PARTY PATRONAGE IN PLACING PURCHASES

Opposition Member Charged Supplies Were Not Obtained by Proper Tender.

QUESTIONS FOR LUCAS

M. W. Rowell Anxious to Know Why W. J. Moyes Has Not Been Extradited.

The legislature spent the greater part of yesterday afternoon and evening going over the supplementary estimates. Very little opposition to the estimates developed, but Provincial Secretary Hanna was called upon to reply to a statement by Mr. W. J. Moyes, Northumberland, that the purchases of supplies for provincial institutions were not carried out under a proper tender system. The opposition member thought there was too much party patronage in the disposition of the purchases.

Mr. Hanna, secretary of the Guelph Co-operative Stores, also voiced the complaint that "unless you are a Conservative you cannot call supplies for government purposes."

"If the member will state specific instances I can answer them," Mr. Hanna replied. "The papers are all in my office and he can look them over. I will be very much surprised if he does not find that from $0 to $5 per cent. of the purchases are made except after tender. Only the smallest kind of buying is done by the department without tenders being secured."

Before the House went into committee Attorney-General Lucas was called upon to answer criticisms concerning the expenditure of the McCutcheon trial and the expenses of his department concerning the extradition of W. J. Moyes and A. F. Lobb, who fled the country to evade answering to criminal charges.

"The attorney-general cannot be unaware that the public feel there is a great deal of expense incurred in connection with the trial of the McCutcheons, and so far it has not been justified by any very serious crime," Mr. Lucas replied that the case undoubtedly cost the people of the province considerable money. With regard to the decision of the jury and the statements of the presiding judge, he could find no quarrel. The charge was one of conspiracy to obstruct justice, and the government had to air all the transactions of doubtful character in which the McCutcheons engaged. Even then he did not know that the case had been entirely without result. "If those transactions have been ventilated, as they should have been, and if the public understands them and acts accordingly, then our prosecution has done good," he said.

Mr. Lucas also answered a question from Mr. Clarke (Northumberland) that undoubtedly a big proportion of the public were enough to go into the hope of getting rich quick in the hope of getting rich quick. And then when they get bitten they want to prosecute the other man."

It was Mr. Rowell who also asked for information concerning the extradition proceedings against W. J. Moyes and A. F. Lobb. The attorney-general explained that no efforts were being made to extradite Lobb because the parties affected would not bear the expense. The Moyes case was different, in that his representations indicated that it was reasonable that the province should bear the cost of bringing him to justice. For technical reasons the attorney-general refused to tell over the floor of the house just what stage of the proceedings the case had reached.

"No person can blame the attorney-general's department for failure in taking action against Moyes," he said. "The extradition papers were secured promptly and turned over. There can be no shadow of blame or reflection on the department in any way."

Wm. McDonald (South Bruce) charged the attorney-general with having allowed J. B. McKenzie, an unqualified lawyer, to institute proceedings against W. G. Durn on a perjury charge in the Town of Walkerville, when there was no grounds whatever for the charge. It cost Durn $100 to refute the trumped-up charge and when he called on the attorney-general to get the man's money refunded was refused admission.

"You get the biggest salary of any man in the Dominion yet you haven't time to talk business to a man. What are you paid for?" he exclaimed.

The minister explained that no man prosecuted by the department was reimbursed when found not guilty. He did not remember having refused to see the member.

FOLLOWED WAGON AND HAD MEN ARRESTED

Member of Cowley Rubber Firm Caught Employes Stealing Motor Accessories.

Horace Farrell and William Gilson, 190 Howard avenue, were arrested yesterday by Police Constable 363 and by Police Constable Marshall and Dawn on charges of stealing motor car tires and rubber accessories from the factory of Cowley Bros. rubber dealers, 55 East Queen street. Louis and Jacob Lipstein, metal dealers, 278 East Front street, were arrested later, charged with receiving the stolen goods.

According to the police the firm has been missing goods from the factory for some time, but none of the employes were suspected until yesterday afternoon, when a member of the firm happened to go to the rear of the factory and found a wagon loaded with the goods. The wagon was found in the rear of the factory to Church and Richmond streets, where he met Police Constable 363 and Constable Marshall and Dawn over to Church street. Examined by the police, Farrell and Gilson admitted the charges. When the wagon was unloaded at the factory eleven tires and other accessories were found.

TUBANTIA, DUTCH LINER, VICTIM OF SUBMARINE?

Steamer Met Her Fate Soon After She Cleared for Amsterdam.

REPORTS IN CONFLICT

But Passengers and Crew Are Reported to Have Been Saved.

were taken into Flushing, Holland, by two torpedo boats. Others took refuge on board the lights, while still others were picked up by Dutch and British steamers. Those arriving at Flushing said the explosion occurred at 2:30 o'clock this morning, just as the Tubantia was about to drop anchor. Opinions among them varied as to whether the vessel had struck a mine or been torpedoed by a submarine.

Many Nationalities.

A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam says that the passenger list of the Tubantia contains the names of 87 persons, of whom 19 are Germans, two Argentinians, 7 Brazilians, 1 Uruguayan, 3 Bolivians, 22 Dutch, 1 Norwegian, 2 Danish, 5 Swiss, 8 Spanish, 1 Englishman, 1 Chilean, 2 Austrians, 1 Russian, 5 Belgians, 1 Swedish and 3 citizens of the United States. The nationalities of the remaining two are not given in the despatch.

According to The Handelsblad the Tubantia was insured for $4,000,000, which was half a million florins less than her original cost. She had on board the Dutch mail and 700 tons of cargo, consisting of piece goods, the newspaper adds.

Opinions among the survivors differ as to whether a mine or a torpedo caused the explosion, but several of those interviewed expressed absolute certainty that it was a torpedo.

It is officially stated that the Tubantia sank two miles east of Noordhinder, says the despatch. A later despatch from Reuter's correspondent at Ymuiden, says it is now stated that there were no American citizens on board the Tubantia.

A wireless despatch from the captain of the Tubantia declared that the vessel had been attacked without warning, according to a despatch to the Central Bureau from Amsterdam. The torpedoed the despatch says, struck the stern of the steamer.

Among the passengers on board was Dr. Louis Sulinas Vaghi, Bolivian minister to Germany, with his wife and three daughters, bound for Buenos Ayres.

About eighty passengers were to have boarded the Tubantia at Falmouth tomorrow. A number of them had taken seats this afternoon on the train bound for Falmouth, but when the officials received the news of the sinking of the liner they promptly informed the passengers, who left the train and remained in London.
