

The Man Who Banished Corns

Blue-jay was invented by a scientist of distinction. By a man whose lifetime has been spent in the study of surgical dressings.

This is a master's method—correct, complete and efficient. And the millions of people who know it, never think of enduring a corn.

All in One

The first step is to stop the pain. This is done by removing all pressure—by the soft protecting ring marked A.

The next step is to gently cause the corn to disappear. This is done by the remarkable B & B Wax, which no corn can resist.

This bit of wax—marked B—centered on the corn, it cannot spread. So, unlike ordinary methods, it acts on the corn alone.

C is rubber-coated adhesive. This snugly wraps the application, protecting everything.

You apply this Blue-jay in a jiffy. The corn pain stops at once. The wrapping is comfortable and you forget it.

In two days you remove it and the corn can be lifted out. Only rare corns need a second application.

This is the scientific way, the easy, sure and right way to end corns. You will never return to any wrong method when you try a Blue-jay once.

Try it tonight!

THE DAILY DOPE

BY THE CUB-EDITOR

THE BOLSHEVİK

Oh, he preached it from the housetops, and he whispered it by stealth; He wrote whole miles of stuff against the awful curse of wealth. He shouted for the poor man, and he "ran" the rich man down; And also every King and Queen who dared to wear a crown. He hollered for rebellion, and he said he'd head a band To exterminate the millionaires, to sweep them from the land. He yelled against monopolists, took shots at every trust. And he swore he'd be an anarchist, to grind them in the dust. He stormed, he fumed, and ranted, till he made the rich man wince; But—an uncle left him money, and he hasn't shouted since.

PAT'S REGRETS.

Pat was very downhearted. He had just spent his savings to pay his passage over to this country from Ireland. He was roaming idly about the docks on the river front in Montreal, when he chanced to see a diver climb up out of the water, take off his helmet, roll up his suit and walk away. "Sure," said Pat, "if I had had sense enough I would have bought me a suit like that and walked over myself!"

THIS JOB LASTS.

A field marshal never retires, but remains on the active list and draws full pay till the day of his death.

Over 4,000,000 pens are destroyed daily.

Nearly 30 per cent. of all flowers are white.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS WRITTEN—IN SIAM.

The proprietors of a Siamese newspaper have distributed handbills containing the following notice:—

"The news of English we tell the latest. Writ in perfectly style and most earliest. Do a murder git commit, we hear of and tell it. Do a mighty chief die, we publish it. And in borders of Siam, Staff has each one been collected, and write like the Kipling and the Dickens. We circle every town and extortionate not for advertisements. Buy it. Buy it. Tell each of you its greatness for good. Ready on Friday, Number first."

THE SOCIETY EDITOR'S TROUBLES

Sporting Editor—"At a lot of these swell affairs you are assigned to I don't see how you can tell the guests from the waiters."

Society Editor—"With the country dry it is harder than ever. Previously I could always spot the waiters because they were sober."

IN NO DANGER.

Michael Dugan, a plumber was sent by his employer to the Hightower mansion to repair a gas leak in the drawing-room. When the butler admitted him he said to Dugan:

"You are requested to be careful of the floors. They have just been polished."

"There's no danger iv me slippin' on them," replied Dugan. "I hov spikes in me shoes."

Many a woman wants her husband to become famous so she can snub certain other women she has a grudge against.

Strike, but hear.
(Saying of Themistocles when Eurymachus, commander of the Spartan Fleet, raised his staff to strike him.)

The palace of the former German Emperor in Berlin at one time kept 500 housemaids and 1,800 liveried footmen in employment.

A Persian carpet has been in use for over 200 years in the main hall of the Shah's palace in Teheran.

THE GENTLE HINT!

"May I—er—kiss your hand, Miss Dolly?" "Oh, I suppose so. But it would be so much easier for me to remove my veil than my gloves."

"THE WISH IS FATHER—"
"What would you do if I turned you down?" she asked shyly, as they sat on the sofa.

The young man looked straight ahead, but said nothing. After a few moments of silence she nudged him with her elbow and said, "Didn't you hear my question?"

He looked around apprehensively. "I beg your pardon, he replied, "I thought you were addressing the gas."

