Monster Halifax Audience Amazed by This Test

1000 critical music lovers gathered in the Academy of Music Halifax, on April 7th., to judge if Thomas A. Edison had really Re-Created music as he claimed.

They heard beautiful Ida Gardner, the highest paid Church singer in New York, actually sing side by side with her own voice on the new Edison Phonograph, and they could not tell the original from the Re-Created voice. Read what the Halifax papers said:

It sought to establish the fact that port-ion has practically been reached in recreating the hum in voice in correctness of tone, enunciation and quality. Those who were present left the auditorium with little doubt in their mind that this had really been accomplished. The Daily Echo and Morning Chronicle, April 9th, 1917.

"The M sical consisted of fifteen numbers. At times it was impossible to know whether Miss Gardner was actually singing or the voice is using from the phonograph, so truthfully has the voice been simulated. The opening number was "There is a Green Hill Far Away". It demonstrated Miss Gardner's right to a position in the first rank bars, showing how perfect Thomas A. Edison has the mechanism of his achievement. The Halifax Herald and the Evening Mail April 9th, 1917.

One of our Kentville staff was present, and can give you first hand information, about the test.

Would you like your home to have a phonograph to sing exactly like the world's greatest singers—that plays like the world's greatest bands, violinists etc? Come in and hear the New Edison—you won't be asked to buy.
