THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

You Won't Know the Place

Visitors to St. John at Exhibitions in past years are quite familiar with the general aspect of the Fair grounds--the buildings and general surroundings--but this year when Canada's National Exposition, the Dominion Fair, takes place from September 5th to 15th, the conditions, both outdoors and indoors, will be so greatly changed that former visitors will think they have arrived at a new place. Heretofore the open area between buildings has been exposed to the sea breezes of the Bay of Fundy, which at night, particularly, has frequently proven an uncomfortable condition; but hereafter the new Horticultural building, immense Grand Stand and Pike structures will close in the exposed side of the field, converting the grounds into a court of enclosure. The new Horticultural building, to be 150 feet long by 60 feet wide, and 3 stories in height, is planned to adjoin the wing of the Main Industrial building, running in an easterly direction towards Courtney Bay. The new Grand Stand, to be 208 feet by 40 deep, with accommodations for 1,750 people, is to be situated in the south-east corner of the area, nearly directly opposite the old Grand Stand, which has been torn down by the Dominion military authorities to make room for an armory. In past years the Pike or Midway attractions have been located directly in the path of patrons walking from the main buildings across the field to the Live-Stock display; but this year this open ground is to be reserved for specially new and original amusement features, while the Pike is laid out in the rear of the new Grand Stand, following a semi-circular course towards Amusement Halls. So many applications have been received for places on this avenue of amusement that visitors will certainly be drawn in this direction, not only by the blaze of white light, but by the sound of weird harmonies strong-lunged bally-hoo men and side-show "barkers." There will be new horse barns, immense new cattle sheds, new piggyery and sheep pens, also new accommodations for poultry and pet stock. The transportation exhibits are to be shown in the Military Drill Hall, which the Dominion Government has kindly placed at the disposal of the Exhibition Association. In the centre of the large ground space a stock display ring has been mapped out, in which horses will be exercised and competing animals demonstrated. This track will be one-sixth of a mile in circumference. On the whole, the Dominion fair will contain many surprises for those who have been familiar with St. John's Exhibitions in the past.

Is Your Throat Husky?

This is one of the first step towards Catarrh. A cough mixture slips quickly over the weak spots, drops into stomach and does little but harm digestion. It's altogether different with Catarrh--it cures because it gets right at the trouble. You inhale Catarrh--breathe in the vapor of healing balsams that strengthen and restore the weak throat tissues. You'll not have colds, or cough, Throat Trouble and Catarrh will disappear with the use of Catarrh--at all dealers, 25c and $1.00. Get it today.

Passed Through.

They had just got back from a trip abroad, and were telling some callers all about it. They had taken their motor, as the story abundantly shows. "And did you go through Berlin, too?" asked one of the callers. "I should love to see Berlin!" "Did we, dear?" said the wife to the husband. "Yes," replied the busy man, from behind his paper. "Don't you remember we bought some gasoline there?" "And Paris--did you stop in Paris?" continued the caller. "Did we, dear?" asked the wife of her better half. "Why, of course. Don't you know we busted a tire there and had to have a new one put on!"

The tender leaves of a harmless hugging mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Sheep's Cough Remedy its marvellous and curative properties. HE TOOK THE CAKE.

A Story of William Black, the Novelist, and Mary Anderson.

One time when Mary Anderson was playing in the 'Winter's Tale,' in Dublin, William Black, the novelist, who was very intimate with Miss Anderson and her family, insisted upon assuming the part of one of the supers, who was dressed as a very old man with a venerable beard and locks and fell upon his shoulders.

When Black went upon the stage in this disguise he walked about among his fellow-supers with unceasing restlessness, and, judging by the wild motions of his arms, seemed to be addressing to each in turn an impassioned harangue. The audience began to wonder who the new actor was and what he was doing in a play in which neither Shakespeare nor the stage managers ever intended him to appear.

Presently came the time when it was the business of Perdita to distribute flowers among whom the Black had his place. Miss Anderson, carrying on the practical jokes of the family circle, had prepared a surprise for this moment, and having distributed flowers among the less favored supers, she handed to Black a large cake crowned with a wreath of laurel, saying as she did so, 'You take it,' in allusion to his triumphs in the contest of wits at the supper table.

To her consternation, Black showed that he was quite prepared to carry out the jest, for, taking the cake from the hand of Perdita, he immediately distributed it in substantial portions to his hungry fellow-supers, who, finding it to be of excellent quality, began to munch it greedily under the eyes of the house-Exchange.

Counting the Cash

A business man, whose chief expenditures are made by check, lets his daughter keep books on the change he spends out of pocket, largely with the purpose of teaching her something about accounts. Every night after dinner he counts his cash and compares the amount with last evening's amount, also specifying any money that has been added to his pocket money through the day. Then he enumerates all his expenditures for the day, item by item, and the girl sets them down. Ten per cent of what he has spent each day is credited to her and deposited to her account, while for the amount of every item that he is unable to remember he adds a like amount.

Pocket schemes are adaptable to the man or woman who receives money as well as to the one who spends it.

There is an old story of a merchant who had two pockets for money, into one putting all that was paid him, and out of the other paying all bills. This yarn is frequently told to illustrate the success of rudimentary bookkeeping, and to point a moral against too great detail in accounts, the narrator usually adding, vaguely, that that merchant died a millionaire.

A news-stand proprietor in New York keeps money in three pockets. His stock of bills is varied, consisting of daily papers, magazines and novelties. There are returnable goods to be sent back, and the nature of his trade in daily papers makes it difficult to use a cash register. So he divides the stock into three groups--newspapers, periodicals and novelties. There is a pocket for each. Receipts are put away in the proper pocket, and payments for new stock in that particular group made out of it. No matter how fast he works, the money is all sorted and accounted for with no delay. Every night, by counting cash on hand for each group and roughly estimating stock on hand, he knows where he stands.

Weak Kidneys

Weak kidneys, again, point to weak nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness in the same half, lie in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen the body. Dr. Sheep's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is acid, or red, or streaked, if you have nervousness, or other distressing or dangerous symptoms, try Dr. Sheep's Restorative. It is a medicine of the highest quality, and is sold by all dealers. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.
