WHAT HAS BECOME OF SCHOOL TEACHER?

Disappears From Down Town Hotel, Leaving Her Friend Behind.

In a brilliantly lighted hotel room, where crowds of people were standing around talking, and with her friend only a few feet away, a young lady completely disappeared last night, and up until a late hour had not been heard of. The circumstances under which she disappeared were strongly reminiscent of the weird tales of the occult, but they are none the less true. She left her friend for scarcely more than a few seconds, walked to the door of the ladies' rest room, just turned the corner, and then apparently melted into thin air. There was a man in the case, and the girl's companion lays the disappearance at his hands.

It all happened in a melodramatic manner, as if it had been rehearsed and staged, with the two girls, and the mysterious man as the limelight characters. They were both dressed in evening gowns, and were both from the same small town in western Ontario, are both about the same age (nearly twenty-four), and have been in Toronto about a week, visiting the home of the brother-in-law of one, who resided in one of the city's most popular residential districts.

The World reporter was leaning up against the desk in the downtown hotel, carrying on a desultory conversation with the room clerk, when up rushed an excited and breathless young lady, who incoherently shot some questions at the guardian of the register as to whether he knew a man in the city "with a kind of pink face, rather stout, and wearing a white striped shirt." The clerk stared, and then she hastened to explain.

She and her friend had been walking around downtown seeing the sights, and becoming tired, had entered the hotel to rest for a while. They had been sitting only a few minutes, when a man of middle age walked up and addressed the friend with, "Why hello, don't you remember me?" The young lady was emphatic in her denial of having any acquaintance with him, but he persisted.

Take her by the arm, then the two girls rose from their chairs and were about to move off, when the man took the one by the arm, saying at the same time that he had something to tell her. The man led her by the arm across the room, and then turned the corner. The girl that was left, just hesitated a fraction of a second, then strove over the door of the waiting room, which opened onto the crowded hotel rounds, expecting to see her friend around the corner waiting, the friend had completely disappeared.

The hotel detective was sent for, and she repeated her strange tale to him. "My friend is a very retiring sort of person," he said, "and I don't know under any circumstances accompany voluntarily a man she did not know, and I am convinced she didn't know this one. Why she and I are almost inseparable and she would not have left me alone like that, and she will tell me if I can't understand it."

"Altogether too far-fetched to be true," commented the skeptical hotel detective. "It is a safe bet, that this girl who disappeared knew this man, and had previous acquaintance with him. He slipped and got off on a little jollification. Such things as a complete disappearance of this sort don't happen in crowded hotel rounds."

COUNTY AND SUBURBS

SILVERTHORN LAKE SHORE

WARM TIME OVER NEW SCHOOL SITE

Ratepayers Are Divided As to Where It Should Be Located.

At a meeting of Silverthorn Ratepayers' Association last night in the G.W.V. A. Hall, the subject of a school site was a matter of much warm discussion in view of the Marshall site being placed before the ratepayers tonight in Mount Dennis. The local ratepayers were supplemented by a large body from Rosedale, the western section of E.S. No. 28, in which location one of the three sites submitted is placed. This site is known as the Dennis site and is said to be composed of about 14 acres, which was rejected recently, either favored by both the inspector and the trustees.

"We have reason to believe that had not the matter of the dismantling of the school principal increased the ratepayers against the board, the matter of the school site would have had more sympathetic consideration," said President D. A. Donnelly.

"The site has been a bone of contention since the beginning of the year," informed trustee A. Duncan, "because of the action of the board at that time in procuring the Marshall site without the sanction of the ratepayers. It was on account of the stand I took against the Marshall site that I was elected to the trustees. I am still opposed to this site, and it is brought before you without a unanimous vote of the trustees."

A few words were exchanged, then the two girls rose from their chairs and were about to move off, when the man took the one by the arm, saying at the same time that he had something to tell her. The man led her by the arm across the room, and then turned the corner. The girl that was left, just hesitated a fraction of a second, then strove over the door of the waiting room, which opened onto the crowded hotel rounds, expecting to see her friend around the corner waiting, the friend had completely disappeared.

OTAWA PROMISES TO CONSIDER THE REQUEST OF LAKEVIEW RATEPAYERS.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Lakeview Ratepayers' Association, several important measures were dealt with in connection with the organization of the new lake shore community.

A letter received from the department of militia and defence regarding the request of the ratepayers of Lakeview for a piece of the saleable lands of the rifle ranges camp as a site for a memorial community park, gives the assurance that the matter will receive full consideration at the hands of the government.

Another matter claiming the attention of the ratepayers here is a proposed viaduct of the Grand Trunk Railway crossing north of Stop 134. This crossing is considered to be most dangerous, situated as it is on one of the main roads.

Many residents of the district, he states, are of the opinion that the whole Todmorden district to the Don river should be annexed to the city as soon as possible, in order to install sewer and water service so badly needed.
