NOTE AND COMMENT

Austrians have stripped all the churches in invaded regions of bells and are now even digging in the cemeteries in order to obtain zinc from the coffins. The population is indignant. The people who protested were shot.

Cleveland Plain Dealer—It is reported that the Kaiser is seeking a substitute for the German national anthem. Why worry? He will soon be given his choice of the "Marseillaise," "God Save the King" or "The Star-Spangled Banner."

"O Canada" should be sung in instier fashion than ever before. The land of plenty, the land of beauty, the land of heroes and heroines. This surely is the land of the stalwart and free. It's up to her people to keep the record clean by putting out, forever, all that would debase and becloud. Every resident should have high ideals and do their best to live up to them.

"Prior to the war" said Mr. H. B. Thomson, Chairman of the Canada Food Board, addressing the Fisheries Association at Halifax, "Canada had barely enough beef to satisfy home needs, but today because of increased conservation and other factors, this country is able to export enough to feed an army of 500,000 soldiers at the front."

A tramp was one day walking along a country road in the south of Ireland, and seeing an old lady comfortably seated at her window looking out he knelt down and commenced to eat the grass on the lawn. The lady, noticing him, came outside and said: "My poor man, you must be very hungry." "Yes, ma'am," he said. "I haven't had a bite to eat for the past two days." "Ah, my poor man," she replied, "I'm sorry, but if you just go around to the back of the house, the grass is much longer there."

for a suit of men's clothes that in 1914 could purchased for $25, is the opinion of Ludwig Stein, of B. Kuppenheimer & Co, of New York. Stein told members of the national association of retail clothiers at New York that suits selling at between $15 and $25 before the war were not luxuries but necessities. A suit costing $15 in 1914 will sell this fall for $26, and $35 next spring. Stein said he did not believe the government would tax clothes selling below $65 retail.

IN LONDON TOWN.

Some Activities In Which the Canadians Are Interested.

The Canadians in London are busy at the work which comes to hand and there seems an ever-increasing demand to minister to the needs of the troops.

The latest appeal comes from Lt.-Col. T. E. Perrott of Regina, whose sight has been impaired during this war, and who is an inmate of the St. Dunstan's Hostel for men blinded during the war.

There are a number of Canadians who have suffered this sad affliction and who are learning to do many things in this wonderful school founded by Sir Arthur Pearson to alleviate the sufferings of men who must live in total darkness, for King and Empire's sake. Col. Perrott says that the Canadians wish to keep in touch with all Canadian matters, with home folk and home news, and asks the Canadians in London to visit them regularly and by talking with them, keep them in touch with what is happening at home.

They miss the newspapers which, of course, they are unable to read. A number of people will take turns visiting them, and helping them to pass the time.

Some English ladies have organized themselves and have given little dances and musicals for the officers of St. Dunstan's and I am told they enjoy them very much.

One is filled with amazement to see the St. Dunstan men walking about in Regent's Park. They are taught to walk without fear and have very little of the appearance of being blind.

When Sir Arthur Pearson lost his sight the literary world was filled with sorrow that so brilliant a man had been laid by, but there has not been a greater work performed for the men who have suffered in this fight for freedom than that which he has done for the blind. It is worthy of the greatest support that can be given to it and the Canadians in London have from the first taken a keen interest in its working.

The Canadian nurses are very comfortable in the lovely nurses' club, which has been provided for them at Lancaster Gate through the I.O.D.E. It was formally opened by her Royal Highness, Princess Patricia, and in its well furnished and spacious rooms the women whose professional work has received so much favorable comment will find a beauty and quietude which will be so much needed after their trying work on active service and the exacting demands which hospitals filled to the utmost must make upon them. Lady Perley and Mrs. George McL. Brown looked very happy as they left the building after the opening. These untiring workers must share with the Countess of Minto and the National Chapter I.O.D.E. through Mrs. Albert Gooderham of Toronto, their regent, the credit for bringing such a splendid home into existence for the nurses of the Land of the Maple whose pretty uniforms add such a pleasing touch of color to the greyness of old London Town.

On Duty.