Then gently scan your brother man, Still gentler, sister woman; Though they may gang apennin' wran, To step aside is human.

HER LITERARY ASSISTANCE.

"My husband has found a way by which he says I am of the greatest help to him in his literary work." "How nice that must be for you, my dear! But how are you able to do it?" "As soon as I see him at his desk I go into another room and keep perfectly quiet until he has finished!"

Wants Everybody in St. John's to Know What Tanlac Will Do

Cole Says He Believes It Most Wonderful Medicine On Earth.

"If everybody in St. John's knew what I know about Tanlac there's not a one who wouldn't think just as I do—that it's worth its weight in gold," said Walter Cole, top of Pleasant Street, in a statement while at Connor's Drug Store recently.

Mr. Cole was born and reared in St. John's and is only here for a short stay, visiting the home of his boyhood. He has made Calgary, Alberta, Canada, his home for the past eleven years, and it was there that his experience with Tanlac began.

"I am soon going back to Calgary," Mr. Cole continued, "and before I leave St. John's I want to tell the people how Tanlac has helped me and what a wonderful medicine it is. I had been in a very badly run-down condition for nearly a year, following an attack of 'flu' last November. I was left with an appetite and such a bad stomach that what little I did eat seemed to do me no good. My heart would beat like a trip hammer at times, especially after the least exertion, and my nerves were so upset that I could hardly sleep. I was under special treatment and took a number of different kinds of medicine, but seemed to get no better, and I had become discouraged thinking nothing could help me."

"I first got Tanlac in Calgary, because it was helping so many people there, and I had not been taking it but a few days until I could feel my strength returning. I remember being introduced to a frail little woman in Innisville, Alberta, who had no color in her cheeks and looked like she might be suffering all the time. When I saw her a few weeks later I had to be introduced to her again. She had undergone such a wonderful change that I failed to recognize her and when I asked her what had made such a big difference in her health she told me she had been taking Tanlac. Right then and there I determined to try the medicine myself, and while I have not finished my second bottle there has already been a remarkable change in me. My appetite is so big I can hardly get enough to eat and my food seems to agree with me perfectly, as I never have any trouble with my stomach no matter what I eat. I have also been entirely relieved of palpitation and nervousness, and can lie down at night and sleep like a child. I have gotten rid of that tired, worn-out feeling and have picked up in strength until I am like a different man. I don't believe there's another medicine on earth that equals Tanlac and I would advise anyone in a run-down condition to try it."

There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac, which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and increasing the vitality of the system. Next, it enables the weak, worn-out stomach to thoroughly digest its food, permitting the nourishing elements to be converted into blood, bone and muscle.

It overcomes, it is said, that great exciting cause of disease—weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic, keeps the mind clear and energetic and throws off the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It cures the body of physical weakness by disease and mental and physical overwork, quickens convalescence and is an unfailing source of comfort to all suffering from such troubles.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac Representative.—adv.

"Cheerio."

(From the London Chronicle.)
An American clergyman told a Mansion House prayer meeting the other day that he had heard a new word which he intended to take to New York. It was "Cheerio!" In "Cheerio!" he found vision and vitality. "Cheerio!" is only one of many "war words" that we can ill afford to lose. Without going deeply into psychology one may bear in mind the power of "suggestion." The man with the cheerful word on his lips and the smile on his face—though it may be a conscious effort at first to get them there—will undoubtedly gain a happier outlook on life, and the troubles that once seemed overwhelming will be seen as trivial matters that smiling courage can overcome. During the war our men learned in hard places the value of the deliberate and painstaking smile and cherry word. It meant just the little bit of extra strength and spirits that mattered in the midst of death and discomfort, when a man shouted "Cheerio!" to his comrades. And how many men have been lifted out of weariness that was night unto despair by singing on the march "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile! Smile! Smile!" It would be hard to say. These cherry sayings and this cherry attitude are just as much wanted to-day. We want them to help us to face the difficulties and trials that still beset the nation. We shall have failed to profit by one of the most valuable lessons of the war if we do not remember the value of "suggesting" cheerfulness to ourselves and to our fellow-countrymen.
