

MAJOR COGILAN GIVEN COMMAND

Officer Who Offered Full Battery to Canada Receives Appointment.

MAY NOT TRAIN HERE

Likely To Be Sent to Petawawa and May Be Enlisted at Guelph.

Major F. T. Cogilan, officer commanding the 11th Howitzer Battery, of Guelph, has been appointed to command the new 25th Battery of Field Artillery that is to be raised in this division for overseas service.

This announcement was made by Col. L. W. Shannon, divisional officer commanding, this afternoon.

Call for Recruits.

Recruiting is to start immediately, but where has not been decided. Neither is any announcement being made as to the mobilization centre for the new unit or where it will be trained. These questions will be decided following a conference between Major Cogilan and Col. Shannon.

Some time ago Major Cogilan offered a complete battery for service. He declared that he could raise the necessary officers and men from his own command. This offer was never accepted by the Government, but it is possible that it may be done now.

May Go to Petawawa.

It has been previously stated that the new artillery unit would not be trained in this division because of the absence of proper area for artillery manoeuvring. Petawawa has been mentioned as the training spot of the 25th, but in any event it is hardly likely to be trained in this city.

In view of the fact that the 24th was taken from Guelph, it is said that it is not an unlikely proposition that the new battery will be mobilized there and given its preliminary training.

COASTING STEAMER SUNK IN COLLISION

Crew of Nine on Gertrude All Lost Off Irish Coast.

[Canadian Press.]

Liverpool, June 9.—The coasting steamer Gertrude, 353 tons, was sunk off the Irish coast on Sunday in a collision with the Ellerman liner City of Vienna.

The nine men in the Gertrude's crew were lost.

NEWS OF ITALY

ENTERING FRAY

CHEERS TROOPS

Pte. James Murray Says Enemy Is Being Driven Back.

"We are slowly driving the enemy back, and now that the Italians are in it, I hope it will not take long, as we are getting rather tired of it," writes Pte. James Murray, of the 1st Battalion, 2nd Brigade, to E. B. Galpin of 92 Kent street, this city. "It seems terrible the devastation the war has caused."

No Refuge For Rat.

"As I sit here in the trenches in the warm sunshine, in what is probably the best farming country in France, a magnificent chateau or country residence stands immediately behind us, or what remains of it. It was smashed so badly that a rat could hardly find refuge in it. A large orchard is riddled by shrapnel bullets so badly as to be of no more use. On the other hand, we have a German trench that is not so sickening. Bodies lying on top of each other three deep. The old saying that war is hell is nearly the correct version."

Explosions Only Sound.

"Well, as news is very slim and the only sounds we hear are the explosions, bursting, and as this is not very interesting I will have to close."

SICK BROTHER HOME

UNKNOWN TO RELATIVES

Young Man Lay in Waiting-Room for Some Hours.

Emaciated and in the last stage of tuberculosis, and too weak to walk, a young man arrived in London early this morning from Chicago. His home is in Ingersoll and his brother lives on Wellington road. The latter was not advised of his brother's arrival before-hand. The sick man refused to go to a hospital, although Dr. F. P. Drake, who was called to the baggage-room at the G. T. R. station, where the man lay for several hours, strongly advised him to go.

His brother had him removed to his home several hours after he had been at the station.

IS WELL TREATED

That the Red Cross in England is untiring in its efforts to render comfort and service to injured Canadians is shown by a letter received by Joseph Davies, of 253 Egerton street, regarding his son, Pte. William Davies, a dispatch rider with the 1st Battalion.

Beatrice Carnhill writes that an authorized visitor has seen Pte. Davies and that he is doing well and being well looked after. The letter was not him cigarettes and Canadian newspapers.

Mr. Davies will leave within a short time to visit his father before he leaves for the front. William had his wrist fractured by falling from his bicycle when carrying a dispatch.

Every One Packet of

WILSON'S

FLY PADS

WILL KILL MORE FLIES THAN

500 OTHERS OF ANY

STICKY FLY CATCHER

BORDEN INVITES QUEBEC MAN TO BE SECRETARY OF STATE

J. M. Tellier, Leader of Provincial Opposition, Asked to Enter Dominion Cabinet in Place of Hon. Louis Coderre.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 9.—J. M. Tellier, Opposition leader of the Quebec Legislature, has been invited to enter the Borden Government as Secretary of State, taking the place of Hon. Louis Coderre, who is going on the superior court bench in the place of the late Coderre.

Judge Beaudin. He will give his answer this week.

"Should he decline to enter the federal administration, J. E. Patenaude, Conservative organizer for Montreal, or Joseph Ranville, M. P., will be brought in as minister of inland revenue, and Hon. P. E. Blondin will go up to the secretary of state."

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, June 9.—William Jennings Bryan, formerly left his office as secretary of state today and Robert Lansing, counselor of the state department, was appointed by President Wilson as secretary of state ad interim.

The change in the Cabinet at a critical moment in the nation's history took effect with the dispatch of the note to Germany.

Mr. Bryan told his colleagues and friends today as they gathered about him in farewell that his affection for President Wilson was unchanged and that he knew the President felt as warmly toward him.

Daniels Not Retiring.

The close personal relationship of Mr. Bryan and the President will be reflected in the former secretary's future course, it was learned today authoritatively. Mr. Bryan intended to continue a staunch political supporter of Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Bryan, in taking leave of state department employees, told them the "rewards of life are not to be found either in the money we make or in the honors we enjoy."

"The real honors are affections we feel for each other," he said.

Touching Good-Bye.

Promptly at 12 o'clock, Mr. Bryan left the state department and went to the White House, where President Wilson received him. For fifteen minutes the President and Mr. Bryan talked, exchanging words of farewell. The secretary was making his last official call on the President, but nevertheless the personal element was strong.

Cordially and without any trace of feeling, the two men talked of the situation which resulted in Mr. Bryan's resignation. Each spoke disparagingly of the differences and his belief that the other was doing what he thought best for the United States. Those who were after another rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the President was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together during the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and lauded hands. "God bless you" said each as their hands touched.

PRUSSIAN FIRE ON SAXONS GING UP

British Eyewitness Adds His Testimony Confirming This Assertion.

KING HONORS CANADIAN

Lt.-Col. E. J. Duff of Halifax Invested With Order of Bath.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, June 9.—Lieut.-Col. E. J. Duff, A.S. Field Artillery, belonging to Halifax, and educated at Kingston, was received by the King at Buckingham Palace and invested with the order of the Bath.

Major Lorne Ross returns to Canada this week with a draft of Canadian soldiers who were taken by the British. The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.

The British eyewitness has added recently that the Prussians had fired upon Saxons troops when they saw the latter surrendering to the British. This statement was stigmatized as a lie by German military authorities.

The Canadian emigration department announces the death in active service of two members, Ernest Peddie, of the London regiment, who had been in the emigration department ten years, and Corp. Edward Price, of King Edward Hospital, whose body was found after an engagement in the Dardanelles.