pte. A. R. Stone, 171 Eastern avenue; Driver M. D. Rice, 117 Glenwood avenue; L.-Corp. F. COUNCIL TO ACT ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

Board of Control Recommend That Plan Begin Tuesday, June Twentieth.

PUBLICITY BUREAU

Controller Foster Declares It Will Be a White Elephant.

More was heard about daylight saving at yesterday's meeting of the board of control when it was decided upon a motion of the mayor, to send the following recommendations to the council:

That the City of Toronto inaugurate the daylight saving plan starting at midnight on Tuesday, June 20, and continue until October 5.

That a proclamation be issued asking co-operation and compliance by all citizens in the matter, and by the federal and provincial authorities and by local departments.

That in accordance with the resolution passed by the city council, the mayor write the other Canadian cities for information on the subject.

His worship, in urging the adoption of the plan, stated that many of the European countries already inaugurated daylight saving. The Union of Canadian Municipalities is working with the municipalities to adopt a general plan pending the passing of a law by the Dominion Government next year, he said.

When the establishment of an industrial and publicity bureau for Toronto came up, Controller Foster informed the board that it was going to unload a white elephant on the city. He maintained people who were unaware that Toronto had factory sites to offer were blind, as the harbor commissioners had signs erected everywhere.

Controller Cameron did not want the city to shoulder the expense of a meeting, which was held last September. It was decided to call a conference to consider the question.

The Mayor and Controller Foster opposed the appointment of W. G. Webber as permanent secretary of the fire department at a salary of $2000 a year, but Fire Chief Smith's recommendation was finally carried.

Considerable time was spent on the application of Colonel Ripley and the officers of the Construction Battalion for the post of chief of the city's recruiting purposes. Each of the controllers with the exception of Controller Foster, was in favor of making a grant. The militia department's letter stating that the government provided a salary of $2000 for the organization of units was read, and Controllers Cameron and Thompson both declared that the letter was in the city's interest.

It was decided to grant $1040 to the battalion. Controller Foster, being the only one dissenting, raised the question of the cost of the Red Cross rag collecting campaign. He stated that representatives of the Hebrew Protective Association, Controller Cameron thought that the motive behind the Red Cross rag collecting was undoubtedly a good one, but at the same time, he felt that the rag collectors might be able to come to some arrangement by which they could assist the society if the latter would refrain from collecting rags. The men stated that if they were allowed the exclusive right to collect rags in the city, they would each pay $10 a year to the Red Cross.

There are 600 men engaged in this business, which would mean $6000 a year to the fund and from the smaller buyers it would be quite possible to get $2000 a year. The men claimed that $4000 is the amount that the Society raises each year by the collection of rags. It was decided to discontinue with the society in this regard.

"Casual Employee." The definition of the words "casual employee" caused a little confusion when Ald. Gibbons introduced a deputation of scavengers from the street cleaning department. He stated that the definition of the word "casual" was not clear, but Commissioner Wilson did not want to do this. Controller Cameron could not see how a two-weeks annual vacation and sick pay would make the men permanent employees, but the fund and from the smaller buyers it would be quite possible to get $2000 a year. The men claimed that $4000 is the amount that the Society raises each year by the collection of rags. It was decided to discontinue with the society in this regard.

Information to be used in the note in reply to the American protest on the Chippawa Creek project adopted by the Ontario Government has been forwarded to Ottawa, it is stated, in the parliamentary buildings. What the letters from the Ontario cabinet contain is not announced. It will be given out from Ottawa when the note is forwarded to the British minister at Washington. The statement, however, that the Ontario Government has taken a firm stand in the matter, it is felt that if the note is written with no ulterior motive there should be no difficulty over the settlement of the points raised by the United States.

NEW TRAINING QUARTERS.

The strength of the 204 Beaver Battalion, being close to the thousand mark, has made it necessary for the new training quarters. Since drill each day is necessary, the government has consented to headquarters transfer to the North University campus. The quarters are large enough for the Beavers to carry out their drill and it is expected that they will be completed until they are ordered to Camp Gordon.

SGT. NEIMEYER RECALLED

Hamilton Recruiting League Displeased With Manner in Which He Works.

HAMILTON, Wednesday, May 31.—Sgt. W. C. Neimeyer has been recalled from the city at the request of the League, many of whom have declared that they will withdraw their support from the league if Neimeyer was allowed to continue recruiting here. While he has been successful in obtaining recruits, his manner of work was against him, more harm than good would be done. The 210th Battalion has started its recruiting campaign here for the purpose of signing up 50 men, from this city and the surrounding districts, in different parts of the city, and they intend to open depots at Burlington and Dundas, also. The Canadian Mounted Rifles are after more men, as an order for the overseas draft is expected daily. Recruiting for this unit throughout Ontario has been quite favorable, and different parts of the province, also, here, and the men are being sent to Toronto as soon as they are signed up.

