The Old and the New

The record for consecutive victories held jointly by "Rube" Marquard and Tim Keefe who won nineteen straight for the Giants in 1888, was under discussion between an old timer and a latter-day fan. "Keefe's record was the real thing," said the old-timer. "He pitched nineteen games in a row and won fifteen. Marquard got credit for several of his victories because he relieved me other pitcher." "That may be true," the younger fan rejoined, "but Keefe pitched in a box 5-1-2 by 4 feet, the back line being 50 feet from the home plate. Marquard on the other hand made his record from a 24-inch slab 60 feet 6 inches from the home plate." Keefe was a great pitcher in his day, and Marquard looks pretty good now.

Wants to Come Back

Artie Hoffman, an ex-Cub player, now with Nashville, Tenn., is making a "come back" effort to get back in the major league. Chance of the New York Highlanders, has been keeping watch on Hoffman and has requested him to finish the current season with the minors and if he showed a flash of his old-time form he would be bought by the Yankees.

Hoffman has been playing great ball since coming south, and his legs do not show any signs of injury. He says he is just as fast as when he was with the Cubs and believes he can make good in the big league again.

A Glance at The Lightweights

FROM T. S. ANDREWS

Milwaukee Aug. 6.—The Pacific coast will not have a corner on all the lightweights coming fall and winter season, although they will have quite a bunch of stars to select from. Australia is making a bid for some very good boys in the 135-155 pound class and when the regular season opens will have some high class lightweights ready for the 20-round game. At the present time Hughie Mehegan, the Australian champion is home, having returned from England, and Matt Wells, the former British champion, who lost a point decision to Freddie Welsh, has just landed on Australian shores. Pal Brown, the clever Minnesota light, who sailed last Tuesday for Vancouver, will be the only late arrival, for Owen Moran, the British 130 pounder, who fought and defeated Battling Nelson, later losing to Ad Wolgast, will have sailed from the port of Liverpool about the same time Brown left and they will land about the same time. In addition there are other clever lightweights in Australia, among them Herb McCoy, Alf Morey, Joe Russell, Al Spencer and Frank Pico, the American-Italian of California. Pal Brown will have some tough men to meet in work I do my best against all of them. I suppose that the Athletics are about the hardest sluggers in the league, and I think any pitcher will tell you the same thing.

Record Broken
The 800-yard running record, made by H. Hutchins in 1884, was beaten at Manchester, England, the other day, by a professional athlete met by Jack Donaldson, of Australia. Donaldson did the distance in 29-5-4. Hutchins' time was 30 seconds flat.
G. Cumings did the mile walk in six minutes and twenty-three seconds, which beats the amateur record of six minutes, twenty-five and four-fifths seconds made at Toronto on June 4, 1910 by George Goulding, and equals the professional record of W. Perkins, of England.

Match Arranged
Dick Hyland and Tom Gaffney have been matched to box in Anacosta on Aug. 12.
Nolan and Wolgast
Billy Nolan, who has piloted two world's light weight champions, is charged with angling to get hold of another, who is now an ex-champion. Ad Wolgast is the boxer whom Nolan is said to be trying to get under his management.

Wells Winner in 15th
London, Aug. 5.—Bombardeur Wells, the English heavyweight, knocked out Pat O'Keefe, welterweight champion of Ireland, in the 15th round of their bout held in the Blackfriars District last night.

Clark Griffith, manager of the Senators, assures the baseball public that his team is going to win the American League pennant. He can't see the Athletics, despite the fact that they have 11-1-3 games on his team. He doesn't even think that the Athletics will finish second. He concedes that position to the Naps.

Rumors are travelling about to the effect that the Major League moguls will be drawn into a baseball war before the opening of next season. It is said the Federal League plans an eastern invasion, also that the Baseball Players' Fraternity, which includes practically all big league players, will demand changes in the present contracts between players and clubs.

Manager Stallings of the Boston Nationals is said to have signed Frank Schmidt of the Dunkirk, N. Y. Club. He is a big right-hander, who has been attracting attention all season.
Walter Leverens of the Browns, who interrupted the Athletics' winning streak of fifteen straight when they were in St. Louis, was recently asked what team in the league he most feared. "They all look alike to me," said he. "When I

game was theirs till last inning.

