For and About Women

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Heaven is kind, as a noble mother. Thomas Carlyle.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Belgrade, the Serbian capital, was the first municipality in the world to employ women architects. Statistics gathered from many lands show that married women live an average of two years longer than single ones.

The City Council of Brantford, Ont., has decided to present a medal to all mothers and widows of Brantford whose sons or husbands were killed in action or died while in service.

Although the women of Holland have not gained the parliamentary franchise, they have the satisfaction of seeing one of their sex sitting as a member of parliament. The woman member is Signe Graene Weg, who was elected to the lower chamber by the Socialists party.

FLOOR MOPS MADE AT HOME.

Black stocking legs slit into half-inch strips to within a finger's length from the top make good dry mops. The several of them firmly together on the end of a discarded broom handle, first cutting a groove toward the end to hold the string. Dip the mop into a solution made of half a cupful of melted paraffin and one cupful of kerosene, and allow the mixture to dry on. To keep the mop in good condition when not in use, roll it tightly and press it into a paper bag.

MEMORIAL TREES.

Two thousand two hundred maple trees will be planted in memory of the 2,200 Brooklyn boys who crossed to France never to return. Dedication of the first row of trees took place this week. When all are planted they will stand in unbroken line along Bedford avenue from the fountain in Williamsburg to Flatbush avenue, a distance of three miles. Each tree will bear the name of a dead soldier.

What The Middle-Aged Woman May Do To Improve Her Looks

If you feel "ancient and out of things" and begin to "show the fingerprints of age in your face and figure, don't allow another day to pass without attempting a process of rejuvenation. If you're the type of woman who worries and frets all day long and goes to bed with taut muscles and a mind which dwells upon the unpleasant happenings of the day, wrinkles are bound to appear in your face. Learn to "make the best of things," and smile "may your tears and frowns."

Relax, breathe deeply and drift on into a calm, dreamless sleep that will smooth the wrinkles from your brow. Nothing ages a woman like worry, except illness, and more often than not, illness is brought about by worry.

Change the arrangement of your hair from the slick-back collar to one of soft waves. Coil the ends softly at the back instead of in the hard, unlovely knot, that for years has been the most prominent feature of your head—then notice how much younger you will look.

Almost without exception we must wave our hair if we would appear young. Straight hair is becoming to very few women. Women whose hair does not wave naturally should curl it by means of curlers which are to be had in an infinite variety of forms.

Roll the hair upon the curlers during the morning hours, dampening it a trifle if it doesn't curl easily. Then wear a pretty breakfast cap with a softening fringe of lace about the face, which is an excellent substitute for the softening effect of the hair.

Age first begins to show in forehead and ears and the middle-aged woman requires the softening frame of her own tresses. Arrange the waved hair loosely bringing it down over the forehead and over the tops of the ears.

The hands, too, need attention as they increase. Neglected hands frequently show a woman's age before the face. To conceal the age lines at the wrists, long cuffs and when possible, long ruffles of net, batiste or soft lace should be worn and come well down toward the knuckles. The nails should receive special attention, particularly if one has to do household tasks. Both housework and age make the nails brittle, and they should be kept pliable by a pipping softening paste or a nail cream.

Roughness of the hands is never tolerated by the well-groomed woman, nor wrinkled hands by the woman who desires to appear youthful. Keep the skin soft, smooth, white and plump with nourishing creams and lotions. Women who are diligent in their discovery that age marks first appear about the neck and throat. Those who have seen Sara Bernhardt have observed that extremely high collars of soft, semi-transparent materials, the "Divine Sara" has adopted this method of concealing the tell-tale lines of age.

For the middle-aged woman whose neck is plump or even slender with cut being scrawny, there are soft fichus and frills. The softening influence of these graceful neck draperies is almost unbelievable, even the features will yield to such skillful treatment.

The elderly woman should pay a great deal of attention to the adjustment of her hat. In many cases she perceives her hat or turban on the topmost pinnacle of a severely plain coat, thus exposing, instead of artfully concealing and softening, the evidence of age.

Bring the hat well down over the hair, so it will form a frame for the upper part of the face. A softening fringe of hair extend from beneath the hat to soften the line of the brow and give youth to the forehead.

Last, but far from being least, relax the muscles about your mouth. This is a favorite lurking place for age. When you are frowning, the muscles about your mouth are tense, relax them at once. The elderly woman, more than any other, needs to have a pleasant expression.

SAYS PROHIBITION HAS COME TO STAY

E. E. Peck, former police magistrate of Albert, Albert County, who is in the city on special leave from his office, was accorded the usual courtesies and occupied a seat on the bench with Magistrate Askwith. Mr. Peck is well known as one of the magistrates of New Brunswick who did duty in the enforcement of the Criminal Temperance Act. While scores of his decisions were appealed from to the supreme court of that province during his ten years' tenure of office, not one summary conviction was set aside. Mr. Peck speaks in praise of the New Brunswick Prohibition Act and says it is being well enforced and has come to stay.

Speaking of the striking change for the better this law has brought in St. John city, under the wise judicial decisions of its police magistrate, Mr. Justice R. J. Ritchie, a former attorney-general of New Brunswick, at the age of seventy-five years, Mr. Peck states he is glad to learn that the Ontario Temperance Act is being administered by Mr. Askwith, who is three years Judge Ritchie's senior.—Ottawa Citizen.

There are five simple ways to tell good tea. First, by the bright copper color of the tea when steeped. Second, by the exquisite aroma. Third, by the delightful, refreshing flavor. Fourth, by the satisfying richness. Fifth, by the economical strength. Make a brewing and you will find all these qualities combined in Red Rose. REDROSE TEA is good tea.
