OCEAN BLUE

Cheap enough for the Million,
Good enough for the Millionaire.

FIRST of all, it's quite British—Comes from Hull, away over the "Ocean blue." Then it's the most economical. It readily adapts itself to any water—hard or soft—so long as the water is clean. Never spots, or flecks, and may be used with safety when washing the most delicate materials. To linens, laces, curtains, etc., it imparts a beautiful snowy whiteness, that suggests everything of spotless purity.

ALL STORES SHOULD SELL "OCEAN BLUE"

BECAUSE it is an article that satisfies, and satisfied customers are your best customers. It is made in bags packed in cartons and squares in packets. The retail price is 5 cents, on which you see a good profit.
