

important industry in the city is that of the Hanbury Manufacturing Co., of which John Hanbury is president and manager. The logs are floated down from the tributaries of the Little Saskatchewan into the Assiniboine and to the mill. The Company keeps two or three hundred men in the woods all winter, and during the summer season runs its large mill night and day. In close proximity to the saw mill is the large, new planing mill and sash and door factory. This business is increasing in volume and importance every year. On the banks of the Assiniboine, too, is the flour and oatmeal mill of A. Kelly & Co. This mill has a first-class modern equipment and its products are widely known for their high quality. A little to the west the Brandon Binder Twine Co., Limited, with the largest and most complete machinery in the Canadian west, is engaged in turning out hundreds of tons of twine and rope for the farmers of Manitoba and the North-West. The output this year is estimated at nearly 400 tons and the quality of twine manufactured is of the best. Prof. N. Wolverton, the president and manager, will be only too pleased to show through any who are interested. The number of hands employed are about 50, which will be increased later on as the factory is enlarged. A few blocks to the west is situated the large, new flour mill and elevator of Messrs. Alexander & Law Bros. which has only just been completed at a cost of $60,000. This new mill is equipped with all modern machinery, the power being supplied by electricity generated from the Brandon Electric Light Co.'s dam on the Little Saskatchewan. Across the street the Brandon Machine Works Co. cover an entire block with what is now one of the most thriving and busiest industries in the west. From a small industry employing six hands it has grown to the proportions of a large foundry giving employment to 100 people. Mr. Jas. Shirriff is the manager and his pushing energy will, no doubt, soon place this industry in the front rank of Canadian institutions. In addition to the above the Marble works of Somerville & Co. and Drysdale & Co. both deserve special mention. The Empire Brewing Co., another growing institution, which with the large new brewery erected by the Brandon Brewing Co. will supply as fine a line of ale and beer as can be found in Canada.