The annual meeting of the Diocese of Niagara will be held at St. John's Cathedral, and will continue in session until tomorrow. Members are in attendance from the entire diocese and will present their business reports together with proposed amendments.

The standing committee showed that the amount held by the Diocese for the purpose of the $506,225.85, and that during the past year the income from the invested funds was $10,000.

The city council, by a vote of 11 to 2, last evening endorsed the recommendation of the board of control respecting the daylight-saving scheme. The council means that, beginning at 9 o'clock next Sunday, all city clocks will be advanced one hour.

The H. & B. strike continues here, without any sign of a settlement. At a meeting held by the strikers yesterday, a representative of the men were securing positions with local firms. The motive force was in touch with the motive force yesterday for the purpose of making an effort to get the King's-Noting definite was done on this move.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

mand that Germany is verging on the point of exhaustion in mood.

How comes it then that the Germans are playing into the hands of the French by persisting in their battering at Verdun? The military explanation is this. In their original attack, the Germans forced the French back to the high ground, but their own lines are generally drawn in the hollows, trenches of the enemy, and these trenches are therefore constantly subjected to accurate shelling from the commanding positions. The Germans therefore are constrained either to retreat to avoid useless losses or to adhere to a policy of complete inactivity, both of which are equally disadvantageous to them.

Keeping up their attacks on the hundredth day of the assault, the German soldiers captured some small posts on a narrow front between the slopes of Le Mort Homme and Cumieres Village on a depth of line, held at the most by two men and a machine of this narrow strip of yards' interval, gives no foundation for the claim of the enemy to having taken prisoner 35 officers, including several French staff officers, and 1313 unaccounted for. It is highly doubtful if a full company held the positions captured at the outset, and these men probably fell back upon a footing into them.

It was unusually quiet on the British front yesterday. No infantry trenches southeast of Neuville St. Vaast were shelled, but the artillery Basee Canal. North of the Lys, British counter-batteries engaged successfully in a duel with the artillery of the enemy near Messines. German aircraft were more active than usual and they shot down a British machine in an aerial combat. It fell in the British lines. British airmen returned the compliment by bringing down a German machine out of control within its own lines.

With Teutonic stubbornness the Austrian high command, after its failure to dislodge the Italians from their mountain positions in the south-west, again drove its men forward to the assault in the Posina zone, with the result that this series of attacks shared the same fate as the previous ones. All the Italian positions were held the same as the previous ones. The Austrians broke through the Italian lines at Ospedaletta. On the northern slopes of considerable extent of Austrian trenches.

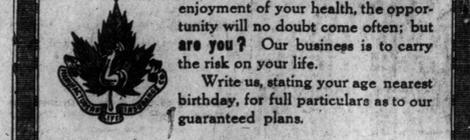

Brig-Gen. Northey, who invaded German East Africa from the south-west, occupied New Langenberg, north of Lake Niassa, on May 25, and the Germans were compelled to evacuate it. The British have also surrounded a German garrison at Maramba, 23 miles northeast of Abercorn on Gen. Smuts the whole credit for the new flanking operation. This is a mistake, owing to a mental confusion in regard to the handling of military operations. In a modern war all campaigns are planned by a body of expert staff officers. These men not only collect all data in reference to the proposed operation, but they draw up the plans, estimate the force required to do the work, give instructions to the general in command as to how the campaign is to be conducted, and place sufficient men at his disposal for the task. The general is the leader in the field. If the staff has good chances of being successful. In the present instance the plans for the reduction of German East Africa were prepared by the newly-organized British general staff under Sir William Robertson. Previous British subsidiary campaigns have been failures owing to deficiencies in the general staff, and this defect has been remedied by the creation of a general staff for the control of all land operations undertaken by the British

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 30.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt came to Kansas City today, and in several speeches sounded an appeal for preparedness, declaring vigorously for universal training based on universal service.

He carried his warning that there was a war peril in pacifism to all classes. A pocket-knife was thrown at Col. Roosevelt's motor car during the memorial parade, and it struck the arm of John W. McGraith, the former president's secretary, and fell to the running board of the car. McGraith tonight said there was no force behind the knife, and he believed someone had tossed it towards the car as a joke.
