Dear Editor,

I am grateful for the two issues I have received hitherto, which are both very interesting and of very high quality. I wish you and all members of the RCMP continuing success.

Dear Editor,

(...) As I browsed through my Fall 1994 and Winter 1995 issues, I was reminded of how much I enjoy your publication. In the Fall issue, I enjoyed the "Egg War" story immensely; as I read it, I couldn't help wondering if a similar event might be beneficial in my own community. I was also very interested in the "Interpol 2000" article; I've always been curious about its structure and the reason for being. The article on the "History of the Tipstaff" was also very interesting and informative; I never knew of its existence and significance even though I have read quite a lot about the RCMP over the years.

As for the Winter issue, I was very much amused by your article on the "Baptism of Safety Bear". Your highly interesting article concerning the "Yukon Centennial", made me wish I was there to join in on their celebrations. Your article on the "Arctic Patrol to Lupin Mine" gave me goose bumps; to think that those huge, heavy ore truck roll along those treacherous ice roads only a few inches thick.

Your Winter 1995 cover is by far the most beautiful Quarterly cover I've ever seen. The vision of a Mountie in Red Serge with his dog team in harness with the snow covered mountains in the background... it was breathtaking.

Both these issues, in my mind, were exceptional. They were entertaining, informative and inspiring, from cover to cover. I eagerly look forward to receiving each new issue of the Quarterly.
