Patrolman Silas Perry, in his evidence stated that Ramsey and another were locked in an embrace before a large number of onlookers. When the police arrived, they fled and were pursued, the chase resulting in the capture of Ramsey. The unique method of Rampton's cross-examination, provoked some merriment. One of his queries was "What were we fellows a doing forning Ryan?" He was remanded. Harry McDonald was fined $8 or two months for infraction in the market.

James McDonald pleaded not guilty to intoxication on Erin street at half-past eleven last night. Patrolman Belyea stated that McDonald was unable to balance himself and declined to disclose his destination earlier in the night. Belyea admitted that McDonald informed him that he was proceeding to his home and McDonald asserted that he was not under the influence of liquor.

Allan Morrison, whom Patrolman Ward said was talking incoherently on Charlotte street shortly prior to two o'clock this morning was remanded.

WRIT WILL ISSUE IN MacNAB CROCKET CASE

Former Says Charge is True, the Latter Says it is False and Libellous

The Times yesterday published a statement to the effect that B. A. Macnab, of Montreal, had instructed his lawyers in Fredericton to proceed against James H. Crockett for obtaining money under false pretences. The statement was that Mr. Crockett had obtained money from Mr. Macnab, who had been induced to do so by the Standard newspaper of St. John.

In this morning's papers, Mr. Crockett, in a letter which is elsewhere copied in today's Times, declares that Mr. Macnab's statement is a malicious falsehood, for which he must answer. Mr. Crockett also writes to the Times that the article printed in this paper was false and libellous.

So far as the Times is concerned, it is simply giving the news. The dispute is between Mr. Macnab and Mr. Crockett. Mr. Macnab has instructed his lawyers, McEllan & Hughes, of Fredericton, to proceed against Mr. Crockett for obtaining money under false pretences, and a civil suit for the return of certain drafts which he accepted and paid. The writ will be issued at once. In reply to a query from the Times Mr. Macnab confirms this statement.
