TOBACCO GROWING ON P. E. ISLAND.

The Charlotteville Guardian says: The Guardian was Saturday shown some stalks of tobacco grown by R. L. Day, York, and for which he was awarded prizes at the Provincial Exhibition. The stalks measured over seven feet in length, had perfect leaves thickly borne along the stem and the plant was in every way healthy and vigorous looking. Mr. Day has been in the province only two years, having immigrated from England, and he has already "caught on" to the most profitable lines of agriculture here. His experiment with tobacco has been very successful. He finds it can be grown as easily and cheaply as oats or potatoes, while the return from it is many times greater. There is an unlimited market for tobacco plant right here in Charlotteville, where it can be manufactured as well as anywhere else in Canada. There is money in growing it and it will pay farmers to look into it and prepare to grow it.

These Girls. Her appetite gave me a slum. It certainly was good. She started in on deviled ham. And then ate as usual food. Cincinnati Enquirer.
