COTTAGE FOR SALE, GOING OUT A-SHOPPING. or to let for a term of years.

One summer morn my wife and 1" THE subscriber offers for sale, or to let for a term of years, the new and thoroughly finished COTTAGE, situat-ed on the corner of Charlotte & Regent Streets, Did sally forth, I'll tell you why-A thing or two she wish'd to buy, · So we went out a-shopping We took a cab at Kentish town, lately occupied by CAPTAIN WILLIAMSON, of the At Regent street it set us down. 33rd Regt. There is on the premises an excel-And there, at once, went half a crown: lent Stable and other Out Houses, a good Garden, In getting out she tore her gown. a superior Well of WATER, and other convemi-

For Swan and Edgar's we were bound, But ere we walked five yards I found My purse the lighter by a pound, For going out a-shopping. Creeping, peeping, all the day,

Into every window gay, How we tender husbands pay When going out a-shopping

A Polka scarf her fancy caught, "Twas quite a bargain-So she thought-That was the first thing that she bought .

When we went out a-shopping Next door but three she got a cape, Which pleased her by its style and shape Likewise some ribbons and some tape, Thinks I, I'm in a pretty scrape ! The tape, at least was one and three; The ribbon four and let me see,-The cape a guinea touch for me, Through going out a-shopping.

Creeping, Peeping, &c.

Our steps we scarcely onward bent; Three sovereigns for a bonnet went ; . And that's the way the cash was spent

A going out a-shopping. Again I started with my bride, And placed her on my outer side Because I wished the shops to hide ; But ah; she was awake too wide ; She fell in love with a pelisse;

And though I wished the fun would cease, I stretched the point to keep the peace. When we went out a-shopping.

Creeping, Peeping, &c. There went, at once five guineas more,

Which made me feel a little sore. And rather vote the task a bore

Of going out a-shopping. Of stockings next she bought six pair, And four of cuffs though I declare She had of both enough to spare; We spent just thirty shillings there. A pair of earings then she craved, Six guineas ; would the sum were saved ! But ah ! how greenly I behaved,

When we went out a-shop Creeping, peeping, &c.

To Swan and Edger's when we got. Of things she purchased such a lot, A shot sik :-- would it had been shot

Ere we went out a shopping ! A groe de Naples a bombazine, A satinet, a balazrine, A cardinal, a pelerine, And then of velvet, yards fiftcen, Full five-and-forty pounds that morn, As sure as ever I was born,

My lady cost me, I'll be sworn, When we went out a-shopping, companied with a recommendation, which appears not to be very palatable, and to imply at least a latent doubt as to these wishes being immediately complied with-that a clause be added to the Re-A FEW Patent Resperators to be had of F. W. Hathe-way, who from three year's experience, can recom-mend the article to all those who are troubled with weak of the next Session of the Legislature. The increase of population in the Island, one third since 1836, is then alluded to; and is also the comparatively favourable harvest of the past season, and the exemption of the Potato Crop throughout the Island from the desease which has been so destructive in these Provinces and elsewhere, coupled with a recomendation of increased attention to Agriculture ; and beneficial effects of the new lines of road, opened up in consequence of the liberal appropriations of the last three Sessions are next enlarged upon; and attention is called to the necessity of more adequate accommodation of pauper unatics. To improving the drainage and sewerage of the metropolis, to elementary education, and to making some Legislative provision for the retirement of judges when incapacitated by age or infr-mity for the discharge of their office; and the Speech concludes by adverting to impressions prouced on the minds of several distinguished individuals who had visited St. John's during the past summer ; of the decided superiority which that port possesses over every other as an intermedialte point in Steam Navigation, between England and the American continent.

BOSTON, January 31.

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON .- On Monday an important debate arose in the senate, on the Resolution of Mr. Allen, on the "principle of nonintervention" by the powers of Europe in the poli-tical affairs of America, which terminated in a vote granting leave for the introduction of the resolutions, and referring them to a Committee on Foreign Relations, by a majority of 26 to 21. A num-ber of members took part in the debate. Those who entered most fully into it were Messrs Cass, Allen and Calhoun.

In the course of the debate, Mr. Cass said, I still consider danger imminent, not diminished, so far as I know, by the recent arrival. The subject in controversy remains precisely as it was. The juestion was, and is, whether we shall surrender to the British demands, or whether the British government shall surrender to ours. If no such cession is made by either party, the two countries will be brought into conflict. I see no indication that one or the other will sufficiently yield. And there is an article in the London times, of January 2, which does not look as though England would go further in her offer than she had already gone. It is unequivocal and decisive.

"Equality of holding is dictated by justice. Equality of partition between England and the United States is dictated by the convenience of both. What the conditions of this partition ought to be we shall consider on another occasion; but we contend, that both suggestions of strict right and those higher considerations of comprehensive equity forbid us to concede, for one moment, one jot of those advantages, whether of soil, rivers, or harbors, which, for half a century, have been shared with equal security and equal benefit by the subjects of the British Crown, and the Citizens of the United States." And I feel at liberty to say that nothing has been received by the government, by the last packet, which would at all warrant us in suspending or postponing our measures of defence. Mr. Webster. Have they received any advices at all ?

Mr. Cass. They have.

Mr. Webster, Have they received any advices creating any additional necessity for augmenting the defences of the country?

Mr. Cass. I do not know that any of that purport have been received-if I did, I do not know that I should be at liberty to state them. All I know is, that the character of the advice is such as cannot justify any change in our policy. The Bill for building ten War Steamers was taken up in the Senate on Tuesday, January 27, and proposing an appropriation outright for ten war steamers, and proposing also that the land fund be set apart for building ten more.

Mr. Fairfield, of Me, addressed the senate in behalf of his bill. He was answered by Mr. Benton in a speech which produced a profound impression upon the Senate and with all who heard it. Mr. Dickinson, of New York, advocated the passage of the bill, and the discussion was continued by Messrs. Fairfield and Hannegan, and between whom there were some sharp words. Mr. Benton moved that the bill be postponed until the 10th of May, The debate was continued until the Senate went into Executive session. A bill establishing a Post office and post routes
