ENGINEERS ATTACK DEMONSTRATORS

TORONTO (CUP) -- More than 100 University of Toronto engineers hooted, jeered, shoved, and threw snowballs Thursday (Jan. 18) as 300 demonstrators marched up and down in front of the Galbraith Building protesting recruiting by companies supplying materials for the war in Viet Nam.

The demonstrators started gathering across the street from the building at 1:00 p.m. The engineers filled the plaza on the other side of the street, waiting for the protest to start.

"One, two, three," they chanted, and let fly with snowballs. "Kill Faulkner, kill them all."

Tom Faulkner, student council president, and a moderate supporter of the anti-war movement, suggested the protestors disperse unless the police arrived.

The more radical demonstrators agreed they would cross the street and carry on with their plans. Faulkner and David Nitkin, a council representative, crossed the street and pleaded for restraint.

"We are in favor of the same thing as you are - free discussion. Will you stand back and let us cross?"

Engineers pelted the two with snowballs. The initial violence died after the first fifteen minutes when several demonstrators were hurt. A self-appointed group of marshalls from among the engineers helped to hold the showing engineers back from the sidewalk.

Dean James Ham of the faculty of Engineering exhorted his engineers: "Please, in the name of decency, step back and let them have their fun."

Demonstrators handed out leaflets which appealed to engineers not to apply for jobs with companies which are supplying war materials to the U.S. for use in Viet Nam.

Engineers grabbed the leaflets and started burning them. They also snatched signs and tore them.

The demonstrations broke up after an hour. Faulkner asked the students to follow him to an open forum in Convocation Hall at which the issue would be debated.

"Let us try to preserve some of the integrity we've lost today," he said.

About 500 attended the debate.

Only one Toronto policeman was on the scene during the protest.

PRAIRIES TO EJECT CYC?

OTTAWA (CUP) -- Company of Young Canadians head Alan Clarke had no comment Friday (Jan. 19) on press reports that CYC volunteers would be asked to leave the three prairie provinces.

He said he first wanted to study texts of the premiers' statements.

At a Thursday (Jan. 18) press conference in Regina, it was revealed that the premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta will soon ask Ottawa to withdraw the volunteers.

Premier Manning of Alberta said they were concerned about the CYC's incredible waste of money, and about agitators and radicals among the volunteers. He conceded some were dedicated, but that others had no contribution to make.

Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher and Manning both said their province's youth agencies will take over the CYC work.

But CYC assistant director Stewart Goodings told us the Alberta youth program is at present a summer project, and could not hope to do the things the CYC does year-round.

FEKETE'S CASE APPEALLED

MONTREAL (CUP) -- The case of John Fekete, the McGill student who is challenging the university's right to discipline him, has been taken under advisement by a panel of five judges of the Quebec Court of Appeals.

Earlier, a judge had turned down a writ to lift Fekete's case from the jurisdiction of the university body to a regular court of law.

Counsel for the university argued granting such a writ would have the effect of "subjecting any body politic corporate which sets up a discipline committee" to the jurisdiction of the courts.

Fekete's original case was heard by Mr. Justice Jean St. Germain in December. The Judge ruled there was no evidence to suggest Fekete would not be treated according to the laws of "natural justice" by the university body.

Drew Bethune is a graduate of Q.E.H. here in Halifax. He stands 6'4" and weighs 170 lbs. At Q.E.H. he was a standout on the Bob Douglas coached team. A very quick player he is also intelligent and can make the most of a situation.

Drew is presently in the position where he is gaining experience and Coach Yarr expects big things of him in the future. Drew played most J.V. games and has done very well and if he continues to improve at the present rate he should see lots of action with the varsity squad this year. Drew is a good man under the boards because of his long reach. This, combined with his fast reflexes can turn many offensive rebounds into scores.

Brock Savage, 6', 175 lbs., is a freshman from Centerville, New Brunswick. Off the court Brock is a friendly amiable guy, but on the court he seems to change character. The friendly smile disappears as Brock concentrates on his game. He is extremely fast on his feet and can explode down the court for a break-away lay-up any time. His hustle and determination to get the ball from the other team is always evident and many times you will see him dive headlong into the sidelines to retrieve a ball going out of bounds or on the floor after a loose ball. Last year, Brock was a member of the Canadian Juvenile Championship team from New Brunswick and was voted the most valuable player of the Juvenile tournament.

This year, Brock is playing guard for Dal. He is one of the reasons Dal has been so successful to date.

SWIMMERS MEET MEMORIAL

The Dal Swim team was drubbed by thirty points in the annual triangle meet held last week at C.F.B. Shearwater but hope to get untracked this Friday when they meet the Mermen from Memorial University of Newfoundland. This will be the last home meet for the squad this year as they take to the road for the remainder of the season.

Memorial is led by their outstanding sprinter Scott Campbell who won three individual free-style Championships last year. Their diving duo (Bob Lilly and Tom Serveau) will be out to defeat our divers, for Eric Patrick defeated both of them last year at the M.I.A.A. Championships.

Meet time is slated for 8:45 at the Y.W.C.A. pool on Barrington Street and admission is free. The seven swimmers who did not appear against U.N.B. and Mount Allison, are expected to have recovered from their flu and provide a much needed shot in the arm for the team.

TIGERETTES SPLIT GAMES

Led by Sandra Barr and Carolyn Savoie U.N.B. downed the Dalhousie Tigerettes 81-47 in Women's Basketball last Saturday. Sandra Barr scored 16 for the winners while Carolyn Savoie added 15. Dal was paced by Jean Fahie with 16 and Marg Muir with 13.

Led by rookie Jean Fahie's 19 points and veteran Marg Muir 16 the Dal Tigerettes downed Mt. Allison 50-23 in a game played at Dal on Saturday afternoon. Mt. "A" attack was paced by Penny Dickison who hooped 7 points. Dal led 20-6 at half time.

Next action for the Tigerettes is on Saturday when they travel to Acadia to meet the Axettes in a 6:30 encounter.

LAPINETTE

A CLEVER AND WELL-DRAWN ADVERTISEMENT BY DON KERR

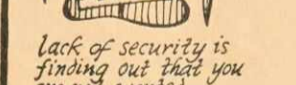

Lapinette skidded to a stop. there was a sign inviting bunny types to join a club - or at least so she thought.

now, our bunny girl knows when she is wanted.

it is a little harder, sometimes, to know when you aren't.

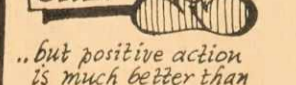

this club didn't want her at all. "but I have all the necessary equipment!" she sobbed.

but the little man only laughed.

comes the campusbank to the rescue! our manager explained that these clubs aren't for rabbits at all - just for frustrated hunters, he suggested that perhaps she could start her own bunny club, and even arranged a loan to pay for posters and such.

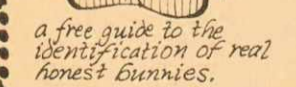

last we heard, the line-up was over a block long.

but we suspect that these fellows may be a bit disappointed with the setup.

you see, these bunnies are for real...
