Moncton, Nov. 14 (Special).—Bertram McKenzie, seventeen years old, was given the maximum penalty for pulling in a false fire alarm, when in the police court this morning after pleading guilty he was sentenced by Magistrate Kay to a fine of $100 or three months in Dorchester. Young McKenzie pulled in a false alarm on the night of the big Liberal demonstration calling out the brigade a portion of which rushed through the streets crowded by people endangering hundreds of lives, many escaping death almost miraculously. He said he had been told by some boys to ring the alarm, one of them handing him the key to the box, and he carried out their bidding. SWEDISH GOVERNMENT WILL MAKE FULL INVESTIGATION

They Will Find Out if Labrador Grave Actually Contains Andre's Body.

Stockholm, Nov. 13.—The foreign office has instructed the Swedish consul in New York to make full investigation of the alleged discovery on the north coast of Labrador of the grave of Andre, the Swedish aeronaut, who sailed in a balloon from Dan's Island in 1897 in an effort to discover the North Pole. There are several theories as to the fate of Andre, but none of them is supported by any evidence. It is believed that he was killed by a bear or a man bearing the family name being buried in Labrador. None of the Norse fishermen could explain the mystery.

THREE BOYS IN COURT FOR THEFT OF PURSE AND MONEY

A session of the juvenile court was made imperative this morning by the arrest of Charles Howard, John Gillen and Samuel Gollet, on suspicion of the theft of a purse containing $27 on the arrival of the Digby steamer Yarmouth yesterday afternoon from Mrs. Sadie Wile, a passenger. Regarding the entering of objections to being disposed of by Magistrate Ritchie, young Howard admitted that he was ignorant of the relative definitions of object and consent, on which lack of learning his honor commented rather harshly. Gillen and Gollet, the latter being a Jewish boy, were represented respectively by a brother and mother, while Howard's relatives were absent. Any old place at all will do for the trial, he told the magistrate. He denied stealing the purse, but admitted that he found it on the gangway of the steamer. Both Gillen and Gollet denied being participants in the distribution of the pilfered money. Detective Killen, in his testimony, stated that in consequence of information received from Mrs. Wile and others, he and Deputy Chief Jenkins repaired to Gollet's home and accused him of complicity. He strenuously denied any connection with the theft, but eventually admitted that he had taken the truth first as last, and confessed that Howard had picked up the purse, and after appropriating over thirty dollars to himself, he presented him (Gollet) and Gillen with a dollar each. Howard and Gillen were both before the magistrate recently, the former for trespassing on the roof of an I. C. R. freight car and the latter for confined tenancy. Up to 3 o'clock George Curran had not been located and the theft hearing may not be resumed until Monday.

PICK POCKETS ARE ACTIVE IN THE UNION STATION AT PRESENT

SEVERAL CASES ARE REPORTED. I. C. R. Police Hunting for the Parties Responsible for Frequent Losses of Money and Tickets—Several Cases of Which the Authorities Have Knowledge.

An epidemic of pocket picking appears to be raging at present at the Union Station, as within the past two weeks the list of sums of money and tickets lost reaches quite a snug sum. To get at the bottom of the thing is said to be baffling the I. C. R. police authorities at the present time. The losses are apparently made in the train shed; and the pickpockets seem to be operating at the arrival and departure of the Boston trains and the arrival of the C. P. R. from Halifax. The thieves are being performed in a very adept manner as the victims assert that their money has disappeared from them in the most mysterious way possible. The losses run all the way from two or three dollars to as much as sixty dollars, and in nearly every instance those who have been robbed remember having had their pocket books on the arrival of the train. They have been relieved of their money between trains while walking in the train shed. It was when the shed was pretty well crowded that the thieves got in their work. Some people have had to remain in town. One of the last to lose was a lady going to Boston, her pocket book containing $33 and her ticket being taken.

EXPOSURE OF HIS CRIMINAL PAST MOVED HAAS TO SHOOT MAN WHO HUMILIATED HIM

District Attorney Heney Had Displayed Picture of Haas in Convict's Stripes and Latter Then Made up His Mind to Slay Him.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Frequently since the earthquake and fire of 1906, the court room of San Francisco has been the scene of the extra editions of the papers reached the residence scenes, and people in every walk of life hurried to swell the crowds in the downtown district. Few of those in the street knew what disposition had been made of Haas, who was spirited out of a rear door of the city prison while the crowds stood in front and driven by a circuitous route to the distant county jail. Another subterfuge enabled the officers to take Rufert out of the city without attracting attention. Morris Haas, the man who shot Heney, is a native of Wurtemberg, Germany and has resided here since 1876. He is 48 years old and for nearly ten years, or ever since his release from the penitentiary, where he served a two-year sentence for embezzlement of his employer's funds, has been engaged in the retail liquor business. In the course of a lengthy statement made to the police after his arrest, the prisoner declared: "Heney pronounced his own death sentence the moment he denounced me in the court." This, as far as appears from the facts now made public, is the attitude of Haas. He slides constantly to the shame and disgrace he has experienced since Heney several weeks ago confronted him as he sat in the jury box before a crowded court room with a photo of himself in convict's stripes. He has expressed a desire to be shot or hanged for what he has done, he has accounted for his movements of yesterday in a more or less straightforward manner, and he has steadfastly declared that no one except himself knew of his pre-conceived determination to slay the man who had exposed his sins of the past. No effort was made in the statement as made public to associate any other person with Haas' attempt, though it is believed that the prisoner in the seclusion of the county jail was during the early hours of the morning subjected to a more rigorous examination.
