sleepy and get up when you wake. Work hard, muse much, encourage lively thought. Hate none. Believe that happiness is earned, not bought. Don't bother about health. Don't have a fad. Live in the past as well as the future.

Two memorials were recently dedicated in St. Jude's Church, White-chapel, by the Bishop of Stepney in memory of the Rev. E. C. Carter, the vicar of St. Jude's, and Mrs. Carter, who lost their lives in the "Titanic" disaster. The first memorial was a tablet, bearing relief portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Carter. The inscription referred to the fact that Mrs. Carter was the daughter of Tom Hughes, the author of "Tom Brown's School-days," and that she refused to leave her husband when offered a place in a boat when the ship went down. The other memorial is a font carved by Mrs. Carter.

A Curious Church Dole.—A somewhat unique distribution took place at St. Gregory's Church, Sudbury, on St. Thomas' Day, when about 120 pairs of stockings, 60 pairs of boots, and more than a hundred shirts were given away to the poor of the parish. This annual gift dates from the year 1706, being bequeathed by Thomas Carter, a wealthy inhabitant of Sudbury, who died in that year, and whose costly altar tomb, with the following curious inscription, is one of the curiosities of St. Gregory's Church:—"Traveller I will relate a wondrous event. On the day on which the aforesaid Thomas Carter breathed his last a Sudbury camel passed through the eye of a needle. If thou hast wealth go and do likewise. Farewell."

The swing door of prayer stands always waiting for the least touch of faith to press it back. If our Father's presence chamber were opened to us only once in a year, with how much greater reverence would we enter! How much more store would we set on it! We should anticipate the honour and privilege of that interview for the whole year, and eagerly avail ourselves of it. Alas that familiarity with prayer does not always increase our appreciation of its magnificence!—F. B. Meyer.

WHAT THE BIBLE IS.

This Book contains the mind of God, the state of man, the way of salvation, the doom of sinners and the happiness of believers. Its doctrines are holy, its precepts are binding, its histories are true, and its decisions are immutable. Read it to be wise, believe it to be safe, and practice it to be holy. It contains light to direct you, food to support you, and comfort to cheer you. It is the traveller's map, the pilgrim's staff, and the prophet's compass, the soldier's sword, and the Christian's charter.

Here Paradise is restored, Heaven opened, and the gates of hell disclosed. Christ is its grand subject, our good its design, and the call of God its end. It should fill the memory, rule the heart and guide the feet. Read it slowly, frequently and prayerfully. It is a mine of wealth, a paradise of glory, and a river of life. It will be open at the judgment, and be remembered forever. It involves the highest responsibility, rewards the greatest labour, and condemns all who trifle with its holy contents.

A CHILD'S PETITION

By Anne Vetch.

"From refusing to obey."
It was a lovely April afternoon. "Just like summer," every one was saying.

The sky was a deep blue, flecked here and there with white, drifting clouds. In the country the air was laden with the scent of violets and wallflowers, and even in the heart of the city the bright window-boxes told spring had come.

About three o'clock a tiny breeze found its way into a deserted looking street somewhere near the West End, and entered the wide open window of a large schoolroom, where a golden-headed child sat frowning over a French exercise. Splash; a tear had fallen on the open page, making an ugly blot.

"What a silly I am!" said the girl, "for a good thing there's no one to see me; but, oh, how lovely, how very lovely it must be at home today, and only three weeks ago I was in it all. It was mother's birthday, and I took her to see the robin's nest in the flowerpot; then that horrid telegram came ordering father's regiment out to India. If they had only let me go with them! I don't like school, I don't like the teachers, and oh, I just hate Nappy."

Certainly if Gussy disliked being at school, it was no pleasure to Miss Napier having her.
