PRICE On Friday, Dec. 21, 1917, at Edmonton, Alta., George S. Price, age pantonime was given in Drury Lane Theatre, London, on a bygone Christmas nearly a century ago . The opening scene given us by Mr. Whyte showed Davy Jones' locker, with mermaids sporting in the depths and Aphrodite (Miss Millicent Ward) and Davy Jones (Mr. Hamilton Earl) as the principals in the opening duet.

From this on the wonderful story of Crusoe runs along in the same old way, except that it is punctuated with local hits and fine rollicking songs that hits and fine rollicking songs that fairly flow with the roll of the sea.

Crusoe boards the "Saucy Sally" in the old port of Hull, English dances and songs marking the event. The "Sailors' Hornpipe," danced by Miss Madge Lochie, as "Polly Perkins," was enthusiastically applauded, Miss Zara Clinton, as "Robinson Crusoe," introduces the song, "Take Me Home to Dear Old Blighty," and Mr. Hamilton Earl, whose deep bass voice is very effective in his number, "Bright Star of Love," were both repeatedly results and clever dances, wearing an array of beautiful little suits and uniforms in his different numbers. In "artistic bits of variety," Moore and Gerald grew better every minute, the juvenile member of the team set to say that he can hardly be surperbly staged and particularly well constumed, was the offering of the Misses Chalfonte, who presented a group of whirlwind noyelty dances. Abe Leavitt and Ruth Lockwood presented a riot in music and nonsense, William John Williams, aged 62 years. of Love," were both repeatedly re-

The eleven scenes, in which the picturesque story is told, include a great storm at sea, a view of Crusoe on the raft, a glimpse at the Island of Juan Fernandez and the magnificent scene in which the Palace of Luxury is shown. The setting of the play is rich and the costumes varied, the exceptional number in the company being also a feature.

Calling their act "2 in 1"; while the Wilson Aubrey Trio, in comedy acrobats, furnished one of the best daredevil acts seen this season. Sylvia Clark, who calls herself the Klassy Little Klown, lived every minute up to her billing; while a special feature enjoyed by the children was the presentation of Beauty, a trick horse, known as the handsomest creature on the stage. Views from the British Gazette complete an excellent bill.

Mr. Victor Dyer, as Widow Crusoe affords no small part of the merriment of the production. One of the very best musical numbers was the parody cr. "Excelsior," by J. V. Barrett-Leon ard, Harry Hoyland and Victor Dyer A matinee will be given daily, including Christmas Bay, in addition to the DANCE IS POSTPONED evening performances.

SPIRIT OF SACRIFICE IN HIGHEST FORM

'The ball arranged by members of the 'Oh! Boy' company, which was to have been held in the Carls-Rite This Week.

Geraldine Farrar as Joan of Arc in "Joan the Woman," the great pictorial drama presented this week at the Strand, depicts the heroine with all the subtlety of her art, and the varied contrasts between the scenes varied contrasts between the scenes of Burgundy in the 14th century and the scenes of battle in Flanders to-day, coupled with the outstanding factor of sacrifice, supreme in each case form a striking, never to be forgotten, picture in the mind of the onlooker. As is portrayed in this wonderful pictorial narrative of Joan of Arc, individual sacrifice is in some cases no less supreme today than it was in the days of the Black Prince, and the princes. She however, refuses all his overtures and as a result is about to be fed to the lions when Aladdin, after a fearful journey and much suering, arrives in company with the servants of the sultant, and several other vaudeville numbers complete the bill, which on the whole is a good one for a holiday week.
