4 HONEST THANKSGIVING.

The Salvation Army are Having a Won-derful Time These Days. To say that the Salvation Army is at at any particular time especially enthusiastic means much. However, just now oldiers is so great that it is in danger of overflowing, for they are now holding their great annual Harvest Thanksgiving Festival. To understand the enthusiasm occaval. To understand the enthusiasm occasioned by this fair, for such it is, it is necessary to remember that the Salvation Army throughout Canada and the United States has contributed to build up the exhibit now in the Central Barracks.

Yesterday afternoon General Booth, standing in front of the Army Barracks, with his officers and soldiers around him, and looking out upon the banners, streamers and flags that decorated Albert-street from the barracks east to Yonge-street, addressed the large audience that gathered to see the opening of the army festival. He said he had been taught to love and believe in the army, and he thanked God for it. (Here the people shouted "amen" with a right good will.) He then extended a hearty welcome to all the visitors.

After several other officers had spoken the commandant proceeded to open the axhibit "in the recommandant proceeded to open the axhibit the through and restores health and restores health and refersing sleep, and restores the commandant proceeded to open the exhibit, "in the name of my wife, of the Army and of God," praying that it might prove a blessing to those who visited it.

While the colors of the Army were being hoisted the people sang,
"We will lift up the banner on high."
The salvation banner on high."
We will fight beneath its colors till we die, and we'll march to our home on high."

All around the sides are various stalls from Toronto and the different parts of the province. One very tasty little stand is that furnished by the "grateful girls" of the Rescue Home. The object of this Fair, of which everything has been furnished free to the Army, is to support the "Rescue Homes" (of which there are six), the "Childrens' Shelter," the "Drunkards' Home" and the "Working Mens' Hotels."

The articles in the Barracks have been sent from all parts of Canada and the United States. There is wood from California, wheat from Manitoba, two steers from Culgary, and twenty-five tons of coal from the United States. Several thousand dollars will probably be raised to carry on the work the Army has in hand. There were present yesterday among others, Commandant Booth, Brigadiers Dr. Barrett, Toronto; Holland, West Ontario; Jacobs, Newfoundland and the East Maryetts, Manitoba, and over two hundred

Rev. Prof. Clark could be induced to declare for the abolition of exemptions I do not believe that sx months would elapse before every church in Ontario would fall into line, for the churches that these gentlement represent have so far been the staunchest defenders of tax exemptions and Government grants for their respective religious institutions.

I fail to understand, however, how the poor man who does not use the churches is forced to bear the expense of maintaining them. If the church buildings were all as costly as St. James' Cathedral or St. Michael's Cathedral, this poor man's burden would be greater according to your theory, but in fact it does not make any difference to him whether they cost $200 or $200,000 each; the churches are built by private tunds subscribed for that purpose, and surely it is not a burden on taxpayers as such for a congregation to erect a beautiful edifice in which to worship God. On the contrary, it is a benefit.

Let us establish our system of taxation it is a benefit.

Let us establish our system of taxation Let us establish our system of taxation on a just and correct basis and then ask the churches to bear their equitable share, paying for what they get and getting what they pay for. Let there be one tax only for the raising of public revenue and that on the value of all land, irrespective of the use that is made of it. It is not, then, a matter of public concern when it is used for tin can pastures, market gardens, houses or churches.

We cannot make people either religious houses or churches.

We cannot make people either religious or patriotic by taxation, so let it be confined to its only legitimate use, namely, the support of government.

B. KIRK.

Church has again entered its earnest and emphatic protest against tax exemptions, = particularly of ecclesiastical property, by paying their taxes on that church, Lowest Market Prices amounting to over $1000; and by so doing ft has administered a stern rebuke to all the rest of the churches that profit and participate in a glaring wrong and manifest injustice. The only sound principle of taxation is that all property of whatever description should bear and pay its fair share of the burden. It is indeed a startling share of the burden. It is indeed a startling fact that the tax exemptions in this city amount to nearly one-sixth of the total assessment, so that the general taxpayer is virtually robbed to pay other people's taxes as well as his own. So long as such an injunitous system exists.

Telephysical P. Burns & Co. taxation will be an insufferable burden and a fraud upon the community. No wonder the people are groaning and and suffering so much under the villainous tax bills presented to them for payment. Property in this city has become a liability instead of an asset, for the official administration have by their imbecility and reckless extravagance loaded it up with mortgage claims almost equivalent to confiscation. The abolition of all tax exemptions would afford a very material relief, and would simply be an act of common justice. and afford a very material relief, and would simply be an act of common justice, and shou d be demanded as a right. I trust this matter will be taken up in earnestness, as it affects the welfare of the people generally. I would suggest that an anti-tax exemption association be formed and organize for the purpose of agitating this great and necessary reform.

TIPS FROM WALL-STREET.

Monroe, Miller & Co. of New York send the following despatch over their private wire to their Toronto office, No. 20 King-street east:

New York, Sept. 11—The stock market was dull and irregular in the early hours. It subsequently ralled under the aggressive manipulation of the Keene, Waite party. London was a liberal seller of St. Paul and Atchison on the unfavorable Government crop report. A large short interest was disclosed on sugar, but the advance in the common did not receive the endorsement of inside interests. The weekly meltings of the refineries are to be increased, but the wholesale grocery trade appears to be well supplied, and a further advance in refined is not contemplated. A sudden demand sprang up for St. Paul about noon, and heavy purchases by the Vanderbilt brokers forced the smaller shorts to close outstanding contracts. The general belief is that the full semi-annual dividend of 2 percent, will be declared on the common at Thursday's meeting of the board. The directors are not unanimous on the subject, and a protest will be filed. Currency is a little scarcer at interior cities, notably Philadelphia, while several prominent institutions have had to apply to money brokers for relief in connection with their pay roll requirements. The Western Union directors will recommend to morrow a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, but the bears contend that such a distribution is not warranted by the net earnings for the current three months, as there will be no surplus for the contingency fund. The W.U. directors not the contingency fund. The W.U. directors not the contingency fund. The W.U. directors not the capital stock of $10,000,000,000, because nothing has been expended for construction. Manhattan has scored the greatest advanced the Gould properties, and it is confidently intimated that Mr. G. J. Gould and Mr. Russell Sage will ask the rapid transit commission to re-open TELEPHONE 1352.