STORY OF FRANK BAKER; STAR AT THE THIRD SACK

(Montreal Telegraph)

J. Franklin Baker, whose mighty wall-punch won the world's series for the Athletics from the Giants in 1911, has few, if any, peers as a third baseman. He is one cog, and a main one, in the workings of the $100,000 infield of the Philadelphia American League Club.
The strangest part of his advent into professional baseball and his early development is that he was one of the Giants, Charley Herzog, who virtually discovered him and guided him in his early training. It was also Herzog who made a third baseman out of him. Baker's story follows:
"Charley Herzog of the Giants, it was who virtually discovered me and made me a third baseman. I owe my early training to him. He was one of the Giants, Charley Herzog, who virtually discovered him and guided him in his early training. It was also Herzog who made a third baseman out of him. Baker's story follows:
"I was playing ball on an amateur team in Trappe, Md., where I was born, with little idea of adopting baseball as a profession. I liked the game, and played it continually during the season. At Ridgely, Md., they support a semi-professional ball club. This Mr. Day, to whom I previously referred, happened to see me play the two or three games, and recommended me to Herzog, who was then managing the Ridgely team.
"Herzog sent for me. He offered me $5 a week and my board. That $5 sounded like a million to me. That was in 1906, and I was 19 years old.
"When I joined Ridgely I was an underdog. Like most youngsters I had played every position on a team, but generally favored about the outfield.
"At Ridgely Herzog watched me play, and decided that I was better suited to play in the infield. At that time he was playing shortstop, and he needed a third baseman, so I was given the place. I finished the season there, and the following year joined the Cambridge, Md., team.
"During the spring of 1908 I was given a trial with the Reading Tri-State League club, and, after playing there through the months of May and June, I was purchased by the Athletics, but although I was a member of the Tri-State League season with Reading.
"If I remember correctly, I joined the Athletics on September 1st. I arrived there in the morning. Up to that time I had never met Connie Mack, but I met him myself in the clubhouse, and he greeted me in a friendly way. I was brought into the hotel without the least ceremony. I presented myself to the manager, and he told me that I was to play at third base. I have been at third ever since.
"There is a great deal more to baseball than just fielding and hitting the ball. These are the essentials, but it is not all. There is a great deal more to it than that. There are many things that a fellow must master before he can hope to compete successfully against the seasoned players.
"Baseball as it is played by the big leagues today, is a complicated game. It is much more complicated than it may appear from the stands. There is a reason for every move that is made. Of course, there is some haphazard, take-a-chance playing. There is in every line of endeavor, but even in these instances the chances are taken with a well-defined purpose, and the chances are not, as a usual thing, taken individually. By that I mean a team in major league baseball must work in unison.
"The batter must know what the base runner is going to do, the base runner must know what the batter is going to do, the fielders must know what the pitcher is going to do, and the players make a study of the weaknesses of one another.
"Must Help The Battery
"Not only is it necessary for the pitchers and catchers to study the different batters, but the rest of the players must study them. It all helps in the winning of games.
"For instance, if a batter goes to bat and the fielders know that he is a left field hitter and that the pitcher is going to pitch to him accordingly, the fielders will naturally shift their positions more to the left. In this way many a game has been won.
"Such being the case, even the layman can readily appreciate the fact that there is a lot of study attached to perfecting one's self in baseball.
"In my estimation, the first requirements of a batter are nerve and good eyesight. I do not believe that a batter can be made. There must be a good amount of natural ability. This can be polished off by practice and coaching."

GAME WAS THEIRS TILL LAST INNING

Newspaper Team Had Four Run Lead, But All Stars Slugged as Darkness Came

By rolling up eight scores in the last inning when darkness had begun to settle, the All-Stars on the East End grounds last evening defeated the baseball players from the Times and Globe four runs over their opponents. The score ended 10-6 in favor of the All-Star aggregation. The proceeds of the match were for the benefit of the Fulton fund and will be given to Mayor Frink for that purpose today.

Time-Globe

was permitted to finish the Tri-State League season with Reading.

"If I remember correctly, I joined the Athletics on September 1 at Chicago. I arrived there in the morning. Up to that time I had never met 'Connie Mack, but I deemed myself a big leaguer, and breezed into the hotel without the least temerity. I presented myself to the manager and that afternoon was played at third base. I have been at third ever

Friday's Harbor Race.

Eight fast motor boats have now been entered for the Norton-Griffiths trophy race which will be held Friday at 4 p. m. in the harbor of St. John. An exciting contest is looked for. The race which will start from the North Market wharf, covering a twelve mile course, can be seen from any part of the harbor and it is hoped by the board of trade, whose secretary has been very active in taking steps to make the race a thorough success, that a large number of citizens will turn out to look on. Negotiations are being made with the department of marine and fisheries for a fast boat to patrol the course. It is likely that the department will be able to supply one. A. R. Crookshank, secretary of the east Canadian section of the American Power Boat Association, is now busy looking after the technical side of the preparations for the race such as measuring and weighing the boats. It is said that his task is no light one.

St. John Men to Bangor

The Bangor Commercial is in receipt of a letter from St. John that states that a big boxing carnival is soon to be held in Bangor, at which Willie Bryan McNulty will meet Big Mackey in the main bout; Tom Sawyer of Portland and Mortimer Cronin of Boston will go in the special, but as added attraction will be an inter-city go between Bangor and St. John. The St. John men for this match will be chosen from Frank O'Leary, featherweight; George Gamble, welter; Tom Barrett, a welter, and Shamus O'Brien, a lightweight.
