

Watch your tongue

The tongue is the mirror of the digestive tract and upon its surface is reflected the result of digestive disorders. Examine your tongue frequently and when you find it coated with "fur", or unnatural in appearance, heed Nature's signal.

Indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia and constipation are responsible for most of the ailments of mankind. Sleeplessness, headache, nervousness and many ailments follow in their train. Restore your digestion by using Beecham's Pills. They clear the tongue, remove the bad taste, strengthen the stomach and bowels, activate the liver, promote the digestion and assimilation of food and make you feel strong and well.

Dissolution of Egyptian Parliament Follows Immediately Upon the Opening.—British Government Approves Singapore Naval Project.—Montreal Judge Imposes Stiff Sentence for Crimes

EGYPTIAN PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED.

CAIRO, Mar. 23.

Following the election of ex-Premier Zagloul Pasha to the presidency the chamber of deputies in the Egyptian Parliament which met today, the ministry tendered its resignation which the King refused to accept. Premier Pasha thereupon dissolved Parliament.

BRITAIN APPROVES.

LONDON, Mar. 23.

The Government to-night received another parliamentary vote of approval on its Singapore policy, when the House of Commons, by 280 to 189, rejected Ramsay MacDonald's motion to reduce the naval vote as a protest against building the naval base at Singapore.

EGYPT'S POLITICAL CRISIS.

CAIRO, Mar. 23.

The Egyptian parliament which opened at ten o'clock this morning with much ceremonial and grandeur ceased to exist by eight o'clock tonight. The session was probably the shortest in the history of Egypt. The collapse was considered a striking victory for former Premier Zagloul Pasha, who all along maintained that the results in the recent elections had justified his opponents no justification for forming a Government. The Pasha came with dramatic suddenness, the Zagloul Pasha had been elected to the Presidency, the House adjourned at five o'clock. A special session was present but not a single member of the Ministry was present. The House was electing its officers and Premier Ziwari Pasha entered, advised by his ministers who had been holding a Council. Amid tense scenes Ziwari read a decree dissolving Parliament.

FINES REDUCED.

TORONTO, Mar. 23.

Reduction to $60,000 of the fine of $600,000 levied on Amelius Jarvis, Sr., when he was found guilty with Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, of Ontario, of having defrauded the Province in connection with the purchase for the Ontario Government of duty free bonds, is the decision of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Ontario, handed down this morning. No alteration is made in the six months county jail sentence and unless payment of the sixty thousand is made there will be a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. In the case of Peter Smith the fine was reduced to $100,000 with the provision that his present three years prison term be extended to eight years if the fine is not paid.

WON BET BUT LOST LIFE.

YONKERS, New York, Mar. 23.

After winning a bet that he could drink a pint of whiskey without stopping, Barney Williams was found dead in the yard of his home this morning.

NEXT MOVE MUST COME FROM BESCO.

HALIFAX, Mar. 23.

"In the ordinary course of events it is natural to assume that the next move will come from the Corporation," said Premier E. H. Armstrong, of Nova Scotia, this evening. In the course of a discussion on the progress being made towards settlement of the wage dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and United Mine Workers of America that has tied up coal mining in the Province for the past two weeks. Vice-President J. E. McLaughlin announced at Sydney this morning that a statement might be forthcoming from the Corporation later in the day, but up to a late hour to-night it had not made its appearance. In well-informed circles to-night indications were, it was stated, that the Corporation would accept as a basis for further negotiations, the memorandum submitted by Deputy Minister of Mines T. J. Brown, for consideration of the Premier, the U.M.W., Executive and Besco, with the single proviso that the miners first return their maintenance men to the pits in line with the Company's demand of last week. Premier Armstrong reiterated to-night that he was fully confident the miners would order their maintenance men back, if the exigencies of the situation demanded such a course. The memorandum referred to provides for an interim contract at the 1924 rates to run until January 15, 1926; the appointment of a commission to investigate the costs of selling and producing coal and to report before the provisional contract expires; a more equitable distribution of work among the collieries. The United Mine Workers have already commented on this tentative basis for further negotiations, in a message addressed to the Premier and made public Saturday, accepting it in the main but stressing the need for (1) guaranteed minimum of work in order to prevent recurrence of the present distress conditions; (2) extension of the contract to February 15, 1926, and (3) prompt recognition of the part of the Provincial Government of systematic relief measures. The Premier stated to-night that he had not as yet received this communication. He stated further that he would have no announcement to give out to-night regarding relief. He had not contemplated going to Cape Breton.

CANADA'S WHEAT SUPPLY.

OTTAWA, March 23.