Abe, who was new to the army, was placed on guard. During the day all had gone smoothly, and he was gaining in self-assurance. Before he went out with his relief at 9 p.m., the corporal asked him if he knew his general orders and how to challenge anyone at night. "Sure," said Abe; "I'll tell him in a high-pitched voice that he should stop." "That's it. 'Halt! Who is there?' but suppose he doesn't stop?" "Vell, I'll tell him voice, then I tell him again, then I'll shoot him in th' head." "Fine," grinned the corporal. "Look out for the officer of the day when he makes his tour of inspection. Halt him sharply. If you don't, woy! Pull in your neck!" "Ha, ha! Don't worry!" Abe had been walking his post for a little more than an hour. The night was clear, and there was a moon. He was getting lonesome, and was just a bit nervous. The trees and shadows made figures that moved with the leaves, and did not answer when challenged. It was disconcerting. A step sounded, and a form came out of the shade along the path. Abe stood with open mouth. The form came into the light of the moon, and Abe recognized the officer of the day. He heaved a great breath of relief and said: "Oh, it's you, is it? By golly, you scared me somethink awful."

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation:

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARY BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

TRAGEDY IN BUCHANAN'S LIFE

Recent Revelations Show Why Statesman Selected No Mate to Share His Greatness.

President James Buchanan died a bachelor. The story of the tragedy that caused him not to marry was brought out during the debate in the house of representatives on a motion to erect a monument to Buchanan in Washington. Gen. Isaac R. Sherwood of Ohio told the story as he heard it from a friend of Buchanan's at the White House forty years ago.

"In his youth James Buchanan's heart was won by the charms of the beautiful Miss Anna C. Coleman, who, like himself, resided in Lancaster, Pa.," said General Sherwood. "They were soon betrothed and were counted the handsomest couple in all the country around. Some time after the engagement had been announced Mr. Buchanan was obliged to go out of town on a business trip. On his return he stopped in to see a Mrs. William Jenkins, who was entertaining a Miss Gracie Hubley, daughter of General Hubley, an officer of the revolutionary war.

"A gossiping young woman told Miss Coleman of Mr. Buchanan's visit and aroused her jealousy. On the spur of the moment she penned an angry note and released him from his engagement. A short time after this incident a party was arranged to go to Philadelphia to attend an opera. Miss Coleman was included in the invitation, and on arriving at Philadelphia, on a plea of indisposition, remained at the hotel. On their return from the opera Miss Coleman was found dead. She had killed herself. This broke James Buchanan's heart, and he never married and never loved another woman."

EVER STAMP WHITE HORSES?

Peculiar Childish Idea Which May Bring Back Old Days to Some of the Readers.

The car was a long time coming, and a very small, dirty and joyous girl on one roller skate confided to an interested bystander that there were "two white horses coming."

"I'll stamp 'em both," she added, and proceeded to lick her thumb and jam it into a soiled pink palm. Twice over it had to be done, with eyes fixed upon the approaching team.

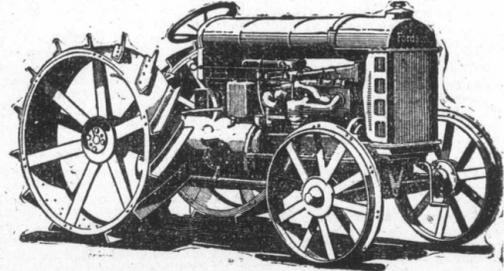

"Why stamp them?" inquired the stranger.

"Why, don't you know? When I stamp a hundred I'll find something. Found a penny last time."

Just then the newspaper boy arrived with his sack, and as he took the money from the wooden bench, a penny rolled toward the gutter. The unkempt little figure swayed on its single skate. A frown of disapproval followed the boy's industrious search. While the pennies were in the bag on the bench, they were property and to be respected. But it was plain to anyone with eyes that a lost penny belonged to the funder—in the code of the little girl.

When it was picked up and dropped into the boy's pocket, she turned to the sympathetic bystander. "Don't you hate boys with freckles?" she asked. "Besides, I'd only stamped seven. Wait till I get 'nuther hundred."
