DEATH SENTENCE

GEORGE GEE TO BE HUNGON JULY

Woodstock, April 29-George Gee was senteneed to death at 11 o'clock this morning by Chief Justice Tirck, for the murder of his Cousin, Millie Gee at Canaan. When Gee was brought into the court he looked quite composed but very pule. He stood up for the sentence. The judge said he could hold out no hope of commutation of sentence. Friday, the 22nd day of July.

BLACKVILLE.

BEACKYLLE, April 27, 1904-The thrivvilliage of Blackville is just commenc-to boom. The boys are off for the es and the Dungaron, Can's and Renous will fear once again the old sweet "Come all ye" as the hardy sone of toil 40 about their duties. And as wages are good there is a fair look out for a presperous season. The writer is informed that Mr. Gibson's mill will start on Tuesday next so there will be planty of employment here.

There is one thing the village has every facility for and which it should possess, that is electric light. There is sufficient water to run a plant that would light the whole village and part of the outlying districts at very little cost. There was some talk of installing an electric plant about a year ago, but the matter was dropped, which is to be regretted, as if the village was lighted by electricity it would not only be a convenier ce and improvement, but would greatly assist in its progress, and in the end pay. It is to be hoped, ere long that the natter will again be taken up and terminated in a successful issue.

Again, what would assist in the dyancement of the villiage would be the advancement of the villinge would be the completion of the Indhantown Branch Ry; but the government seem more than careless in this matter, which has been so frequently urged upon them. The writer understands that very strong memorials time and again have been presented to the department of railways, but have always been placed aside for "a more convenient saem" or a further consideration. Little wonder that the parish with its 600 or more voters feel themselves slighted and left out in the cold, but there may come a time some day when the government may

Would it not be well for the merchants and leading citizens of the village to form a sesociation and join with the Nowestle board of trade in presenting another menorial on the subject, and urge their views and claims upon the go-ornment, but with greater force.
