His fellow-middy, whom he was designated to relieve, and who wanted to turn in, endeavored to arouse the prince. The latter, after receiving two or three good shakings, suddenly opened his eyes, swore a big cath and let drive his fist at his fellow middy's right eye. The young fellow made no response, but returned to his post, resumed his watch and thus did duty for the prince. But on the following day he stated his case and showed his eye to his comrades. The midshipman held a drumhead ccurt martial, found the prince guilty and sentenced him to be spauked by the lad whose eye he had blackened. Accordingly the royal culprit was seized by four of the seniors and held face downward on a table, while the midshipman with the disfigured optic, his sleeves rolled up to his elbows, carried out the sentence of the midshipmen's court until his hands smarted. When the prince was released he was furious with rage and threatened vengeance, but in a day or two he thought better of it and came to his messmate who had spanked him and apologized for the blow which he had given him. The midshipman accepted his apology and tendered his own in return for the spanking which he had administered. During the remainder of the cruise the prince put on no airs, but was as agreeable and charming a young fellow as could be. There is no doubt that he was benefited by the spanking.

BURKE DISPUTES HIM. An Alleged Relative of the Grand Old

NewBurg, N. Y., July 29.—A young William Ewart Gladstone, is in St. Like's hospital here, ill with intermittent lever. He says he is Frank Gladstone, son of Sir Join Gladstone, who has a country place at Musselberg, Scotland, and an estate in Stirlingshire. He quarre'ed with his father last October and came to the United States

Kan., in partnership with a Bostonian named Frederick R. Wentworth.

During his absence on a visit to England last May Gladstone says a check arrived for some cattle which the partners had shipped to Liverpool. Wentworth, he says, misappropriated the check and fled to Denver. This was too much for Gladstone, and figuring that he had lost $15,000 or $20,000, he decided to go home. At Tuxedo last Friday he fell ill and came to St. Luke's Hospital.

It appears, by "Burke's Peerage," that Sir John Robert Gladstone, baronet, of the county of Kincardine, Sectland, who is a nephew of the Rt. Hon. William E. Gladstone, has no son and no wife, and that Sir John was born in 1852, whereas the alleged Frank Gladstone is said to be 25 years old. Neither does the name of Frank Gladstone appear in connection with any other members of the Gladstone family mentioned in

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—An afternoon paper reports a riot on a Baltimore and Ohio train near Whitehall this morning between non-union men on their way to Homestead and guards on the train. It is alleged that when the men learned they were bound for Homestead a number do, manded permission to get off. The guards refused and a general fight ensued, in which two men were seriously injured. Thirty-five of the men then escaped and the others went through to their destination. When the men left Cincinnati they did not know they were being taken to tion. When the men left Cincinnati they did not know they were being taken to Homestead, and when they found it out they rebelled. That is how the riot started. Joseph Maaning, a resident of Cincinnati, about 20 years of age, says he will make affidavit to this. After leaving Cincinnati, says Manning, all the doors were locked and the windows fastened down and we were not allowed to open them. Early ning, all the doors were locked and the windows fastened down and we were not allowed to open them. Early this morning we had all been sleeping and when we awoke were surprised to find both doors to our cars guarded by a watchman with a gun. Some of the puddlers approaching one of the guards asked: "Where are you going to work?" "At Homestead," was the reply. The puddlers then gathered around the guard and demanded that the doors be unlocked and that they be allowed to leave the car. The guard refused to let them pass, and then the puddlers jumped on him and there was a terrible scene. Every man in the car jumped from his seat, some making for the doors; others tried to break through the windows and some got into a fight. At Whitehall the guard was thrown from his position and the door burst open. The men commenced to jump off and they kept dropping off all the way to the city. I escaped in the crowd at the depot. The other men, I suppose, went to Homestead. The guards made no attempt to shoot, but used their guns as clubs. Several of the men were severely injured, one losing a thumb. I do not think a man on the of the men were severely injured, on losing a thumb. I do not think a man on th train knew we were destined to Homestead train knew we were destined to Homestead for when that place was mentioned they became frantic. Circlity to Animals.

San Luis Potosi, Mexico, July 29.—A sickening sight was witnessed here last night at a buil fight by electric light in the new ring near the city. There were 5,000 persons present, including a number of American ladies and gentlemen. The matador, Alberto Limertura, was in the act of giving the third bull a thrust with his short sword, when he stopped and fell. The frenzied buil had him en his horns in a moment and was goring him ferociously, which three of the banderilieros rushed to the rescue. They flaunted their searlet cloaks in front of the bull a number of times without attracting his attention from the fallen ratador. Suddenly the built charged upon one of the banderilleros who sought protection behind a barrier erected for that purpose. The built overtook him and caught him up on the sharp points of his horns, which penetrated entirely through the man's body. The crowd was wild with excitement, the Mexicans cheering the built for his grand fighting qualities, and when the bugle sounded the call for the man to come in and lasso the mad animal to be killed, the spectators protested vehemently against such action.
