

An Object of Pity

That part of our nature which we call the emotional is much more highly developed in women than in men. They are more sensitive, more tender, more sympathetic, more pronounced in their likes and dislikes, more susceptible to the extremes of pleasure and pain; and these refined mental qualities, no less than beauty of form and feature make up the atmosphere of attractiveness and charm which always surrounds true womanliness.

The continued existence of these winning, engaging womanly characteristics depends to a very large extent on the regularity of the womanly functions and the condition of the womanly organs; and when these functions and organs become disordered or diseased the same mental qualities which are the glory of a well woman become the source of suffering and torture almost indescribable. Her cheery hopefulness is changed to a feeling of despondency, almost of despair, and she is haunted with forebodings of worse evils to come. Instead of being entertaining and companionable, she becomes moody and irritable, being unable to keep her mind from dwelling on her troubles. She becomes morbidly sensitive, imagining that she is being slighted or forsaken by her relatives and friends and she has a most humiliating sense of her miserable condition and her loss of her womanly attributes. If she is religiously inclined she is very liable to be oppressed with doubts and fears in regard to her spiritual condition, or to think that she is eternally lost. In addition to this, she has also to endure the most distressing aches and pains.

What makes the case still more pitiable, especially with married women, is the fact that few men understand or appreciate the extent of their suffering, or the seriousness of the troubles causing it. Many doctors even speak of these disorders as subjects for ridicule, and the poor sufferer often gets a reputation for being a crank or a scold when she more nearly approaches being a martyr.

As these disorders are due to a disordered condition of the womanly organs, it is evident that to effect a cure these organs must be restored to normal condition; or, in other words, the circulation which has become congested and stagnant in these parts, must be improved so that the waste matter will be expelled, and the nourishment so badly needed be brought to these suffering organs. It is the waste matter, or broken down tissue, which is held in the stagnant blood vessels in these parts, that causes most of the suffering by oppressing the nerves located in these parts.

The remedy known as ORANGE LILY will positively relieve this congestion and restore normal circulation in the disordered organs. It is an applied or local treatment, and acts wholly on these parts. It is absorbed into the blood vessels in these organs, and as it has powerful antiseptic properties, it immediately acts on the waste matter held there, and causes it to be discharged. As this dead matter is discharged the nerves are relieved, the pains and mental troubles become less, and the nerves and blood vessels become stronger. ORANGE LILY thus proves its merit by actual, visible results. It acts as certainly and as positively on all female troubles as anti-toxin does on diphtheria.

Winnipeg, April 28th, 1909.
Dear Mrs. Currah,—I am very grateful to ORANGE LILY for the change it has made in my life. When I commenced its use eight months ago I felt I would be surely insane before the year was ended. The pain I suffered often made me wish for death, and besides I would have such fits of depression and nervous twitching that I would have to scream. I had doctored with three different doctors for over two years, and had also used both the Pierce and Pinkham medicines, but none of them seemed to reach my case. I felt some improvement after the first month's use of ORANGE LILY and have kept gaining ever since. I do not feel that I am entirely cured yet, but I am so much better than I was that I am sure I will soon be entirely well. I sleep well, and feel cheerful and happy, except that I am occasionally somewhat depressed, but these spells are getting fewer and milder. I have also noticeably improved in appearance. Enclosed find $3 for which please send me two boxes of ORANGE LILY and one of Cerate Massage. I might add that the matter which used to be freely discharged, and which looked like a chicken's gizzard, is becoming very scant, and I imagine that the circulation is pretty well restored. Am I not right in this? Your sincere friend, MRS. L. E. A.

Free to all Sufferers

In order to enable every woman suffering from any form of female disorders to test the merits of ORANGE LILY, I will send to every one who will send me her address, or the address of any suffering friend enough of the remedy for ten days' treatment, absolutely free. As this is worth 35c. it is only because I know that it must give relief that I make this free trial offer. Further, if any woman wishes expert medical advice, and will write me a full description of her case, I will submit same to the staff of the Coonley Medical Institute, Detroit, Mich., and they will write her direct without expense to her. INCLOSE THREE 2-CENT STAMPS and address MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

Correspondence

WE invite readers to make use of these columns, and an effort will be made to publish all interesting letters received. The large amount of correspondence which is sent us has, hitherto, made it impossible for every letter to appear in print and, in future, letters received from subscribers will receive first consideration. A friend of the magazine, offering a kindly criticism, writes that the Correspondence column has at times an air of monotony, as one writer after another follows the same phraseology. We wish to warn our correspondents against this common error. A little independent thought will help mutual development, and readers of the Monthly will find valuable aid in the study of the many instructive articles by eminent men that appear from month to month.

Kind Words for the W. H. M.

Sask., March, 1913.

Dear Editor—Just a few lines of appreciation for the W. H. M. It is a very welcome visitor here. I always send the magazine away when we get through with it to someone else. One lady wrote saying how pleased she was to receive your paper. It had made many a weary day bright for her, and in the quiet watches of the night, when all the rest slept, and no welcome sleep came to close her tired eyelids, she could muse upon what she had read during the day. Now, I am not a sporty girl at all but I enjoy a good game of checkers and like a little fun. I find the evenings very long and lonely, so I hope someone will write a nice long letter to me and I will answer promptly. My address will be with the Editor.

If I were a Millionaire

Sask., March, 1913

Dear Editor—I wrote a letter to the W. H. M. some time ago and think it is about time for me to get another in. One can get some queer ideas from the letters in the magazine. There has been a question asked a few times whether young people should get married, or should they wait till the man has made his money first. Well, my opinion is that after he has his fortune made he can rent his farm and go into town to live, where he can have all the company he wants, also his meals ready when he wants them, and so get along very nicely without a wife. All the same if I were a millionaire I would not want to go to the city to live. And as for waiting, dear readers, I don't think there is anything made by waiting. I have tried that myself, and I have taken good notice of the fair sex as I went along. I am better off now than when I started out, but haven't found anything better in the line of women. A fine little lady who is willing to brave the storm with you is worth half a dozen of them that want to wait for your money so she won't have anything to do but spend it. I saw in one letter where the individual wanted the Correspondence column left out. Well, thanks to the editor for leaving it in. I rather think he put that there for the benefit of the bachelor. The question has been asked, "Why do the bachelors want to correspond with the girls through this paper?" They have a good reason. It isn't like these girls living in the West. They don't care to marry and neither have they any sympathy for the bachelors. They just write to see how many of the boys will be "doffy" enough to write to them. Now I can see the girls turning up their noses, but I can't help it girls, if the shoe fits. Now, talk up you Eastern girls, I think you have played the game pretty well so far. But guess I had better close. I will sign myself
