

HEROIC DEEDS BY THE BRITISH AND ITALIANS

ITALIAN ALPINE RESCUE SOME BRITISHERS AT CREST OF HILL

Remarkably Quick Work in Italian Mountain Region — Vienna Announces Austro-Hungarians Have Crossed Fossatto Canal at Some Points — Italians Staking Everything To Stop Advance.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, June 19.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Montello, the oval-shaped chain of hills which hinge the Austrian offensive, has been occupied for several months by the British, who came to Italy under General Plumer. A British division occupies the southwestern ridges of the Asiago Plateau, with the French on their right.

The British, after re-conquering the advanced positions momentarily abandoned on Saturday morning with a view of strengthening the line, not only resisted all Austrian attempts but gallantly counter attacked in a fashion that caused an Italian superior officer to remark: "They are slamming the gates of Italy in the face of the invaders."

Heroic Deeds.

A detachment of British cyclists accomplished heroic deeds. They were changing position and moving along a sunken road parallel to the front. Suddenly they ran into a vast superior Austrian contingent bareheaded and armed with fixed bayonets. Simultaneously the Austrians were ordered to charge and the two waves of bayonets clashed. A terrific fight ensued, but the splendid physique and undaunted courage of the British cyclists, who had discarded their rifles, the British pursuing and capturing many rifles and prisoners.

One of the most successful features of the organization of the Italian army consists in the wise distribution and rapid handling of reserves, which is illustrated by the brilliant feat on the British sector and is further testified to by the splendid Anglo-Italian camaraderie. The British defenders of a certain position were ordered to retreat, with a view to straightening the salient. A small detachment was left on the crest of a hill three thousand feet high to cover the withdrawal. The Austrians, who immediately perceived the operation, tried to overwhelm the detachment, but the latter, though almost completely surrounded and outnumbered ten-fold, succeeded in holding the enemy at bay.

Rescue Britishers.

The commander of an Alpine detachment on the left of the British detachment decided on his own initiative to attempt to rescue the Britishers. The question was whether the rescue would be able to arrive in time to find the defenders alive. The commander of the Alpine detachment said: "We would be too late if any but the British soldiers were defending the position, and if any but the Alpine chamois were rushing to their rescue."

The Italian Alpine detachment dashed forward and were received by the Austrians with cheers for Italy. The Austrians were so taken back by this unexpected onslaught that they were crowded, whereupon the commander of the British detachment leaped to the top of the trenches and ordered a charge. The Austrians were forced to withdraw in face of the attack, both in the front and on the flank.

Austrian Statement.

Vienna, June 19 (via London).—Austro-Hungarian troops have crossed the Fossatto Canal at some points, the Austrian war office announced today. It is added that the Austrians are staking everything in order to stop the advance of the Austro-Hungarians in their offensive on the northern Italian front.

Italian attacks delivered on each side of the Oderzo-Treviso railway, the statement adds, broke down under heavy losses. The Austrians broke through several Italian lines at the southern foot of the Montello.

The text of the Austrian statement reads: "The southern wing of the army group of Field Marshal Von Borovick has made a steady advance and has obtained fresh advantages. The Fossatto Canal has been crossed at some points. The Austrians are staking everything in order to stop the advance. In narrow stretches prisoners have been taken from the numerous units which have been thrown together."

"Violent enemy attacks delivered with the greatest stubbornness, especially on both sides of the Oderzo-Treviso Railway broke down with heavy losses."

Many Prisoners. "Divisions under Colonel General Archduke Joseph broke through several Italian lines near Saville at the southern foot of the Montello."

"On the mountain front the captures between the Piave and the Brenta, southeast of Asiago, which we took on the 15th, again were the object of bitter assault. In spite of great sacrifices the enemy was unable anywhere to obtain an advantage."

"On the Tyrol western front there were artillery duels."

MANY HONOR MEMORY OF A DEVON WOMAN WHO DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. G. R. Thompson Was Widely Esteemed and Many Attend Funeral.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, June 19.—The towns of Devon, city of Fredericton and the neighboring districts on Monday morning were thrown into profound grief when it was learned that Mrs. G. R. Thompson, an Assyrian, was stricken with death with very short notice. It was doubly sad since her death was caused in an accident, and was never conscious enough to look with a mother's gaze into the face of the innocent cause of her premature demise.

The funeral services took place this morning at St. Anthony's church, Devon, and were conducted by Rev. Father Murphy, the pastor. Large delegations of Assyrians from St. John, Miramichi, Woodstock and other places assembled, and their number augmented by many people from Fredericton, Devon and Miramichi, quite filled the beautiful and spacious church, and among the number were noted business and professional men. Immediately after the blessing on the body, according to the rite of the Roman church, the clergyman translated the gospel for a requiem mass and for upwards of 20 minutes he held the closest attention of all irrespective of religious beliefs. There were many passages in his discourse that for sublimity of thought, clothed in the grandest of language, were soul inspiring. It was the general consent of the people that he made on the congregation lasting impressions for good. He was especially eloquent when he portrayed the eternal reward that Christ promised to him who loses his life for His sake. The floral offering from friends and sympathizers were most numerous and required all the available space of one barouche to convey them to Sunny Bank cemetery to be placed on the grave of the deceased.