The report that Canada has only 35,000,000 bushels of wheat available for export as compared with 135,000,000 this last year is incorrect, stated Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, this morning. We have twice that much in sight in Port Arthur elevators alone; we have about 40,000,000 bushels awaiting for the opening of navigation on the Lakes, then we have large quantities in elevators in Calgary, Edmonton, Port Colborne, Montreal and other points.

PAISH OPTIMISTIC.

WINNIPEG, March 23.

"I am confident the world is on the verge of the greatest expansion of trade ever seen and in this movement towards prosperity, Canada has obtained a running start," said Sir George Paish, distinguished British economist, on arrival here to-day.

IF PEACE BE HIS AT NIGHT.

A man can stand the fight by day
If peace be his at night.
For he can put his doubts away
If home with love is bright.
But let him come to grief or care,
Let quarrels break his rest,
Then with the burdens he must bear
He'll never do his best.

The things which make a man supreme.

Are courage, strength and skill,
But one with these may often seem
To falter and stand still;
And heavy heart and troubled mind
Can seldom bravely fight,
For man must know that he will find
A welcoming smile at night.

Give him a wife whose love is true,
And children well and strong,
And he will brave the battle through
Although the day be long;
But once let fear or rage disturb
The great heart in his breast,
On strength and skill there is a curb
And he'll not do his best.

For those he loves, a man's a man.

And not for selfish gain,
The heart does more than courage can,
And more than flesh or brain;
The home he keeps has bitter foes
Than those he leaves to fight.
By day a man can stand the blows,
If peace be his at night.

President Wolvin's Statement

AMUSE TORONTO AND MONTREAL FINANCIERS.

Mouled Interests to the West Look for "Fireworks" at Meeting of Board of Directors—Are British Investors Satisfied With Conditions?

(Special to the Post.)

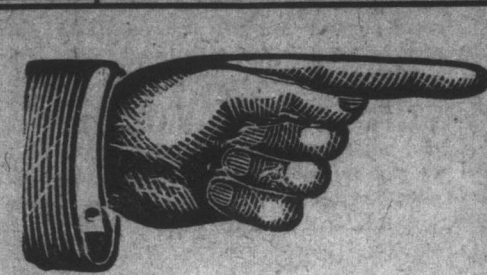

Montreal, March 14.—Financial circles in Montreal and Toronto are amused over denials by President Wolvin of Empire Steel that D. H. McDougal is seeking control of his organization. The street here is confident that a movement in this direction has been under way for some time, and while it may not be consummated at the forthcoming meeting of directors, something of the sort is bound to eventually happen. But the most interesting part of Mr. Wolvin's statement is to the effect that English financiers are not dissatisfied with the manner in which the business of the corporation is being conducted in Cape Breton. If the Britons, who have their money invested in the coal and steel trades are satisfied with the way things are going in the Maritime Provinces, they must indeed be easily pleased. There is bound to be fireworks at the directors' meeting, but what will be the final outcome of that session is a matter of considerable conjecture here.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

Now let us put our heads together, you and I, little readers, and try to remember where we left off in the last story. You all must know by this time that your Uncle Dave is doing his best to tell you of the habits of the birds that arrive early in the spring. Yes, that's what I'm striving to do with the help of dear Uncle Lucky, wise old Professor Crow and our Little Jack Rabbit. So, here we go, my typewriter and I, to tell you what happened after I wrote yesterday's story.

Well, as Uncle Lucky and his small bunny nephew hopped along, now bearing the Bluebird's happy song, now Bobbie Redvest from a tree pore forth a flood of melody, (Dearest me! There goes my typewriter into poetry, just like Bill Shakespeare or Robert Louis Stevenson. Wonderful machine I have, with a purple ribbon on it and a little iron bonnet!) these two Uncle Lucky, "But listen; maybe we will hear a song." Sure enough, in a few minutes the bunny boy heard their call note—a faint, hissing sound.

"They are among the best singers in the Sparrow family," went on kind Uncle Lucky, "but as I said before, they sing but little in the Spring. But when they do, it sounds like a deep, rich carol."

Just then the little rabbit stepped on a dry twig, which breaking with a snap frightened away the Fox Sparrows. Away they flew, showing their white under parts, heavily streaked and spotted with brown and black.

"There they go up to Alaska for the summer," laughed wise old Uncle Lucky, "but they will come back to spend the winter in Virginia."

"Dear me," exclaimed the little rabbit, "what a long journey. I should think their wings would grow tired." "Your four little feet would," answered Uncle Lucky. "But wings are strong and seldom tire." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Away they flew
